INTRODUCTION

DURING the greater part of the period 1671-3 the Company's affairs were overshadowed by the war with Holland, and the Court Minutes necessarily reflect the Company's anxieties regarding their trade and possessions, the measures taken for the safety of their ships, and, when peace negotiations were started, their efforts to secure that they should not be overlooked in the settlement of terms, particularly as regards their old grievances against the Dutch.

After the declaration of war in March 1672 the Company were empowered to engage four ships, for the King's service, to be employed as cruisers to the westward to give notice of the war to all British and Irish ships that they might meet (p. 124). The Newcastle and other ships of the Royal Navy were appointed to convoy the Company's inward vessels into the Downs (p. 129 et seq.). In July 1672 the Governor was summoned to attend the King at Whitehall, who told him of 'the great care he had for preserving the East India fleet in this present juncture of affairs' (p. 143). Later, when the Company were considering the steps to be taken as regards their trade in the following year (1673), representations were made to the King, who was graciously pleased to answer and encourage their desire to carry on their trade 'notwithstanding the continued breach between this Kingdom and Holland'.

Sir Andrew Riccard and Robert Thomson were again elected Governor and Deputy respectively in April 1671, and they were followed in these positions by Sir John Banks and Nathaniel Herne in the two ensuing years.

Probably one of the most important events recorded in this volume, in the opinion of the adventurers, was the payment of a dividend for the first time since 1666. The question was considered early in 1671 (p. 33). The stock had been much reduced in 1666, there being then little opportunity to trade because of the war with the Dutch, and since then, it was explained, it had been necessary to employ all the stock and profits arising from it, and also to take up great sums of money at interest to carry on the trade. The Company 'having by the blessing of God, supplied the trade with a convenient stock and seeing that the adventurers desired something', the Court resolved to declare a dividend of 10 per cent—to be allowed to buyers at the next sale in payment of goods and to be paid to others in ready money as fast as it might be received. This might seem, the Governor said, a small proportion after so many years—'God having so much blessed our affairs'—yet for the reasons stated it could not be greater; in the event of continued prosperity the Court would be ready to make such further dividend as would be consistent with carrying on the trade and keeping up their credit (p. 33). In April 1672 a further dividend of 20 per cent was ordered to be issued to all adventurers immediately after a sale was sanctioned, those buying goods at the sale being allowed the dividend in part payment of the same (p. 121). In September 1672 the Generality were informed that, 'it having pleased God to give the Company a considerable return from India this year, the Court have decided to issue a dividend which they hoped to have been able to pay in ready money, but cannot, the urgency of their affairs requiring all that can be raised; but for the satisfaction of the adventurers and to encourage the sale, they have issued one on the terms stated [i.e. 20 per cent], in payment (without discount) for goods bought at the next sale', while those who did not buy had to wait for a cash payment until May 1673 (pp. 168, 169). Towards the end of 1673 a further dividend of 20 per cent was paid, but warrants were not to be delivered to the adventurers until they had cleared their accounts with the Company (pp. 290-1).

When the current Joint Stock was started in 1657 it was laid down that a valuation should be made at the end of the first seven years, followed by others at intervals of three years.<sup>1</sup> This requirement was duly carried out in 1664; but soon afterwards a fresh plan was adopted,<sup>2</sup> by which valuations were in future to be made every seven years or sooner. In accordance with this arrangement a valuation of the General Joint Stock, as on April 30, 1671, was presented in August of that year. It showed stock and debts owing to the Company amounting to £1,003,211; on the other side, debts of £361,287 to several persons, leaving a balance of £645,827 less a liability of £36,989 in respect of the dividend declared in the previous May. There were also considerable contingent profits and 'desperate' debts of £65,543. It was hoped that on the cargoes of twelve ships arrived from the East there would be a clear profit of 50 per cent (p. 70). In the Ledger there still stood £1,700 to the credit of the Trustees of the United Stock.

The ships of the season 1670-1 (five for Bantam and ten for Surat and Madras, referred to in the previous volume, p. vi),<sup>1</sup> carried cargoes of the total value of £294,000. The Bantam ships were ordered to go in company as far as St. Iago (one of the Cape Verd Islands), with guns mounted and decks cleared for defence in case of attack. On arrival at St. Iago 'twenty lusty young negroes, ten men and ten women (for their wives)' were to be bought, for Bantam, as cheaply as possible, not exceeding forty or fifty rials each (p. 6). The five ships for Madras touched at Falmouth, and then put to sea on February 1, 1671 (p. 11). The Anne (Capt. Z. Browne), which had returned from Bantam in April, was again sent there in June carrying 40,000 dollars, followed by the Experiment,<sup>2</sup> the Return, and the Zante Frigate in September (cargo £27,000). In December four ships<sup>3</sup> left for Madras, accompanied by the Anne (Capt. A. Dawes) for Bantam, with a cargo of £161,000 (pp. 75-6). During the year fifteen of the Company's ships arrived home.<sup>4</sup>

News was received in July 1672 that the Falcon had been captured by a Flushing man-of-war off the Lizard in June and taken to Bergen, whereupon the King was asked to approach the King of Denmark for the arrest of the ship, and of the man-of-war and her commander for piracy. The Company desired that two frigates might be sent to Bergen, as although letters had been sent to Copenhagen 'no arrest is like a man-of-war to be by the ship and come out with her if she does'. The Company suggested that in any case the frigates were as likely to find prize that way as any other (pp. 156-8).

In 1672 fifteen<sup>5</sup> vessels arrived home. In February five ships<sup>6</sup> were sent to Bantam (cargo £30,000), followed by four<sup>7</sup> for Surat in March (cargo £85,000). The Humphrey and Elizabeth (Capt. Medford) was dispatched in June to St. Helena with the new Governor (Capt. Anthony Beale) on board. The commanders of the fleet of ten ships<sup>1</sup> that sailed for Madras and Surat in December (cargo £183,000) with Captain William Basse as Admiral, under the convoy of six ships commanded by Captain Richard Munden, were given commissions from the Lord High Admiral, and informed that should there be occasion to engage the enemy they were to remember their obligation, not only by charter-party and in point of honour, but having the commission of His Royal Highness, were to act 'as becomes persons in such commands and trusts' (p. 196).

The ten ships under Basse arrived at the Coromandel Coast in July 1673. After a stay of nine days they left for Masulipatam and on their return voyage to Madras in August met a Dutch squadron of twenty-one ships. The English were defeated, three ships (President, Sampson, and Antelope) and 300 men being captured by the Dutch.<sup>2</sup>

Fifteen<sup>3</sup> ships arrived home in 1673. On the arrival of the Loyal Subject, Barnardiston, and Rebecca at St. Helena they found the Dutch in possession of the island, whereupon the ships proceeded to Ascension Island, where they met the Johanna and Berkeley Castle, and afterwards Captain Munden's fleet,<sup>4</sup> reaching Kinsale in August. The value of the twelve ships expected from India was estimated at £400,000 to £500,000.

The Advice was sent to Bengal towards the end of the year. In December the European, John and Alexander, and Loyal Merchant left for St. Helena.

Towards the end of the year the Surat Committee reported that 650 tons of goods, besides 300 or 400 tons of pepper, were ready for shipment at Surat, the value of the goods provided there and at subordinate factories amounting to about £50,000. They recommended that in addition to the Lancaster and Falcon, the Phoenix should be entertained to go to India and that a stock of £60,000 should be provided for the three vessels, in which 200 soldiers for Bombay were to be carried (p. 293).

<sup>4</sup> According to the introduction to Dr. John Fryer's New Account of East India and Persia (edited by W. Crooke, 1912), Munden had been sent out, not merely to convoy the outward-bound ships, but to meet and escort home those expected from the East.

In 1671 the Company decided that the sheathing of new ships to be built should be at least  $1\frac{1}{4}$  inch thick (p. 42), and that the building of three-decked vessels should be encouraged in preference to those with two decks (p. 67). Only British subjects were to be entertained on their ships (pp. 86, 185), and commanders were forbidden to take on board any relatives in any office or employment as mate, gunner, &c. (p. 162). The Company were desirous of encouraging mariners in their lawful trade by having commodities in India at usual rates without being imposed upon by the factors (p. 17).

The increasing trade required more warehousing room. Grounds to let near Leadenhall, 'Minchin' Lane, and St. Swithin's Lane, also vaults in Fishmongers' Hall and warehouses in Gresham College and Blackwell Hall, were viewed by certain of the Committees (pp. 51, 54, 56, 142). A fresh lease of the Exchange vaults was obtained (p. 83). Some ground in Leadenhall was rented from the Governors of Christ Church Hospital. The question of a new lease of the Company's House was considered, but nothing appears to have been effected (p. 94). From an entry on p. 49 it appears that the idea had been entertained of moving back to Crosby House in Bishopsgate, or at least of hiring that building for conversion into warehouses. Some trouble arose with a Mrs. Knowles who had a cellar under part of the warehouse in Leadenhall, which she used for the sale of drink (p. 218). It is interesting to note that in October 1673 the Company had 265,774 pieces of calico, with quilts, taffetas, and silk, in stock and fit for sale, in addition to the goods in Papillon's warehouse (a list of which was read) with 4,000 bags of Patna saltpetre, 400 bags of cowries, and 50 tons of red earth (p. 277).

The Company instructed their Agent and Council at Bantam in 1669 and 1670 to endeavour to open a trade with Japan, and accordingly the Bantam Pink (Capt. Bartholomew Partree)<sup>1</sup> and the Pearl, under the direction of Mr. Ellis Crispe, were dispatched to Taiwan (Formosa), in August 1670, with cloth and pepper, to establish a factory there in the hope that this would be a means of reopening a commercial intercourse with Japan. The idea of the Company was to make Bantam the centre of the trade for the exports from Europe and India and to trade from thence to Tonquin, Formosa, and Japan, and indirectly to China, the Dutch having defeated them in their purpose of trading directly with that country. Crispe met with a favourable reception, but did not have the success expected, and the Bantam Council explained this as due 'to some perfidious Chinese and our yett inexperience in these parts, people and customs'. The Bantam Pink (Capt. B. Partree) and the Crown (Capt. Philip Hyatt) were dispatched from Bantam in June 1671 to make a fresh attempt for Formosa and to proceed to Nagasaki in Japan.<sup>1</sup> These ships were lost at sea on their way to Formosa. The Camel junk, which had gone with them as escort, alone returned to Bantam.

Meanwhile the Company at home, in ignorance of the fate of those two ships, had taken further steps. Their desire to extend their trade to Japan appears to have stimulated one Samuel Baron<sup>2</sup> to approach them with proposals<sup>3</sup> to that end, which were wholly rejected at first as 'unjust and dishonourable'. His demands were considered too great, but finally he referred himself to the Court's consideration 'as he shall be found to deserve'. He was engaged on March 17, 1671 (p. 21). The Committees to whom the question of the Japan project was referred recommended that two ships should sail in August 1671, with European and Indian commodities to the value of about £30,000; that able factors and writers, besides the 'Chief' and Baron, should go in them; and that factories should be established at Tonquin (if none should be already there), but only able and sober men should be sent out or employed in the service (p. 28).

The ships chosen for the purpose were the Experiment (Capt. William Lymbry), the Return (Capt. John Atkins), and the Zante Frigate (Capt. Andrew Parrick). They departed for the voyage in September 1671, with factors and writers on board, including David Stephens, Samuel Baron, and Simon Delboe, respectively designated 'Chief', 'Second' and 'Third' at Japan, and William Gyfford as 'Chief' at Tonquin. They were to proceed by way of Bantam to Tonquin, Formosa, and Japan, with Europe, Surat, and Coromandel goods, and the factors were to procure, in return, commodities suitable for the Indian and European markets. The Company took the precaution of obtaining from the Lord High Admiral certificates according to the form required by the 8th Article of the Treaty Marine with Holland,<sup>4</sup> although this had not been <sup>1</sup> The supercargoes were instructed to collect information as to where the English had formerly resided at Firando. When the former English factory there was withdrawn in 1623 by the special order of the President and Council at Batavia, the Company's house and godown and very extensive buildings (including a wharf) at the harbour of Cochi were committed by them to the custody of the King of Firando (Hirado), 'to be repossessed by us if we return' (Factory Records (I.O.), China, vol. ix, p. 420).

<sup>4</sup> The provisions of the 8th Article of the Treaty Marine of 1668 are: 'But if they were come within the Roads, or were met in the open Sea by any of the said States ships, or done before, 'it having been found impracticable'. Lymbry and the other captains left England with detailed instructions<sup>1</sup> and with the Court's wish 'that the blessing of the Almighty may accompany you in this your voyage' and the admonition that 'let it be your greatest care, diligently and daily with due reverence, to seek it in the duty of prayer which we require you not to neglect but constantly both evening and morning to exercise yourself and ship's company therein', &c.

Except that William Gyfford established a factory at Tonquin,<sup>2</sup> which was kept going under great difficulties and with little success until 1697, this project of opening an indirect trade with China failed. The Return and the Experiment reached Formosa in July 1672. David Stephens died on the voyage from Bantam, and it was decided that Delboe should take his place and that Baron should remain at Formosa. As there was not a sufficient lading of sugar and skins for both ships, the factors decided that only the Return should go to Japan.

The Experiment was captured by the Dutch on her way back from Formosa to Bantam. The Camel junk, with Baron on board, met a similar fate, he being afterwards treated as a traitor by his captors. The Return reached Nagasaki in June 1673 and remained until August, but attempts to open trade with the Japanese were unsuccessful. After touching at Macao and remaining there for some time, where attempts to dispose of the cargo met with little success, the ship sailed to Lampaço,<sup>3</sup>

Private Men of War their Subjects; for avoiding of all disorder, the said Ships of the United Provinces or of their Subjects, shall not come near within Cannon-shot of the English, but shall send out their Long-Boat, and cause only two or three men to go on Board the English Ships or Vessels, unto whom the Passports and Certificates of the Propriety of the Ships shall be shewn by the Master or Captain of the English Ship, in the manner above specified, according to the form of the said Certificates which shall be inserted at the end of this Treaty; by which Passports and Certificates proof may be made not only of the Lading, but also of the place of the Abode and Residence of the Master or Captain, and name of the Ship itself; to the end that by these two wayes it may be known whether they carry Contraband Goods; and that the quality as well of the said Ship, as of its Master or Captain, may sufficiently appear: Unto which Passports and Certificates entire faith and credit shall be given. And to the end that their Validity may be the better known, and that they may not be in any wise falsified and counterfeit, certain Marks and Countersigns of His Majesty and the said States-General shall be given unto them.'

<sup>3</sup> Lampaço (Portuguese), Lampakaw (English), Langpehtsao (Chinese). An island which, under the name of Lampaço, was for several years the residence of many Portuguese merchants. It was occupied by the Portuguese in 1542, and in 1560 apparently was a flourishing place. Lampienchau, on the western shore of Bias Bay, two miles from Outan (on the Canton river), seems to be the Lampaço to which the Portuguese traded in the sixteenth century ('Lampaço, a mystery of the Far East', by Dr. H. B. Morse, in the Journal of the North China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, vol. v, 1921).

went to Bangkok (where the factors obtained a licence to trade),<sup>1</sup> and arrived at Surat in 1675.

The failure of the Japan project was attributed to the fact that King Charles II had married a Princess of the Royal House of Portugal, and the Journal<sup>2</sup> of the Return supports that opinion. The Japanese officials who came on board the ship were mainly concerned to ascertain how long the King had been married to the Princess; the religion of the Dutch, French, and English, also that of the Portuguese and whether the last-mentioned were Roman Catholics and revered images ('Sancta Maria' and 'Sancto Christo'). They inquired why the English had not been to Japan since forty-nine years ago,<sup>3</sup> and the reason for the flying of colours bearing a cross, whereas the ship had come in with one striped red and white without a cross.<sup>4</sup> After lengthy discussions on these and other matters, the Emperor's orders arrived to the effect that as King Charles was married to the 'daughter of Portugal', an enemy of the Japanese, the English could not be admitted to trade, and for no other reason. They might, the Company's servants were informed, be allowed to return if the Dutch and several Chinese would certify that they were not in amity with the Portuguese. The Return was permitted to leave, over 5,000 people assembling to witness her departure; the Emperor's commands, according to the Japanese officials, 'being like unto swett that goes out of man's hand or body which never returns again'. A promise was given that none of the Dutch ships should be permitted to stir out of the port before two months, and the Japanese officials wished the factors a pleasant voyage and many years of life. The latter state in their Journal that in the previous year twelve junks had arrived at Nagasaki from Bantam, Siam, and Cambodia, also six of the Dutch Company's ships, but none from Formosa, because the

There are other copies in Home Miscellaneous (I.O.), vol. 456a and in the Public Record Office (C.O. 77, vol. xii, pp. 263-70). It is printed in Kaempfer's History of Japan, and in Western Barbarians (M. B. T. Paske-Smith). For other consultations, &c., on the Return, see O.C. 3645, 3842, and 3850. O.C. 4045 is an abstract by Captain Atkins of his Journal from Lampaço to Surat, including an account of his transactions at Bangkok.

<sup>3</sup> A copy of the articles or privileges granted to the Company in 1613 being presented to the Japanese officials, they asked 'very much' for the original and were informed that it was delivered to the Emperor's Council on 'our departure from Firando'. Volume ix of the China Series of Factory Records (I.O.) contains copies of extracts from the Company's records relating to the trade with Japan from 1613.

Japanese had put a price upon their sugar and skins and intended to do so with all people for whatsoever goods should be brought to their ports. 'Few will seek after their commodities upon such unequal terms' was the opinion of the factors.

Although the Dutch Chief in Japan was aware of the outbreak of war with England, he advised the Company's factors not to display a flag bearing a cross and informed them of his desire to live peaceably with them, a mutual agreement being signed to that effect. On the P.R.O. copy of the Journal of the Return<sup>1</sup> there is a postscript (Oct. 16, 1673) — 'We understand the Dutch Chief expended £10,000 to oppose our settlement at Japan'.

Baron, writing to the Court in June 1672, stated that the Dutch had sent their usual ships (eight fly-boats) to Japan and that it was rumoured that eight men-of-war would convoy them thither and back to Batavia. He added that the Dutch had a very profitable exchange of commodities with Japan, bringing from thence 1½ million guilders clear profit. About the same time the Government of Batavia advised the factors in Japan of the departure of the Experiment, Return, and Zante — 'which ought to be made known to the Governor that they [the Japanese] may hereafter not charge us with it'. Captain Lymbry, writing to Bombay when in the hands of the Dutch, said that the projected trade from Bantam to Formosa had been found to be confined within much narrower limits than had been represented in the information that the Company had received or the overtures that the King of Formosa had made to Bantam might reasonably lead them to expect.<sup>2</sup> It is stated that the East India Company expended £40,000 on this project of reopening a trade with Japan.

The King's letter to Abull Fettahee, King (or Sultan) of Bantam, signed, 'Your affectionate freind Charles R.' (p. 38), is illustrative of the cordial relations existing between His Majesty and the Company. Between the King and the ruler of Bantam there had been an interchange of presents, but the Company deprecated direct correspondence between them. In this letter from the King to the 'Sultan', acknowledging the receipt of presents, the latter was informed that the Company had been granted the sole traffic to all places of the East beyond the Cape of Good Hope, with full powers to correspond with all Emperors, Kings, and Princes in those parts in order to trade with them 'without reserving any distinct correspondence to ourselfe'. The Sultan's justice and kindness to the Company and their Agents were the only acts of friendship that the King expected or could receive.

Later, the Company provided guns for the King of Bantam, but had some hesitation in making up their minds whether they should be handed to him if the presents expected in return had not been duly received. Fortified by the knowledge of the contents of His Majesty's letter to the King of Bantam, the Company themselves wrote to the latter in order that there should be no misapprehension as to their powers and the procedure that should be followed in future. They added an expression of their desire to procure pepper at more reasonable rates so that they might be able 'to keepe marketts with the Dutch', and pointed out that pepper being so cheap elsewhere, unless it could be bought on reasonable terms, they would be obliged to cease buying it at Bantam. Should they be forced to take that course he would understand how prejudicial it would be for him. 'Peeces of eight of Civell [Seville] stampe, espetially those that are waighty' being difficult to obtain, they begged him to allow 'piller rials of eight' to pass in his dominions, they being 'full as fine and waighty'. As an alternative they desired that silver and gold by the ounce or such coins as were obtainable might pass in his territories according to their true value (pp. 46-8).

There are not many references in the Minutes to affairs in India. Gerald Aungier was formally appointed Governor of Bombay<sup>1</sup> and given a gold medal of the value of £20 as a remembrance of his good services against Sivāji. The salaries of the Deputy Governor at Bombay and of the 'Second' at Surat were fixed at £120 a year, for all civil, military, and mercantile affairs in the case of the former. Captain Shaxton was entertained as a factor and to command a company of soldiers at Bombay, for which he was allowed an annual salary of £100. Orders were given that the Captain's pay at Bombay should be reduced to £80 at the first opportunity and that any factor having a military appointment should not be paid more than £100. Captain Young, who had been accused of instigating the natives of Bombay in their 'turbulent petitioning for his continuance there', was entertained for employment in Persia. Among the writers appointed in 1671 was Elihu Yale, for whom David Yale, of Newhall, Denbighshire, and his son and heir, David Yale, junior, were securities in £500. In the Minutes of September 11, 1672, is the first mention of John Fryer,<sup>2</sup> recommended and accepted for entertainment as a surgeon for Surat, he being 'a skilful and experienced artist in that profession'.

The action taken in Bombay for settling the judicature of the Island was approved, but, no details being given, the Court hoped that the rule for the trial of criminal and other cases of weight by a Jury would be observed. An engineer was engaged to drain the flooded grounds at Bombay and the question of establishing a mint there was considered. Rules were laid down for women allowed to go to Bombay.

It will be remembered that in the war with Holland the French were allied with the English. King Charles desired that the Company should assist the French East India Company and letters were accordingly sent to Surat and Madras to that effect, although the French at Surat had not been so 'candid' towards them, having insisted that the English ships 'should strike to theirs', which, it is stated, the President 'fairly avoided'. The French having seized boats and goods, the Company desired that the French officers would give no occasion for future differences and restore the ships and goods taken (p. 259).

Daniel Sheldon was again helpful, on being asked as to the 'usefulness of a silk throwster for the Bay', and John Terret was chosen to serve in Bengal as a silk-dyer at an annual salary of £50 (p. 192).

In February 1671 the Portuguese Envoy presented a memorial to the Company, acknowledging the kindness shown to the Portuguese at Madras, desiring its continuance, and complaining of two French clergymen there who took upon themselves spiritual government without authority. The clergymen referred to were evidently the French capuchins who, in 1670, were in charge of a church erected for the Capuchin Mission by order of Andrew Cogan,<sup>1</sup> the Company's Agent from 1639 to 1643. Apparently there were dissensions between the priests who were permitted to say mass in the church.<sup>2</sup> The Envoy was informed that the Court had received advice concerning the clergymen and that the 'King's General' was urging for their removal, and that the Company's Agent and Council had been instructed to promote peace without making any breach with the King of Golconda. Their Agent had been directed to take care that the Portuguese inhabitants were not tyrannized over by any Popish Powers (p. 14).

Trouble having arisen with the Jesuits at Bombay, who made certain claims, Sir Robert Southwell<sup>1</sup> was desired to answer the Portuguese Ambassador<sup>2</sup> according to letters and directions sent by the Company to their servants there and to demand that the injuries done by the Governor of Goa, in obstructing the passage between Bombay and the main, should be righted (p. 214).

Hearing from Lisbon that the King of Portugal was willing to grant commissions to some Englishmen to trade in the East Indies, certain of the Committees were desired to consider and report what provision in existing treaties was made for preventing the inconvenience that might thereby arise to the Company (p. 127). Nothing further, however, is heard on the subject.

It may be that the visit of the Bishop of Persia as Ambassador to the King (see p. 338 of the previous volume) incited the Company to make another effort for a settlement of their claim to a share of the customs at Gombroon under the agreement of 1622 with Shāh Abbās, made after the capture of Ormus from the Portuguese. An address to the King was quickly followed by a letter from him to Shāh Sulaimān recapitulating the Company's complaint and expressing the hope that a peaceable representation of those wrongs would bring about the recovery of the Company's just dues for the time past and a 'firme establishment' by the Shah's commands to his officers and ministers for the future, so that the Company might receive annually 'their full proportions' (p. 113). The Surat Committee were directed to consider a motion for settling the affairs of the factory at Gombroon (p. 246).

The long-standing question of the freight to be paid by the Company for the goods brought home from Bombay in the Leopard and other royal ships in 1662 was settled, the Company agreeing to pay 2,000 guineas into the Privy Purse instead of £7,600 demanded by the Treasury, and another 100 guineas to be 'otherwise disposed of' (p. 172). The King being in debt to the Company to the extent of £40,000 for saltpetre, and desirous of a loan of £20,000 and more saltpetre, it was agreed that the Company should furnish him with £30,000 worth of that commodity and receive £2,000 for the charges expended by them on the four ships employed to secure the safety of their homeward-bound ships.<sup>3</sup> The King's liability was met to the extent of £52,000 and interest, out of the Customs receipts and the new impost on wines and vinegar by weekly instalments of £2,000, the balance (£40,000) being paid by tallies out of the receipts from customs on goods imported by the Company' notwithstanding these payments are not entered in our weekly lists, (pp. 187, 189).<sup>1</sup>

The Company put forward a claim against Sir Edward Winter for money and goods taken by him at Fort St. George (see previous volume) and for the prejudice to their trade by his actions. On Winter's petition the Privy Council ordered the case to be considered (pp. 223-4, 237). To Winter's overtures for a settlement the Company did not think fit to answer, but afterwards agreed to refer the matter to arbitration, with the proviso that in case of disagreement between the arbitrators (two appointed by each side), the dispute should go to the Lord Chancellor for decision, Winter consenting to give bonds for £10,000 penalty. Towards the end of 1673 the dispute was accordingly referred to the Earl of Shaftesbury (pp. 296, 298).

Information having been received of 'some practices to the prejudice of the kingdom and particularly of the Company', designed by Thomas Skinner (whose case is dealt with at length in the previous volume), copies of the paper containing it were sent to Lord Arlington and Sir John Trevor, the members of the Court being enjoined to secrecy. Shortly afterwards Skinner petitioned the King for safe conduct to the East Indies, for the restoration of the island Barella, with free intercourse of trade thereto, and for relief from the oppressions of the Company (p. 52).

An echo of the troubles of 1665, when Sir Edward Winter usurped the Government at Fort St. George, is contained in the Company's petition to the King regarding the death of William Dawes at the hands of Lieutenant Francis Chuseman, who assisted Winter (p. 210).

The Company still continued to display a solicitude for the government of St. Helena. An order was given that a good watch should be kept on all foreign ships and that no one should be permitted to search for convenient landings or to sound the waters. Settlers who offended against the laws should be dealt with in accordance with the patent and not sent home (as one Bowes had been) unless they had committed some capital offence. Rules and instructions for the good government of the Island were formulated (p. 16).

Captain Cony, who had been sent out as Governor in 1670, was accused by the inhabitants of unjust and arbitrary proceedings.

Apparently these charges were accepted as true. He was ordered to resign his appointment and come home (pp. 123, 136), Captain Anthony Beale being chosen to succeed him. Later (January 1673), the Company heard that in the previous October Cony had been sent home by the inhabitants. The Company expressed their strong disapproval, for, they wrote, 'there can bee noe Governor if they that should bee governed should displace the Governor'. The Rev. William Nokes, the Minister and Second on the Council at the Island, one of the principals in the action against the Governor, was told to reform. The Company wrote that they had received several complaints of him; that he had endeavoured to make parties on the Island and had encouraged disobedience and condemned the orders of the Governor and Council. Also, they added, he was addicted to several vices not becoming a minister of the Gospel. In spite of this the Company continued him as Second in Council with a caution as to his future conduct. He must conform to the Court's orders or be dismissed and recalled (p. 149).<sup>1</sup>

Immediately after the declaration of war with the Dutch the Company took steps to provide necessities wanting at St. Helena (p. 118). The Humphrey and Elizabeth (Capt. Robert Medford) was chartered for that purpose and departed in June with Captain Beale and seventy-five soldiers on board. The Commander was directed to proceed to St. Helena, land the soldiers, and deliver the artillery and ammunition to the Governor and Council. During his stay on the island he and his company were to assist in bettering and furthering the fortifications there as the Governor and Council should desire. Some of the Company's ships were expected to arrive at St. Helena from the Coromandel Coast and Bantam about November; for these Medford was to wait, but not after May 1, 1673 (p. 135).

The Humphrey and Elizabeth reached its destination in November 1672. A month later there appeared before the island four Dutch men-of-war, part of the Dutch fleet that had left Amsterdam in April for the Cape of Good Hope. From the Dutch accounts the Governor of the Cape had fitted out the squadron<sup>2</sup> for the capture of St. Helena. Men were landed from the ships and took possession of the Island on New Year's Day, 1673. According to the Dutch they landed in the rear of the forts and met with no resistance from the English, but this does not tally with the reports received by the Company (p. 238).<sup>1</sup> Captain Medford and most of the inhabitants retreated on board the Humphrey and Elizabeth and a French vessel and left for Brazil. Four months afterwards the Island was recaptured by Captain Richard Munden, who had left England on January 13 in command of the Assistance Frigate, the Princess, the William and Thomas, the Mary and Martha, the Levant Merchant, and two fire-ships, as convoy to the outward-bound ships of the Company (p. 189).

On May 4 the master of a small vessel came on board the Assistance and informed Munden that the Dutch were in possession of the Island.<sup>2</sup> The next day the Island was surrendered by the Dutch, after practically no resistance on their part<sup>3</sup> (p. 318).

Munden was informed by some of the English prisoners that the Dutch fleet from India was hourly expected, and a few days later one ship of that fleet, the Europa, carrying the new Dutch Governor for St. Helena, was sighted and captured. Some days afterwards six more appeared, of which two, the Wapen van der Veer<sup>4</sup> and the Alphen, were taken. The Papenburgh escaped Munden, and, homeward-bound, sailed into the midst of the French fleet on the eve of the great action between the Anglo-French and Dutch fleets off the Texel in August, and was brought to this country as a prize. Munden's ships arrived at Kinsale in August in company with the three Dutch prizes and five of the Company's homeward vessels. Munden was knighted for his services and received a royal bounty of £2,500.

On the Company presenting a petition to the King he was pleased to declare that the Island of St. Helena should be continued to the <sup>2</sup> It has been stated, probably on the authority of Dr. John Fryer, that Munden on his departure for St. Helena had orders to recapture the island from the Dutch. This seems improbable; he left England a fortnight after the Island had been taken.

<sup>3</sup> See Appendixes I and II (pp. 315-19) for a transcript of Munden's Journal from May 5 to May 8, 1673, and the official relation of the retaking of St. Helena (printed in 1673). Munden's Journal (Pepys MS. 2350) begins on January 12, 1673, and ends on September 12, 1673. Bound up with it is the account of the same expedition by Thomas Willshaw, commander of the Castile Frigate fire-ship, and at the end is a letter from Richard Gibson (the Admiralty clerk and Pepys' friend) to Pepys, dated April 7, 1683, criticizing Munden's proceedings. The Journal of the ship Assistance (Pepys MS. 2543) is a longer account and has a water-colour drawing to illustrate the surrender of St. Helena on May 5, 1673, and a coloured map at the end. (Information supplied by F. McD. C. Turner, Esq., the Pepysian Librarian at Magdalene College, Cambridge.) British Museum Add. MS. 34729, ff. 127-31, is the Diary of H.M.'s ship Assistance of the retaking of St. Helena from May 4, 1673, to May 27, when the Alphen was captured. Company as formerly and Letters Patent were issued accordingly on December 16, 1673, regranting the Island to them.<sup>1</sup>

Captain Richard Field, who had been left at St. Helena by Munden as Deputy Governor, was appointed Governor by the Company with Captain Anthony Beale as Husband of Stores. Instructions for the future government of the Island were dispatched in December (p. 300), one direction being that all negroes who should make profession of the Christian faith should be made free planters within seven years. The Instructions provided for the succession to the Government, administration of justice, the punishment of crime, the preservation of the rights and property among the inhabitants, and the management of the Company's plantations and negroes. 'Black Oliver',<sup>2</sup> a negro who had acted as guide to Captain Keigwin's force that landed from Munden's ships, was made a free planter. The Rev. William Swindell was appointed to act as minister and to teach and catechize the children.

Towards the end of the year three ships (European, John and Alexander, and Loyal Merchant) were dispatched to St. Helena with provisions and many of the settlers who had left the Island with Captain Medford in the Humphrey and Elizabeth.

After Munden's departure from the Island, where he left Captain Keigwin as Governor, the soldiers and some of the inhabitants mutinied against Keigwin, and on Captain Richard Field, the Deputy, refusing the post of Governor, Lieutenant Bird accepted it. Captain William Basse of the London and the commanders of other ships returning home re-established Keigwin on their arrival at St. Helena in April 1674.<sup>3</sup>

There are few references to the Dutch in the Court Minutes of 1671. One records the resolution that the Governor with some of the Committees for Dutch affairs were to go to Sir John Trevor's to meet Sir William Temple, and later in the year the Deputy Governor and one of the Committees for Dutch affairs conferred with Sir John Trevor<sup>4</sup> about certain transactions that had lately taken place with reference to the Treaty Marine (pp. 9, 85-6). Sir William Temple was given £100 for his charges and disbursements at The Hague in the Company's business (p. 92).

In June 1672 (three months after the outbreak of war), hearing that the Duke of Buckingham and Lord Arlington were being sent to Holland, the Company memorialized the King suggesting that one of the conditions of peace should provide for the mutual reparation of injuries or damages they and the Dutch Company had sustained since the Treaty of 1667, or since the last breach, or at least from the date of their memorial. They also asked for an opportunity to submit their views for the better settlement and carrying on of their trade, or that the Treaty should provide for a subsequent settlement, to prevent misunderstandings in the future. Thereupon the Ambassadors were directed to procure an adjustment of trade in the East Indies as formerly desired by the King (p. 139). The Company presented further memorials to the King urging that some arrangement should be made with the Dutch on the lines of their proposals of July 1669,<sup>1</sup> for the prevention of any differences that might arise concerning the rules laid down in the Treaty Marine, by means of additional rules as to passports for commanders and masters of ships, the definition of the words 'besieged, blocked up or invested' in the 4th Article, freedom of trade, trading contracts with natives, the procedure in case of war with any native power, passports granted to Indian or other vessels belonging to those not in enmity with the other Company, and the voidance of the treaty made by the Dutch with the King of Macassar. They also wished for the restitution of Damm Island, a mutual reparation of damages, and that the 36th Article of the Treaty of Breda should be put into execution (pp. 143, 175-6). This article stipulated that the officers of the Dutch should be bound and obliged by oath to conform to the Treaty and Articles thereof and to promise sacredly upon oath to religiously observe and execute the same. Later, in April 1673, they again made representations to the King and proposed certain articles that, in their opinion, should be insisted on in the treaty, viz., those suggested in July 1669 and June 1672 (referred to above), with the addition of the following: (1) for the adjustment of losses or damages by arbitration, or in case of non-agreement of the arbitrators, by an umpire to be appointed by His Majesty; (2) that no persons residing in or upon any of the islands or places where either Company had forts, &c., or being within the limits thereof, should be molested, disturbed, or removed by the other Company; (3) that the ships of either Company should have liberty to water, wood, victual, and refresh in any of the ports or places possessed by the other Company within the limits of their respective Charters, with freedom to put into any such ports or places in stress of weather or other imminent danger: and in case the ships of either Company should meet together at sea and should happen to be in distress, they should, upon request, relieve and treat each other with all due civility and respect. The Company considered that the article for the mutual reparation of losses was the most important (pp. 226-30).

Spain had joined in the war on the side of Holland, but negotiations resulted in a treaty of peace with the former country, signed on April 30, 1673, to which was added a separate article that the King of Spain would try one last effort to bring King Charles II to a peace with the Dutch. The latter were now anxious for peace, and, as Lord Arlington wrote, 'The States who would not all this time hearken to any overture for the cessation of arms now call for it'. Accordingly, the Earl of Sunderland, Sir Lionel Jenkins, and Sir Joseph Williamson were sent to Cologne to treat for peace, and, if possible, to secure a treaty of commerce, and, if easy to obtain, a regulation of the East India trade on the lines desired by the East India Company (pp. 234-5). These instructions were supplemented by one that the treaty should stipulate, as desired by the Company, for a mutual reparation of all losses and damages sustained by the two Companies; the amount to be settled by arbitration. Furthermore, if the Ambassadors could not obtain such an agreement, they were to insist upon the restitution of St. Helena (news of its capture by the Dutch having recently been received) (p. 243). Later, the Ambassadors were informed that the demands for the mutual restitution of goods should not be insisted upon up to a point so as to break off the treaty; on the other hand, mutual restitution of the places captured, especially of St. Helena and Fort St. George,<sup>1</sup> must be positively demanded (p. 251). The Company, however, were more concerned that there should be a restitution of goods and ships rather than of places, for if the Dutch should destroy their stock in India it would not only be a present loss to the adventurers and the consequences could hardly be retrieved in many years, for by those means the Dutch would be masters of the pepper and saltpetre trade. This, the Company pointed out to Lord Arlington's secretary, would enable the Dutch to war on princes and cause disappointment to the King by the loss of saltpetre (pp. 252-3). The Company having sustained little or no damage either by the loss of ships, goods, or places, and that, on the contrary, the Island of St. Helena had been retaken (news having arrived to that effect from Kinsale) and more prizes having been taken from the Dutch than they had captured from the English, in August the Plenipotentiaries were directed to insist only upon the mutual restitution of places in general, and to absolutely refuse and reject any proposals for the mutual reparation of other losses (p. 258). In November the Plenipotentiaries were directed to agree that the question of the regulation of the trade in the East Indies might be referred to a determination by Commissioners to be appointed on both sides, if the Dutch were found obstinate and otherwise would not agree to a peace as proposed (p. 285). The Plenipotentiaries at Cologne were not successful in their efforts, and Sir William Temple was called from his retirement and sent to The Hague to assist in the negotiations. He was mainly responsible for the treaty of peace with the Dutch subsequently signed at Westminster on February 14, 1674. It provided that the question of the regulation of trade in the East should be referred to Commissioners, six to be nominated by each party, and that differences should be referred to the arbitration of the Queen Regent of Spain. Other provisions were that the Dutch would acknowledge the right of the King to have his flag respected on the Seas; that the articles made upon the surrender of Surinam to the Dutch should be put into execution; that the Treaty Marine should be referred to the Commissioners to be appointed to consider the East India trade, and for the payment of an indemnity of 800,000 patacoons (rials of eight).

Temple had been recalled from The Hague in September 1670 and replaced by Sir George Downing, as it was thought that the Dutch required 'a rougher hand than his to get the King right of the States'.

Downing came home without permission, and the 'rough hand' of the King consigned him to the Tower. Dutch 'actions' fell from 490 to 400 when he left The Hague (p. 99). In December 1671 and February 1672 warrants in his favour were made out for £1,134 7s. 9d. and £504 15s. 10d. (pp. 96, 107). In June 1672 he was admitted to the freedom of the Company, gratis, as a mark of respect (p. 142).

The Lords Commissioners for Prizes were empowered by the King to sell and dispose of the goods in the three Dutch ships captured by Munden and those on the Papenburgh to a Mr. Nelthorpe and his partners. The Company were desired, however, by the Commissioners to keep the goods in their possession until further orders (p. 276). Later, the King proposed that the Company should have the prize goods on payment of £33,700 more than the price mentioned by Nelthorpe. Before the articles of agreement were concluded the King thought fit to sell the goods to Nelthorpe, but this 'having taken air' and 'to avoid publique clamour' the Company were informed that they could have the prize goods on the terms already offered. The Company replied that they never desired the goods: they only wished to sell them to the best advantage for the King, yet they were willing that he should have not less than £33,700 more than was offered by Nelthorpe: if the goods should produce more, then His Majesty should have the advantage, and, if less, then the Company would bear the loss. The King accepted the offer, but insisted on an advance of £50,000 to supply his 'pressing occasions' (p. 280).<sup>1</sup> The prize goods were warehoused in Grocers' Hall. The Alphen, Wapen van der Veer, and the Europa were delivered to the Commissioners of the Navy for employment in the King's service and the Papenburgh was sold.

The Company, always very solicitous of their servants, on hearing of the loss of the Experiment (see Introduction, p. v), and the Hannibal and that Captain Lymbry<sup>2</sup> and other officers of the two ships were prisoners in the hands of the Dutch, immediately wrote to their rivals, the Dutch Company, pointing out that they had obtained the release of Dutch prisoners in the ships taken by Munden and that the same action would be taken as regards those on the Mayboome<sup>3</sup> at Surat; they therefore asked for, and expected, reciprocal kindness in the discharge of all English prisoners taken in the Hannibal and Experiment and of all English prisoners taken in the war (p. 263). The Dutch Company were ready to comply, and eventually it was arranged that a ship should be sent to Bantam with a Dutch passport to bring home the English prisoners there, on condition that an English passport should be given to a Dutch ship for a like purpose. The Dutch Company expressed the wish 'that Almighty God may direct affairs in such wise that they may have occasion, according to their inclination, to demonstrate more friendship to the English Company' (pp. 273, 283, and 288). A few months before (April 30, 1673) the States-General in their treaty with Spain had expressed their desire to establish their ancient friendship with the King of Great Britain.

In connexion with the peace negotiations it was suggested that the Dutch should be forced to surrender at least half the trade in nutmegs, mace, cloves, and cinnamon, of which they had become sole masters and had raised the price thereof to three or four times the former rate. Before the Portuguese were expelled from Ceylon, cinnamon could be sold at 2s. 6d. per lb., but the Dutch had raised their cost price to 7s. or 8s. The price of nutmegs had been forced up to 12s. from 1s. 6d. a lb. It was suggested that if the King could obtain half the spices, he might gain a clear £300,000 per annum. It was thought that there would be no great difficulty in persuading the Dutch to part with half of the benefit of the fine spices on condition that there should be some arrangement to fix the selling price of pepper. The quantity of pepper imported by the two Companies was estimated at 5,000 tons per annum and if sold at 3s. per lb. would produce £1,120,000 sterling more than formerly, and less than one-third of that would be sufficient compensation to the Dutch for what they were to part with as regards spice. The French and Portuguese might be allotted some shares in the pepper, but not of the finer spices. Such an arrangement, it was argued, would not prejudice the East India Company, inasmuch as they were at the time utterly excluded from any part of the trade in fine spices, and the King might oblige them very much by letting them have what he should obtain for an annual rent. If the King were to take all the pepper they could secure at 1s. per lb. they would be assured of far better prices than they had made in the past. The Lords Committees for Foreign Affairs made some propositions to the Governor, and after a debate the Court decided that its tenor should be returned, either in writing or verbally, as the Governor should deem fit, and that the latter should attend their Lordships the same afternoon accompanied by the Deputy and Mr. Houblon<sup>1</sup> (pp. 220-2).

In view of an attempt by some persons to invade the trade of the Royal African Company and the East India Company, the former Company petitioned the King, who thereupon ordered that any ships at London and elsewhere bound for ports appropriated by charter to either of the two Companies should be stopped (p. 201).

The office procedure at Leadenhall Street appears to have been thoroughly overhauled. Directions were given for greater privacy (p. 51), more speedy balancing of books, registration of books and papers circulating in the office, and the reading by the Solicitor of the standing rules each quarter. Warrants passed in Court were to be signed by the Secretary to the Treasury, debtors were to be called upon for a settlement, and factors' bonds were to be registered. Sambrooke was not to be allowed to accommodate his friends with goods at special rates. Dunkin, the Cashier-General, whose salary was lowered,<sup>1</sup> was ordered to balance his cash weekly. Later, he fell short of his cash by £1,850 and the Company resolved that they would not be liable henceforth for any payment except by their common seal. The clerks in the Accountant's Office were to attend from eight in the morning all the winter and from seven in the summer and not leave without the permission of the Accountant.

As regards the Company's servants in India it was decided that factors at the Coast, whose wives were with them, were to be allowed Rs. 15 a month for board wages, but were not to lodge or eat in the Company's house, and those unmarried eating at the Company's table were not to be allowed board wages. Soldiers at Bombay were to be paid at the rate of 28 days to the month.

The Company suitably acknowledged the good work of their servants, King's officers and others in these three years of trouble and anxiety, in the form of money or by the presentation of tankards and pieces of plate engraved with the Company's arms. Streynsham Master was presented with a gold medal for his services against Sivāji.

In these prosperous times the Company did not forget the services of the Governor, Deputy, and Committees, nor those persons (whose names are not disclosed) who had 'taken pains and been serviceable' to them. The Court resolved, in September 1672, to distribute £7,000 amongst the several Committees whether living or dead, according to each man's appearance from April 14, 1666, to the next election, £200 per annum to be allowed each Governor and £100 per annum to each Deputy for the said time, nothing having been paid for that period. The Governor, Deputy, and Committees, looking upon this resolution as a token of 'the Generalities kinde resentment and respect', returned their thanks, and the Generality returned the compliment with an expression of their gratitude for the care and pains taken in 'the manageing and good improvement of the Stock' (p. 170). It was resolved, later, that the gratuities should be allowed in settling accounts for any goods bought at the last or any former sale (p. 183). Warrants for gratuities to Governors and Deputies were issued in October, but some of those for the Committees, although approved about the same time, were not signed till

January in the following year (p. 185), when two thousand guineas were distributed to those who had 'countenanced and given furtherance to the Company's affairs' (p. 207). Other gratuities to the Governor, Deputy, and Committees were paid in May 1673 (p. 233). Soon afterwards the Company resolved that the appearances of members of Committees who did not arrive in proper time before 11 o'clock should not count (p. 246).

In December 1672 it was resolved to consider at the first meeting of the Court in January how a stock might be raised for charitable purposes (p. 200). This does not appear to have been done, but Major Thomson was desired to report the 'whole affair' touching the Company's Alms-house at Poplar, cause the revenue received from it to be registered in a book to be kept for that purpose, also the annual charge, and the names of the several benefactors who had contributed<sup>1</sup> (p. 205). In December 1673 certain of the Committees were desired to examine the constitution originally made for governing the Alms-house at Poplar, to ascertain what sums had been given for its maintenance, the balance, the annual charge and expense, and other matters. At the same time the Court, in accordance with their annual custom, taking into consideration the condition of the poor at Poplar and the increase in the number of widows and relations of those who had served the Company, distributed £20 amongst them.

Other items of interest may be mentioned. John Ogilby, the writer (pp. 26, 45, 95, 288), and Richard Blome, the publisher (p. 274), presented copies of some of their books, which were suitably acknowledged in the form of money. Six maps of the north-east parts of the Indies were purchased for £5 (p. 35). In November 1671 there was a rumour that ships were being prepared in Sweden for a voyage to the East Indies, and that some Englishmen were concerned in the project. Samuel Sowton (who bought copper for the Company at Stockholm) was instructed to ascertain all particulars. A month before the declaration of war with Holland, the Company forwarded to Sowton a copy of the King's proclamation calling home all British seamen from foreign parts, in order that it should be brought to the notice of any English sailors serving in vessels bound from Stockholm to the Indies. He was also asked to keep the Company informed of the lading and destinations of such ships (pp. 84, 103, 107, 119, 147, 153, 155).

The City Garbler complained that pepper had been delivered ungarbled and that the porters of the Pepper Cellars had used the Company's tools for sifting, garbling, and cleansing other merchants' goods contrary to the law and greatly to his damage, and the Court thereon instructed the Keeper of the Pepper warehouse to prevent the latter practice and not to deliver any pepper sold to any grocer before it had been garbled and the seal of the Garbler's office fixed on the bags (p. 232). As regards loans, the Court declared that they did not intend to 'defalk' 6s. in every £100 lent to them on interest in accordance with the Subsidy Act, as this Stock was not liable to assessment, each adventurer being assessed for his own estate in the place where he lived and therefore no advantage would be taken of the clause (p. 21). The Accountant reporting that the goldsmiths in reducing fine silver to standard usually added  $\frac{1}{11}$  part instead of  $\frac{3}{37}$  as they ought, the matter was referred to the Committee for the Treasury to act as they thought fit (p. 14). After representations to the King the export duty on iron ordnance was fixed at 5s. a ton (p. 294). On page 147 there is a reference to the capture of three small vessels laden with salt and of another which was going into Arundel, by a Flushing privateer. The streets in front of the Company's House and their Blue warehouse and others in Leadenhall and Lime Street were paved at a cost to the Company of £56 2s. 6d. (pp. 94, 148, 150-1).

The Governor reported the receipt of six guineas from some unknown person, enclosed in a statement to the effect that he was employed by the Company and 'through temptation was wrought upon to deceive his trust, and having repented of this great evill, he had asked forgiveness of God, and did the like of the Company, to whom he returned the money, being the value of what he had defrauded them of, with double interest'. Order was thereupon given for the six guineas to be paid into the Treasury and placed to the account of Profit and Loss 'as so much acknowledged to be restored that had been wrongfully taken from the Company' (p. 104).

Allusions to the late Duchess Dudley recall a romantic story of the time. Sir Robert Dudley, the reputed son of Queen Elizabeth's favourite, the Earl of Leicester, and himself a man of considerable talents and notable achievements, had married Alice, daughter of Sir Thomas Leigh; but in 1605 he deserted her, declaring the marriage invalid, and, having transferred his residence to Italy, provided himself with a new 'wife'. In 1620 he induced the German Emperor to confer upon him the titles of Earl of Warwick and Duke of Northumberland, which he claimed to have inherited. The grant was of course not recognized in England; but considerable sympathy seems to have been felt for his repudiated wife, and in 1645 Charles I conferred on her the title for life of Duchess Dudley. She died early in 1669, at the age of ninety, leaving many charitable bequests. Among them was one of £100 per annum to be spent in the redemption of Christian captives in foreign parts; and her trustees, seeking a permanent body upon which to devolve the administration of this fund, opened negotiations with the East India Company. The Court were at first disposed to undertake the responsibility (p. 15); but later, on finding that a decree had been made in Chancery for settling the said trust without their intervention, they declined to concern themselves any further in the matter (pp. 213, 218).

As in the case of previous instalments, the duties of reading the proofs and of compiling the index have been discharged by Miss Sainsbury, in addition to her main task of preparing the calendar itself. It may be well to recall that personal names are spelt throughout exactly as they occur in the various entries, leaving it to the index to unify them, cross-references being inserted when necessary.

The Committee for Accounts report their approval of the proposals made by the President and Council of Surat for altering the method of their accounts, and the time of balancing their books, thinking it will be advantageous to the Company, provided the said time is arranged so as to take in all the accounts of the subordinate factories. They also approve of what the President and Council have done in settling the judicature of the Island of Bombay, but as no detailed account of this has been given to the Court, they hope the President and Council have taken and will take care that the rule for trial of criminal and other causes of weight, by a jury, will be duly observed. Meantime certain Committees are desired to ascertain and report the best terms upon which the Company can be supplied with copper by other persons. THE COMPANY TO CAPTAIN ANTHONY EARNING, JANUARY 18, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 420).

They have designed four ships for Bantam, his own, the John and Martha, the John and Margaret, Captain Lord, the Satisfaction, Captain Southwell, and the Unity, Captain Cruft, and wish them to keep company, at least as far as St. Iago, where it would be well for them to refresh. They are to sail thirty leagues to the westward of the 'Maderaes' as it is not known what Turkish men-of-war may be about the Straits, especially near the Canary Islands. Captain Earning, on arrival in the Downs, is to consult and agree with the three other commanders as to how best this may be done, and give order for all guns to be mounted and decks cleared for defence in case of an attack. If, however, a fair wind should set in before all four vessels arrive in the Downs one is not to wait for the other, but to proceed on the voyage. On arrival at St. Iago the four commanders are to buy twenty 'lusty young negroes, ten men and ten women (for their wives)' as cheaply as possible, not exceeding forty rials each or fifty at the most, take them to Bantam, using them well, and what is reasonable shall be allowed for their passage. Captain Earning, who is to buy four negroes, is sent 200 rials for their purchase, but if the negroes cannot be procured, the Captain is to deliver the said money to the Agent and Council at Bantam. While in India and on the homeward voyage he is to endeavour to keep with the other three ships, or with such of the Company's vessels as he shall meet, so far as may consist with directions received from the Agent and Council at Bantam. Letters of the like purport are written to the other commanders, and the sum of 200 rials each delivered to Captains Earning and Cruft, with which each is to buy four Blacks, and 300 rials each is delivered to Captains Southwell and Lord, they each to buy six Blacks, in all 1,000 rials are given for the purchase of twenty Blacks. (1 p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JANUARY 20, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 182).

A representation from Edward Rolt on behalf of his brother now in Persia is read. Rolt is told that his said brother at his own request has been made Chief in Persia, that the Company's affairs in Surat with regard to succession in the Presidency have been settled, but that consideration will be taken of any good service he shall do. The Court, noting from Mr. Rolt's address that he is acquainted with some of their proceedings relating to Surat, enjoin all Committees present to observe strict secrecy in the Company's affairs, and command the Secretary to inform all Committees now absent of this order. The Governor to write to Sir William Godolphin and entreat him to use his utmost endeavours to effect what is desired as speedily as possible and report what probability there is of success. Certain papers produced by Captain Young in vindication of charges brought against him are referred for consideration to next Wednesday, when papers and consultations from the Fort and Bay are to be read. Inspection and report to be made of a parcel of coral offered for sale. Captain Privet to be allowed to export some fine broadcloth and cochineal after they have been examined by the Husband. The petition of Mary Sargeant is referred to the Shipping Committee. The report touching Bombay and Surat is referred to next Wednesday. The Stationers bill to be examined. The owners of the John and Margaret ask permission to present another commander in place of Captain Lord, and for time to settle the accounts of that ship; they are given till next Monday and told that in the meantime they must supply their ship with all necessary stores and provisions and prepare her to sail from Gravesend, and Captain Prowd is directed to take an account and report concerning the same. A report concerning the account of money due to the late Robert Springold for service at Bantam is approved. Ordered that no letters of recommendation be written by any of the Committees to the President, Agents, or Chiefs in India on behalf of any factor or writer in the Company's service. (1 $\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JANUARY 23, 1671 (Ibid., p. 184).

Mr. Legay, one of the owners of the John and Margaret, requests the Court's approval of Captain Martin's appointment as commander in place of Captain Lord. A letter from Lord is read, in which he prays for the mediation of the Court to compose his difference with the owners. But after consideration, the Court confirm the choice of Martin for the present voyage, in case Lord should not give timely and satisfactory cause for his continuance in the service. Meanwhile Captain Martin is to see that all things necessary for the dispatch of the ship are prepared. The Court to be informed next Wednesday which of the owners is to sign the charterparty and be entrusted with the dispatch of the vessel. The letter written by Captain Lord is given to Mr. Legay for the owners to read. A draft of a commission for the Governor of Bombay is read and returned to the Committees who prepared it, that they may consult with Moses touching 'the title and phrases', and make amendments agreeable with the Company's charters. (1 p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JANUARY 25, 1671 (Ibid., p. 185).

Sir Samuel Barnardiston and Samuel Reynardson, a London merchant, are accepted as security in 1,000*l.* for Isaac Reynardson, factor Isaac Reynardson and Edward Rolt are permitted to export several goods mentioned in a list now read. The following report from the Committee for Surat is read, viz.: they are of opinion that the Deputy Governor of Bombay should have an annual salary of 120*l.* for the time being for civil, military, and mercantile affairs; that Captain Shaxton should be allowed 100*l.* per annum as factor and for his military employment. That Captain Young should be allowed for past services a captain's pay of 8*s.* a day from his arrival at, to his departure from Bombay, and be paid his salary as factor from the time he left Bombay to his embarking for England, and from his arrival at Surat to his arrival at Bombay. That the annual salary of 120*l.* should be continued to the Second at Surat. That the President and Council of Surat be recommended to reduce, at a fitting opportunity, the captain's pay on the island that it may not exceed 80*l.* annually, and that any factor having military employment as captain should not be paid more than 100*l.* a year. That no one on the island is to be given two military employments. That the fine on musters of calicoes made in Bombay and brought home by Captain Young be remitted. That directions be given in the letter to Surat for the President and Council to sign the general books of accounts before sending them to England, as is customary at the Fort and other factories. That Captain William Hutchins be entertained at a yearly salary of 40*l.* and recommended to the President and Council as a fit person to take care of the Company's ships, boats, and stores for sea and land, and, if employed in any of the Company's ships, given the usual rate of pay. (Dated January 18, 1671, and signed by John Banks, Michael Davison, Nathaniel Herne, Thomas Papillon, and John Goodier.) The Court approve of the above report and order it to be inserted in the general letter. At the request of Robert Davies, his difference with the Company is referred to certain arbitrators, who are to settle the same by February 25 next. Dunkin and his assistant are directed to keep the Company's cash entirely separate, and not to keep the cash of any private person in future. Henry Powell is remitted fines on some piece-goods, they being for his own private use. The Court, noting the danger of loss that may arise from papers and writings being passed from one office to another without any register kept of them, order a waste-book to be placed in each office, in which all books or papers lent are to be entered, with the names of those to whom they are delivered and the time of delivery, so that they may be called in and returned to their respective offices. An account of saltpetre sold by the Company to the King, by contract made with the late Earl of Southampton and the Commissioners of the Ordnance, with the interest due on the same is delivered to Mr. Collins, an officer belonging to the Brookehouse Commissioners, and Harbert states that he has tried several times to deliver this account at Brookehouse but could never find any one there to receive it. The Governor directs that the Commissioners be told of this, and that if anything in the account needs explanation it shall be given. ( $2\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JANUARY 25, 1671 (AFTERNOON) (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 187).

Several papers presented by Captain Young are read, in which he shows that he did not instigate the natives of Bombay in their turbulent petitioning for his continuance there. After some consideration, the Captain is called in and told that the inhabitants cannot be allowed to act in this manner, nor can he be excused in the matter. But as lately the natives have been more severely dealt with and the good effects of the Company's orders may be imputed to the Captain, the occurrence will be overlooked, but it must not happen again. The Captain engaging to behave to the President and Council with all due respect, and to act peaceably with diligence and faithfulness, it is resolved that he shall continue in his employment, and a clause to this effect be inserted in the Surat letter. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JANUARY 27, 1671 (Ibid., p. 188).

Andrew Duncan, Sir Francis Clarke, and Christopher Boone to be allowed to export to India, permission free, some cochineal; and the like permission is given to John Jolliffe, for account of President Aungier. Resolved that on and after March 25 next, every free man of the Company shall be allowed to export cochineal to India paying 2 per cent., and all who are not free of the Company to pay 4 per cent., the master of the ship in which it shall be carried to be allowed to give bills of lading for the same and receive one-quarter of the said permission for taking charge of it. Signor Gomes Rodriques and Francis De Lis to be allowed to export certain goods, a list of which is now read. James Adams to be paid his salary from the time of his arrival at Surat to the time of his departure for Bombay, and as he is to be employed in some of the South Sea factories, he is also to be allowed half his salary from the time he left Bombay to July 30, 1671. Captain Young is also to be given half pay for the same time, as he is to be employed in Persia, both salaries to begin on the arrival of Adams and Young in India. The difference between the Company and Sir Francis Clarke is referred to arbitrators, who are now named and directed to determine the matter by the last day of February next. A paper signed and sealed by Peter Hasbert, Junior, is produced, by which the Company is released from all dividends formerly made on a subscription of 200*l.*, of which 100*l.* was paid in when it was transferred by Samuel Dover to the said Peter Hasbert; order is given for the release to be delivered to the Treasury Committee. (11<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, FEBRUARY 1, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 190).

Roger Chappel asking that his difference with the Company may be settled by reference, he is told that this was agreed to in June, 1666, but he did nothing, which caused the Company to be put to the expense of a troublesome suit, yet if he is willing to give satisfactory security to accept the award made by arbitration and deposit 140*l.* for the cost of the said suit, his wish shall be granted. James Oxinden asks if there are any further exceptions to the account of the late Sir George Oxinden that he may send them to Surat by this year's shipping; he also asks that the salary of his brother, who is serving as Secretary at Surat, may be increased. He is told that any exceptions shall be reported next Friday, and that consideration shall be had about his brother's salary. The Shipping Committee to give order for the London to sail to Gravesend and thence into the Downs at the first opportunity. The owners of the Surat ships to be permitted to export in their vessels as much amber as they desire provided they do not exceed their tonnage. They stayed before the post came in, because there was a report here that the French King had sent two squadrons of eight and twelve men-of-war to waylay them about the Cape of Good Hope, and that there were a fleet of Dutch men-of-war with some more East Indiamen in the Downs to come after them; but when the post came they received no orders, so put to sea and have had ever since a fair wind. . . .

At the request of Roger Chappel, he is given a copy of the covenants of arbitration usually entered into and told that he is to give security in 2,000*l.* penalty to perform the same. The owners of the Surat ships report the kentledge they have provided, viz.: Captain Peter Westlake, commander of the Massingbird, 25 tons, Captain Seaman of the Falcon, 17 tons, Captain Wildy of the Phoenix, 20 tons, and Captain John Goldsburgh of the Antelope, 15 tons, all in shot. They likewise agree to it being endorsed on their respective charterparties, thereby obliging themselves to bring back the same amount, for which they shall be paid at the rate of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* a ton. Captain Goldsburgh to be allowed remission of fine on taffetas, which turned out to be illatches; Captain Wildy applies concerning the stoppage of his warrant for primage and average on account of 18*l.* overpaid to the owners of the Madras: he is told to ascertain if this was on account of private trade in which the owners were not concerned; if it were, he is to pay, but if not, then the owners are to repay their respective shares, and the names of those refusing to do so to be reported. In the commission now being prepared for the government of Bombay Alexander Grigsby's name is to be put before Philip Gyffard's. The following are given permission to export goods, viz.: Messrs. Permission is given to Messrs. Stracey, Goodier, and White to send to Surat certain goods particulars of which are now read. (½ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, FEBRUARY 8, 1671 (Ibid., p. 195).

Articles of Agreement between the Company and Sir Thomas Chicheley (which the latter now signs) concerning saltpetre sold to him for the King's use are read, and permission is given for the saltpetre to be taken away after the 16th instant. Colonel Mewes and Captain Matthew Randolph accepted as security in 1,000*l.* for Captain John Shaxton, factor. The Committee for Accounts to give directions for such alterations to be made in Harbert's office as shall conduce to greater privacy in the Company's business transacted there, and to the convenience of those working with him. Mr. Prescott reports that the ships for Surat have taken in goods exceeding the five per cent. allowed, and some of them are not as fully provisioned as they should be; hereupon order is given for the commanders of the said ships to attend the Shipping Committee this afternoon, who are to act in the matter as they think fit. The Committee for the Coast and Bay report they have been informed that lately two Frenchmen having leave given them at St. Helena to go fishing landed on that island, but not at the usual place, and came over to the Fort. The Committee think that the Governor of the island should be written to and told not to permit this in future, and when any French, Dutch, or other foreign ships come to the island, to cause a good watch to be kept and not suffer any one to go with boats to any other part of the island to search for convenient landings, or fathom the depth of the water. They further report that one Bowes has been ordered home for some misdemeanours, and they think, it being to the interest of the Company that the island should be well peopled and planted, the Governor should be written to and told not to send away those who are settled in plantations for every offence, but that directions should be sent for punishment of crimes and offences, in accordance with the patent, and also the Company's rules for religious government, for when men have been at pains to settle, and are well established, it is very hard that they should be deprived of all and sent away, unless they have committed some capital offence. Hereupon order is given for a letter to this effect to be written to the Governor of St. Helena, and the Committee for Shipping and Plantations are directed to draw up such rules and instructions for the good government of St. Helena as they think fit. A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MARCH 1, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 206).

The Committee for Private Trade give in their report concerning goods brought home in the Return for account of the late Captain Whitehorn, and record their opinion that it is 'a busines of very evill consequence' for any Agent or factor to encourage persons to invest their stock in calicoes, as was done by the late captain, and that letters should be written ordering the profit made on the said calicoes by Jeremy Sambrooke to be refunded by him and brought to account of the Company. The Court agree to the above report, and order a warrant to be made out for payment to Mrs. Whitehorn for the goods of her late husband; she is also to be allowed to the value of two tons freight when the account of the Return is made up. The chirurgion in the Unicorn to be paid at the rate of 3*s.* per head for the forty-one passengers aboard that ship bound for St. Helena. The Committee for Private Trade to consider how mariners may be encouraged in their lawful private trade by having commodities in India at the usual rates without being imposed upon by the factors; also to ascertain if any of the warehousekeepers at home trade in any of the commodities under their charge. Harbert to give in an account of the cost per cwt. of the copper that came last year from Stockholm and Hamburg. Goods to be delivered to Samuel Sambrooke free of fine. (2½ pp.)

Sir William Thomson reports that last Tuesday Lord Arlington told him of a letter that came from the Secretary to the King's Ambassador in Paris touching proposals made by one Monsieur Barron in reference to the trade to Japan, &c. Sir William also repeats the discourse he had with Lord Arlington on the subject. The letter is read, and the Deputy and several of the Committees, or any three of them, are desired to meet M. Barron where and when they see fit to discuss his first proposal about Japan, and tell him that the Court reject wholly the last proposal as 'unjust and dishonourable'. The petition of John Hetherwick to be examined. The Committee for Lawsuits send in a list of the Company's debtors, and the Court resolve that proceedings shall be taken against Sir John Cloberry and Thomas King, letters written to Francis Bond in Barbados, Daniel Hungerford, and Gilbert Beavis to inform them of their debts to the Company, and request them to send payment speedily; that the moneys owing by Ralph Hudson and Thomas Donn be written off to the account of profit and loss; and that George Perin and Thomas Doyley, who live in the Mint, be summoned to attend the Court. (1 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

The freight of some goods returned in the London to be remitted to Samuel Sambrooke, Senior. A warrant for 8,000*l.*, on account, to be made out to the Farmers of the Customs and dated the 1st of this month. The Accountant presents a statement concerning an adventure of 100*l.* assigned by Samuel Dover to Peter Hasbert, Junior, but entered in the Company's books without any distinction as to whether it belonged to Hasbert, Senior or Junior; orders are given for this mistake to be rectified. Matthew Andrews, Robert Knightley, and Captain Jonathan Hyde propose to build a new three-decker for the Company's service, to be ready by November, 1672; they are told that if they build one of a size approved by the Shipping Committee, and not above 500 tons burden, she shall, in case the Company want a vessel, be employed before any other, but that when the Surat ships return a definite answer shall be given. The sheds belonging to the Blue Warehouse to be repaired, and a new crane erected there. Upon a report by Sir William Thomson concerning the conversation had by the Committees with M. John Mitford, merchant, is accepted as security in a bond of 4,000*l.* for Samuel Sowton, who is employed to buy copper for the Company at Stockholm. Henry Gary's account to be stated. (1½ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MARCH 10, 1671 (Ibid., p. 211).

John Banks to be informed that the Company have ordered Mr. Sowton to buy copper to the value of 4,000*l.* sterling, and that if Banks will direct his brothers to accept and pay Sowton's bills of exchange to that amount and charge the same to the Company, it shall be repaid in London. A report concerning the salary of John Goodier is read, and the Surat Committee desired to consider the several capacities in which he has served, and certify how long he acted in each, also to examine the errors and mistakes in the Surat books of accounts drawn up by the Auditor in January, 1669 and 1670, and report how far they think Goodier is concerned in these. A report of the further discussion had by the Committees with M. Barron is made, and the Court, being dissatisfied with the greatness of his demand in regard to salary and his refusal to give security for the faithful discharge of his trust, do not think fit to proceed with his proposals, and desire the Committees, or any two of them, to acquaint Lord Arlington with what has passed in the matter. Resolved to hold a general court of sales on May 2 next. (1 p.)

THE COMPANY TO SAMUEL SOWTON [AT STOCKHOLM], MARCH 10, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 442).

Intend to send in their next year's shipping to India some copper plates, so commission him to invest for their account 4,000*l.* sterling in the purchase of 'large copper Unger plates'. Give him timely advice that he may buy them at the cheapest rates and ship them in time for the summer season. He is to lade the copper in two or three good free vessels bound for London sailing by the last of June at furthest, consign them to Thomas Sprig, Merchant, in London, and draw the money from Charles & James Banks at Hamburg, to whom order has been given to accept bills from Sowton or his assigns to the said amount. If the price of the copper is encouraging, Sowton shall be given further commissions, therefore they desire to hear frequently from him. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MARCH 15, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 212).

On consideration of a letter from Mr. Sowton at Stockholm, dated February 18 last, the Governor is asked to write and instruct him to contract for copper plates to the value of 10,000*l.*, if they can be had at 5*l.* 14*s.* the cwt., his own commission included, and be delivered in England in June, July, and August next, free of all other charge. Joseph Dawson is admitted to the freedom gratis in consideration of his readiness to serve the Company upon all occasions at his place at the Custom House. John Banks declares he is ready to act as the Company desire with regard to bills of exchange to be drawn on his brothers at Hamburg by Sowton, at  $\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. for provision besides the carriage of letters and brokerage, whereupon order is given for such bills as shall be drawn on the Company by John, Charles, or James Banks to be met and paid. A warrant to be made out for payment to John Culmer for a bill of exchange drawn by Thomas Fitch, purser in the London, and for provisions for the said ship, and order is given for the account of the said Fitch to be examined and reported. Mr. Prescott to be asked what fees are demanded by the officers at the Custom House at Sandwich. Henry Gary's account to be stated. Samuel Barron again offers his services and wishes to know on what terms the Company will employ him; he withdraws and the Court, after reverting to the greatness of his former demands, request two of the Committees to acquaint him with the Company's intentions with regard to his employment and salary. Barron, on hearing these, declares they fall far short of his expectations, but refers himself to the Court's consideration 'as he shall be found to deserve'. Hereupon, certain of the Committees are desired to meet him in the afternoon and make what agreement they see fit. The owners of the Antelope to be paid for thirty passengers carried for account of the Company, and the surgeon of the said ship to be paid at the rate of 5*s.*

per head for them. The Committees of the Fourth and United Joint Stocks to meet to-morrow morning to consider Henry Gary's demands and do as they think fit. The Committee for the Treasury to put a stop to the receipt of money into the Treasury upon loan, and make a timely provision of bullion for Bantam. Letters to be sent to Sir Edward Sprague, to the same effect as those formerly written to Sir Thomas Allen, to desire his assistance in procuring satisfaction for the Company's treasure plundered from aboard the Morning Star by a Turkish man-of-war off Cadiz in March, 1669. The Consul at Algiers also to be written to for assistance in the matter. (12<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MARCH 17, 1671 (Ibid., p. 214).

On being asked whether the Company intend to 'defalk' 6s. in every 100*l.* lent to them on interest (as is mentioned in the Subsidy Act) the Court declare that this Stock is not liable to assessment, each adventurer being assessed for his own estate in the place where he lives, and therefore no advantage will be taken of this clause. The owners of the Phoenix to be paid 8*l.* a head for the twenty-seven passengers received on board for the Company's account. A memorial from Anthony Beale, who assisted in surveying the Company's shipping, is referred to the Shipping Committee. A report rectifying the agreement made with M. Barron is read; in this he is to serve the Company for five years wherever they shall think convenient at an annual salary of 120*l.*, he referring himself to them for any further gratuity he shall be found to deserve, and on condition that he may return to England after three years if he so desires; his salary to begin from the time of his entertainment, one half to be paid in India if he wishes. His request to be allowed to have Jan France to assist him at a salary of 5*l.* a year, and that they may both be provided with accommodation until they are sent away, is, on being put to the vote, agreed to, nem. con., provided the said France produces within a month a testimonial from the Protestant church in Paris certifying that he is of the reformed religion and has held communion with them whilst he was in France. The Committees, who delivered the report, are requested to prepare a draft of the covenants to be entered into by Barron, and the form of an oath of fidelity to the Company to be taken both by Barron and France; they are also to give directions that proper accommodation of diet and lodging be provided for the two men, so that Barron may be ready at all times to attend the Court. Thirteen Committees are nominated to consider about the Japan trade, and they,

or any three of them, are authorized to decide what ships and cargoes should be sent to those parts, with anything else relating to this project, and the care of it all is entrusted to Sir William Thomson, and in his absence to Mr. Papillon. The petition of John Thomas is referred to Captain Prowd for examination and report. Bills for chirurgery chests, lately provided and sent to India, to be examined and paid. ( $1\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

On delivery of the said plates they will make punctual payment according to agreement. Copy of this letter with a small addition for confirmation sent March 31, 1671. ( $\frac{1}{4}$  p.)

MINUTE BY THE NAVY BOARD, NAVY OFFICE, MARCH 21, 1671 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 297, no. 45).

On a discourse with Sir John Bankes as to calculating the tonnage of the Dunkirk and Convertine freighted by the East India Company. That with regard to the Board's demand of 40 tons more for freight of the former than she brought, the Company showed a certificate by Bass, her master, that she was fully laden in India; also another certificate by several commanders of their ships then at Swally, that all care was used by the Company's agent there to provide for her full stowage, and that the commanders supposed she might contain 300 tons of goods if one-third was pepper, but they had doubts whether she would bear so much at a convenient draught of water. The Company also offered a copy of a clause in a letter of Sir George Oxenden to Sir William Rider, affirming that a boat laden with pepper lay twenty-four hours by the ship's side and was not taken in for want of room, and appealing to Captain Arnold Brown's memory, as also the testimony of Mr. Goodyear, then their Second at Surat, to justify it. That as to the Convertine, the Company pretend and remain to prove that she was not delivered to them according to charterparty till March 20, and urge the letter of the contract for her freight, to determine at her return to the river; against which the Board urge her not being returned to the King, and consequently the reasonableness of her being still reputed in freight until the date of the Company's letter, desiring the Board to survey and take her back. Memorandum that the bill for 1,750*l.* was advanced upon her, and interest therefore expected for the 5,000*l.* not paid. (1½ pp. Copy.)

The petition of Derick Elers is referred to several Committees, with the reference made to it by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, to consider and state what should be reported to Their Lordships. A report of Mr. Goodier's account is read and order given for him to be allowed at the rate of 120*l.* per annum from the time he became accountant to the time he left India, this account to be made out accordingly and, in consideration of his good services both at Surat and Bombay, he is given a gratuity of 200*l.* and a gold medal to the value of 20*l.* Mr. Nanfan offers a new three-decker for the Company's service, burden about 500 tons, now being built at Powton, Lancs.; he is told that when she is brought into the Thames, if found suitable and if the Company have need of more shipping than has been already tendered, she shall be entertained before any other. Barron about the intended voyage to Japan before perfecting the said covenants. The form of the oath prepared for M. Barron to take is presented and approved. (2½ pp.)

AFFIDAVIT OF JOHN GOODIER, MERCHANT, OF PETERSHAM, SURREY, MARCH 24, 1671 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 297, no. 49).

That in 1662 the Dunkirk, being at Surat to be laden and despatched to England by the East India Company, he, as their Second there, remembers that a large country boat laden with pepper on the Company's account followed and attended on the ship for some time before she was ready to sail, and at last returned with a part of such pepper, the officers of the ship having alleged that the ship was full and could not take any more.

THE COMPANY TO SIR EDWARD SPRAGG, MARCH 27, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 443).

Have sent him copies of what they formerly wrote to Sir Thomas Allen concerning certain gold and silver taken out of their ship the Morning Star by a Turkish man-of-war from Algiers, as the conduct of that affair is now committed to his management. Entreat his help and assure him that if by his prudence and valour the pirates are induced to offer restitution either by force or treaty, the same shall be acknowledged by an honourable reward. Are informed by Sir Thomas Allen that all papers relating to this matter are in the hands of the Judge Advocate or Consul. A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 5, 1671 (Ibid., p. 239).

Order is given for a general court to be called next Friday afternoon when the Governor is desired to inform the generality that the Stock having been much reduced by the large dividends issued in 1666 (there being then little opportunity for trade because of the Dutch war), and it having been impossible to issue any since, as it was necessary not only to employ all the Stock and the profits arising from it, but also to take up great sums of money at interest to carry on the trade. But having now, by the blessing of God, supplied the trade with a convenient Stock, and seeing that the adventurers desire something decided as soon as possible, the Court have resolved to issue a dividend of ten per cent, to be allowed to buyers at the next sale in payment for goods, and paid to others in ready money as fast as it comes in, warrants for the same, payable to the respective adventurers, to be ready by the 18th instant. Though this may seem but a small proportion after so many years, 'God having so much blessed our affairs', yet for the reasons given it could not be greater, but in the event of continued success, the Court will be ready to make such further dividend as will be consistent with the carrying on the trade and keeping up their credit. The Governor 'to gratifie a person with thirty guineys, who hath been civil to the Company on all occasions, and ready to further the procuring payment of moneys due unto them'. THE KING TO THE SULTAN OF BANTAM, MAY 24, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 455).

His Majesty acknowledges the receipt of a letter, and a present of a creese and four lances from the most famous and renowned Sultan Abull Fettahee King of Bantam, and wishes him health, prosperity, and happiness. A further answer and acknowledgment will be sent by the ships of the East India Company next winter. In the meantime His Majesty desires to tell the Sultan of the measures by which friendship with him and his country do and must always subsist. His royal predecessors by their charters granted to the East India Company sole traffic to all the kingdoms and places of the East beyond the Cape of Good Hope with full power to correspond with all Emperors, Kings, and Princes in those parts in order to trade with them, which power and authority His present Majesty has confirmed by renewing the said Company's charter, therefore though the Sultan's letter and present has been willingly accepted as a testimony of friendship, yet it must be understood that all power and authority has been transferred to the said Company to trade and correspond with the Sultan and all other Princes and Kings in those parts 'without reserving any distinct correspondence to Ourselve'. His Majesty hopes that the Sultan will confirm the ancient agreement made with the Company, or make such other as shall be of mutual advantage, and give them all encouragement and protection in their trade, that they may have the privilege of governing and ordering their own affairs according to agreements already made, and that the Sultan will, whenever they have recourse to his protection, show them justice and favour. 'This, and this only wee intended by the expressions of our letter, wherein wee recommended them to Your Majestie and wee declare that your justice and kindnes to our Company and to their Agents and Ministers residing with you in the Indies are the only acts of your freindship which wee expect or can receive.' His Majesty particularly desires the Sultan to allow a fair and friendly correspondence with the Agents and Councils of the said Company residing in those parts, from whom he shall be supplied with all things, by way of commerce, which Europe affords, and whatever respect or protection afforded to the said Agents and Councils and whatever privileges or preferences in trade shown to them the Company will acknowledge. 'Given at our Court at Whitehall.' Signed 'Your affectionate freind Charles R.'

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 26, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 257).

The sum of 5*l.* to be remitted to John Good (Wood in the margin) minister of Redruth, he being an adventurer in the General Joint Stock. A report from the Committee for Debts is read, and order given for Butler, one of the clerks in Harbert's office, to keep separate books of accounts for all moneys due for freight and permission on fine goods and bullion to and from India and give Dunkin notice of having received these; for all goods exported for India on which the Company are to receive the half subsidy; and for all sums received for admission to the freedom of the Company. Butler is also from time to time to call upon all debtors to clear their accounts, and report their answers to the Committee for Debts, and the Auditor is to inspect these accounts and see that all this is done. Harbert is to draw up a list of all adventurers who have paid their 5*l.* but not taken the oath of a freeman, and of those who have not paid. The Secretary is to keep a distinct register of all bonds entered into by factors and their securities, and ascertain whether the latter are answerable to the 'quality' and salary of the factor, and in case of any deficiency to report to the Court. The factors entertained lately are now ranked according to ballot: David Stephens to be first; Thomas Bawds third, and to fill the post of accountant; Simon Delboe to be fourth; William Gyfford fifth, and Robert Sainthill sixth. The petition of Mary Sargeant is referred for examination. (1½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 31, 1671 (Ibid., p. 258).

The sum of 5*l.* is remitted to Mr. Blackmore, late minister of St. Peter's, Cornhill, to the widow of Mr. Carpenter, late minister at London Wall, and to Mrs. Bowen, whose husband was formerly servant to the Company, all being adventurers in the present Joint Stock. Damaged pepper returned in the Loyal Merchant and in the Anne to be delivered to the owners of those ships and placed to their account. The account of John Camel to be examined. At the request of Thomas Pearle, the differences depending between the Company and the late Henry Pearle are referred to arbitration, the referees named, and told that a decision is to be arrived at within the next two months. Thomas Hancock is admitted to the freedom by service. The Deputy reporting that Elisha Bridges is unable to proceed to his employment as a factor, the petition of Samuel Griffith for entertainment is read, and the latter, having some knowledge of drugs and physic, speaking French, Spanish, and Portuguese, and several Committees testifying to his sobriety and good behaviour, he is elected a factor. Harbert to deliver Mr. Bulkley's warrant for his dividend to his servant, but to take care that 10*l.* of it is left in the Company's hands until the adventure for 100*l.*, transferred by Bulkley to Mr. Drax, is withdrawn, or accepted by the latter. The account of Arthur Bennet, late servant to Captain Barker, to be stated. (1½ pp.)

. . . The East India Company's ketch, sent to meet the homeward-bound Indiamen, came in here after cruising ten or twelve days without meeting any of them.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 2, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 260).

Several persons complaining that the Accountant demands a fine of 5*l.* for adventures before giving the dividend warrant, although the said adventures may only be for 100*l.* or less, the Court order that the fine be remitted to all whose adventures do not exceed 100*l.*, but on any adventures beyond that sum the fine must be paid. Thomas Wilson and Mr. Wood to be notified to attend next Wednesday's court. Messrs. Knapton and Kent, Benjamin Child, and Lawrence Saucer are recommended for entertainment, and some of the Committees are desired to ascertain their respective qualifications. The Court, noting that many adventurers have not yet applied for their warrant nor received the ten per cent dividend, though money has been kept in cash for payment of the same, declare that those who bought goods at the last sale shall, until June 16, have allowance given to them on their accounts for money due on any warrants, but after that time no discount will be allowed but from the time of their producing the said warrants. The Committee for Writing Letters to prepare one in answer to that received from the Agent and Council of Bantam, and give their opinion as to what should be added. Roger Chappel, having paid the award decided upon by the referees, moves for some abatement; the Court, not wishing to encourage such a course yet hearing that some of the referees had intimated that Chappel might expect it, agree to allow him 60*l.* Edward Boverly is admitted to the freedom by service. The petition of John Jerry to be examined. (1½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 7, 1671 (Ibid., p. 261).

A fine of 5*l.* is remitted to the widow of John Phipp on her adventure of 125*l.* in the General Joint Stock, and order given for the dividend to be delivered to her. A 'scrutore' and some China ware returned in the Loyal Merchant to be delivered to Thomas Pearle. Payment to be made to John Camel. Mr. Gurney claiming some of the musk belonging to Henry Pearle now in the Company's warehouse, at the request of Thomas Pearle, order is given for the quantity claimed to be delivered. Sir John Banks to ascertain from the Secretary of State whether the guns to be presented to the King of Bantam are to be made in brass, so that timely directions may be given for casting them. Two letters prepared to be sent to the King of Bantam are approved, and it is agreed that the President and Council of Surat be ordered to provide and have ready every September goods sufficient to lade a ship for Bantam; that the salary and gratuity of Mr. Brigs, minister there, be increased from 60*l.* to 100*l.* per annum to begin from to-day, and that Mr. Albyn be desired to provide the books mentioned in the list received from the Agent and Council to be added to the Company's library at Bantam. The Committee for the Treasury to provide 40,000 dollars for shipment in the Anne. The Governor reporting that Mr. Bawds cannot proceed in the Company's service, it is resolved to recommend William Gyfford to the Agent and Council to be employed as Chief in one of the factories to be settled at Tunqueen or Formosa. Thomas James to be employed as one of the factors for Japan. At the request of Mr. Billingsly, the difference touching Mr. Stevenson is referred to arbitration, to be settled within the next two months. (1½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 9, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 263).

In accordance with the desire of the Agent and Council at Bantam, John English, secretary there, is given an additional 10*l.* yearly. The Committees for Japan are desired to ask M. Baron what further knowledge he has obtained touching this trade. The owners of the Anne to be paid for imprest, and her Captain, Zachary Brown, for primage and average. Directions are given for sheathing the Company's ships, 'to be at least one inch and quarter thick, well caulked and nailed'. The Committee for the City Lands to be treated with for some convenient warehouse room in Gresham College. On a report, made by the Committee for Accounts February 10, 1669, the Court gave directions that Sambrooke should be answerable for all goods that came into his hands, and if he accommodated any friends with small quantities he was to charge for these at the same rate as the rest would be sold at; but now it is resolved that Sambrooke must not sell any part of the goods in his custody until they have been offered at the candle. John Kent is chosen as one of the five factors to be sent to Japan. Petitions for employment are read from Joseph Clissald, Samuel Bickerton, Henry Ireton, James Harding, Edward Barwel, John Blount, William Keeling, John Scrape, Samuel Potts, and Isaac Trippier, and the Committees are desired to ascertain and report as to their respective 'qualifications and demeanour'. Mr. Greenhill's account; and the sum of 1*l.* 18*s.* from the account of that Stock to the debt of Sir Thomas Chambers. Moses to take legal proceedings against Thomas King, Mr. Fulford, and other debtors, lest by delay their debts fall within the statute of limitations. Fulford, or those who negotiate for him, to be spoken to about his debt. Morgan Powell is admitted to the freedom by redemption. (2 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

THE COMPANY TO MESSRS. BANKS [AT HAMBURG], JUNE 16, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 447).

Acknowledge their letter of the 19th ult. advising that Sowton has drawn upon them for 3,000 dollars in three bills; this shall be punctually repaid. Note their advice that copper plates have fallen in price upon the expected arrival of some in Holland, and that when these come the price will fall still more. Commission them to buy to the value of 4,000*l.* sterling in the several sorts of plates they provided last year, not to exceed the price then given, but to buy at the cheapest rate possible. (½ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 21, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 267).

The dividend due to Mr. Crane to be paid to his assignee, Mr. Fairfax. Warrants for their respective dividends to be delivered to Mr. Elfick, Philip Jackson, Paul Priaulx, and Susan Hicock. Remittance of the 5*l.* due on their adventures is made to Mr. Giffard, minister, and to the widow of the late Mr. Archer, minister. Musk, seed pearls, and two quilts returned in the Berkeley Castle, to be delivered to Humphrey Gifford, free of permission. On petition Elizabeth Wrenman, whose late husband was second mate in the Anne and died on the homeward voyage, is to have delivered to her free of fine some camphor, and if it is found that Wrenman behaved well on the voyage, she is to be refunded the fines she paid on white pepper, as a gratuity. Captain Zachary Brown asks to have delivered to him free of fine some white pepper he received in Bantam in satisfaction for a debt; the Court express dislike of his behaviour in this matter, yet, though unable to grant his request, they promise to consider him in some other way. It having been found expedient to prohibit private trade in white pepper and as attempts to bring it home are still made, the Court declare that no abatement in the fine for it shall be made to any one acting in opposition to this prohibition, and the Committees are not to move for any gratuity in lieu of it. Captain Prowd to see that the treasure is shipped safely in the Anne. The Court to consider next Friday whether to elect any more factors or writers. John Ogilby to be given 5*l.* for a book he presented to the Company called 'The Second and Third Embassy to the Emperour of China.'<sup>1</sup> Consideration to be had about sending guns to Bombay to be kept there as a magazine. (2½ pp.)

Great inconvenience having been caused through the King of Bantam's 'insinuations with some of the commanders', and the sending of presents to England which has proved troublesome and inconvenient, and caused expectations of returns of much greater value, order is now given that in future no commander, officer, or seaman shall speak with the King, or any of his great men about the Company's affairs, and His Majesty be told that the Company's business is to be transacted by the Agent and Council, to whom he may communicate whatever he wishes. The commanders to be instructed to keep their ships always in a good posture of defence and so prevent any attempt at a surprise, especially on arriving near St. Helena, or approaching any land. The Shipping Committee to provide for the King of Bantam in return for his present three brass guns, one hundred firelocks, and two hundred matchlocks, all which it is estimated will cost 499*l*. THE COMPANY TO SULTAN ABULL FETTAHEE, KING OF BANTAM AND MANY OTHER TERRITORIES, JUNE 23, 1671 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 456).

They acknowledge the receipt of His Majesty's letter and present by the Loyal Merchant, and promise to send the commodities desired by the winter shipping if they can be ready in time. By divers royal charters under the Great Seal from several Princes of this realm, which have been confirmed by His present Majesty, they have been granted the sole trade of all the East beyond the Cape of Good Hope, and correspondence with all Emperors, Kings, and Princes, and though it is unusual for their King to treat with any of the said Princes, yet when the Sultan wished to send him a present they did all in their power to help and to procure a return from His Majesty. But they learn that this correspondence has caused the Sultan some apprehension about the diminution of their authority and of that of their Agent and Council, whereas they acted as they did that it might appear how much His Majesty appreciated the kindness and respect shown to them and their Agent and Council, in explanation of which His Majesty has now written. They are informed by their Agent and Council that when, at the request of the Sultan, they sent powder, musket, bandoleers, and match in the London, and in the Loyal Merchant four brass guns and twenty-seven iron guns (instead of the thirty brass guns as desired) for which the Sultan had promised to pay the prime cost on arrival, yet he made some question as to these being sent as presents, or that some person had insinuated that the said guns belonged to the King when they were bought by the Company and sent by desire of the Sultan as merchandise and not as presents, and their Agent and Council could not do otherwise than acquaint him with this. Though they accepted the Sultan's present and made some return, yet their usual way of correspondence with Emperors, Kings, and Princes in the East has always been and still is through their Agent and Council at Bantam, therefore they desire the Sultan to show the latter respect and kindness, they acting under authority, and to correspond with them upon all occasions, and encourage them in their trade, for the Sultan must see how constant they have been to his port since their arrival in his dominions, and what great advantage he has gained thereby. They also desire that what capitulations and agreements have been made by the Sultan with their Agents as to protection, privileges, trade, or other encouragements may be kept inviolable, and such further grants made to them as shall be for the advantage of the Sultan and the promotion of trade, that no misapprehensions may arise in future as to privileges, customs, presents, or any other thing whatsoever, and they for their part will give directions to their Agent and Council to behave with all fairness and due honour and punctually to keep such Articles and Agreements as shall be made. They desire, as a means of encouraging them in their trade in the Sultan's dominions, that he will enable them to procure pepper at more reasonable rates so that they may be able 'to keepe marketts with the Dutch', for such great quantities are brought into Europe by the Dutch, French, Portuguese, and Danes both from India and from the South Seas, and it has become so cheap that unless it can be bought on reasonable terms it will not be worth bringing over, and were they to stop buying it in the Sultan's dominions he can well understand how prejudicial it would be for him. Should the Sultan have occasion for guns, muskets, or other European commodities in the way of commerce, he should agree with their Agent for what is wanted and they will endeavour to supply the same. They have instructed their Agent and Council several times to inform the Sultan how difficult it is to obtain a quantity of 'peesces of eight of Civell and Mexico stampe, espetially those that are waighty', and therefore beg him to allow 'piller rials of eight' to pass in his dominions, they being 'full as fine and waighty', or that silver and gold by the ounce or such coins as are obtainable may pass in his territories according to their true value, if he does not do this much prejudice will arise to trade because now so much 'piller mony' is coined. A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 30, 1671 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 273).

Some Committees complain that notwithstanding frequent injunctions to keep private all matters debated in court, particular discourses have been divulged and made use of, to the prejudice of the Company, and discouragement of the Committees in the discharge of their trust; hereupon it is ordered that no member of the court shall mention any transactions or passages debated or agreed upon in court when it is known that these are to be kept secret, and in no case make known the discourses of any particular member; it is also ordered that the officers attending the court shall keep secret all debates or proceedings at which they are present, and that in future none of the officers' assistants or clerks shall be admitted to the court unless sent for. It being represented that there will not be sufficient warehouserom for all the goods now expected home, and that there are some vaults to let in the Fishmongers' Hall, certain Committees are desired to consult with the several warehouse-keepers and ascertain where room may be found, examine the same, particularly the vaults referred to, and report to the Court. Order is hereupon given for the six guineas to be paid into the Treasury and placed to the account of Profit and Loss 'as so much acknowledged to be restored that had been wrongfully taken from the Company'. THE COMPANY TO SULTAN ABULL FETTAHEE, KING OF BANTAM, FEBRUARY 8, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 521).

Some misunderstanding having arisen between His Majesty and their Agent concerning the management of their affairs in His Majesty's dominions, they procured a letter from their King to the Sultan and wrote at large themselves in order to prevent all future misunderstandings. At the same time they acknowledged the receipt of His Majesty's letter, in which he mentioned the 100 bahars of pepper he had desired their Agent to present to them, and stated that they intended to make some return by their winter shipping. Since this they have received advice from their Agent Dacres of a contract made with the Sultan for payment of 4,000 dollars a year instead of any presents, customs, &c., of which they approve during Dacres's stay, and until they give orders to the contrary. In confidence that His Majesty has made good his promise with regard to the pepper, they now send in the Hannibal four brass sakers and 300 muskets, which the Agent is to deliver if he has received the pepper, but if not, then he is to dispose of them as directed. By the Ann they received His Majesty's letter in which he complained of the Agent and of Mr. Mainstone; the latter long before receipt of His Majesty's said letter had been ordered to England to answer for his misdemeanours; he being removed and the Sultan having received their King's letter and their own, and the aforesaid agreement having been made they hope there will be no more misunderstandings. As to the price of pepper, their Agent quotes 15 dollars the bahar, which they have told him is too dear compared with what the Dutch sell at, and they cannot hope to compete with the latter unless they sell as cheaply. Of this they have often told their Agent to inform the Sultan and to desire him to consult his own and his people's interest, as well as the Company's, how best to keep the trade of the latter in his kingdom. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, FEBRUARY 9, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxvii, p. 415).

Sir John Banks to speak to Sir Thomas Chicheley and Sir John Duncombe about the money due for saltpetre. Resolved that a General Court of Sales be held on April 16 next. Permission to export goods is granted to Jacob Aboab, Arthur Philpot, Captain Peirce, and Captain Richard Goodlad. A report is read touching the dispute between Rolt, Lambton, and others, in which the committee state that what is affirmed by Rolt is denied by others at Surat, therefore they can give no judgement, but only offer their opinion that the Court should write to the President and Council at Surat and desire all animosities to be stopped, and care taken to prevent offences for the future; that Rolt use his authority to punish all who act contrary to the established orders of the Company; that he keep up a good correspondence with the President and Council, and observe their orders, as being subordinate to them; that Ralph Lambton come home or remain at Bombay, and that the President issue orders to all captains of ships and others employed in Persia to give due respect to Rolt as the Company's Chief. The Court agree to this and direct that the President and Council at Surat and Mr. Rolt be informed of it. At the instance of Mr. Breton, one of the owners of the Coast Frigate, certain Committees are desired to report touching the damaged goods returned in that ship. On information that some persons desire six per cent interest on their money now in the Company's hands, from the time it shall become due, or else to be paid the principal, the Court order that all such persons be allowed the six per cent desired, but at the same time recommend the Treasury Committees to take care that all who take advantage of 'the present exigency of affairs be paid off in the first place' as soon as there is sufficient cash to do this. THE KING TO SHĀH SULAIMĀN, KING OF PERSIA, MARCH 6, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 544).

His Majesty has been informed by his East India Company of the happy succession of 'Shaw Solyman' to the throne of his renowned ancestors, and of the peace and tranquillity of the great kingdoms under his obedience, and sends hearty congratulations and wishes for the increase and continuance of the Shāh's prosperity. The said Company have at the same time humbly represented how that about fifty years ago articles of agreement were confirmed to them by Shāh Sulaimān's famous predecessor, Shāh Abbas, by which for their great charge and service in assisting in the taking of the 'Castle of Kishmē, Citty, Castle, and Island of Ormous', they were to receive (among other benefits) one-half of the customs and duties payable by all merchants ships, etc., arriving on this side of Ormous, as appears by the first and third article of the said agreement. But they complain that Your Majesty's officers have for many years past slighted their Agents and withheld the greatest part of their right, for though the customs are worth 30,000 tomands a year yet they have seldom received more than 1,000 tomands. The King, not wishing for any breach in the ancient friendship existing between the two nations, trusts that the peaceable representation of these wrongs may bring about the recovery of the Company's just dues for the time past, and 'a firme establishment' by Shāh Sulaimān's commands to his Officers and Ministers for the future, so that the Company may receive annually 'their full proportions upon a just accompt, whereby the freindship and good correspondence which hath continued so many yeares may be still preserved and remaine inviolate'. 'Given at Our Court at Whitehall.' Signed Your verie affectionate Freind Charles R. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A GENERAL COURT, APRIL 17, 1672 (Ibid., p. 446).

The Governor informs the generality of the order of the Committees of the 15th inst. for a dividend of twenty per cent to be issued to all adventurers immediately after the sale, and that any buying goods at the said sale are to be allowed the dividend in payment for the same. That after the Dutch war the Stock was so reduced it had been necessary to take up great sums of money at interest in order to carry on the trade, and since 1666 only one dividend of ten per cent in May last has been issued. The Court hoped to have declared another after the last sale, but the 'expatiating of their trade prevented it'. Now, finding the expectation of the adventurers to be so great, a dividend, as mentioned, has been declared, and is to be allowed to those buying goods at the sale in payment for them, and to others as fast as money comes in. Warrants for the said dividend will be ready for issue next Saturday. (1 p.)

PRINCE RUPERT TO SIR PHILIP HONYWOOD, MAY 25, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Entry Book 39, p. 31).

. . . As the East India ships and other merchantmen now ordered

PHILIP LANYON AT PLYMOUTH TO JAMES HICKES, MAY 26, 1672
(Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 309, no. 155).

PHILIP LANYON AT PLYMOUTH TO JAMES HICKES, MAY 28, 1672
(Ibid., 310, no. 27).

But two ships have arrived since my last. One with three others is gone to cruise for our East India ships. . . .

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 31, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 23).

The Deputy Governor reports that he has received a letter from Sir Joseph Williamson advising that Prince Rupert has sent orders for the East India ships 'to move upwards', he also tells of letters written by advice of the Committees on the 25th and 28th instant for the Company's ships to stop at St. Helen's, Spithead, or Portsmouth, there to await further directions. The Deputy is hereupon desired to wait on Prince Rupert and pray that the convoy may be ordered to stop at Spithead with the East India ships until they receive further orders. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

The Treasury Committee to affix the Company's seal to the charter-party of the Humphrey and Elizabeth. The owners of the John and Martha to be paid 1,000*l.* upon account of freight. Mrs. Cony begs that her husband may be continued in the Company's service, as she understands from a consultation lately held by the commanders now returned that the differences between him and the inhabitants of the island have been composed. The Court, after reading a copy of the consultation and of a letter left at the island by the said commanders, decide to adhere to their former resolution of discharging Captain Cony. The allegation of Mr. Woolley, that some bettelles were missing from a bale he bought, is referred for examination. Captain Harman having been written to and advised to let Captain Basse assist him with the Unicorn in case his sickness should disable him, and Basse having been also written to, the owners of the said ship are informed; they express approval and promise to send written orders to the same effect. Anthony Beale to be allowed 10*l.* for fresh provisions in his voyage to St. Helena, and 10*l.* for assisting Captain Prowd for the last nine months in surveying ships for the service of the Company. TREASURY MINUTE, JUNE 7, 1672 (Public Record Office: Treasury Minute Book iv, pp. 279-80).

Upon Sir John Banks's motion my Lords order to renew the orders for the transporting of guns for the taking of 40s. upon iron guns and only pay 5 according to the last orders for the East India Company.

MR. WACHTENDONK TO SIR J. VAN WACHTENDONK, JUNE 7, 1672
(Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 17).

I saw yesterday about 40 soldiers at the East India House that are to go to St. Helena. The ship that is to carry them and the goods thither does not go to the East Indies, but is to remain there awhile and wait for the East India ships expected next spring to give them warning. . . .

SIR J. WILLIAMSON TO THE DEPUTY GOVERNOR OF PORTSMOUTH, JUNE 7, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Entry Book 39, p. 45).

Prince Rupert having ordered the East India ships lately arrived in the West to stay at Portsmouth for orders, now sends the enclosed directions to them to proceed on their way, which are to be communicated to them when they reach St. Helen's or Spithead, and you are to see the order obeyed. . . .

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 8, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 34).

. . . The three East India ships that were at Plymouth are expected here, but at 9 p.m. had not arrived.

SIR PHILIP HONYWOOD AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 8, 1672 (Ibid., no. 35).

I have just received yours with His Royal Highness's order enclosed, for the East India ships, if here, to proceed to the river with their convoy. As soon as any of them arrive I shall send the order on board, and I have ordered all the ships here bound for the river to be ready against the convoy touching here.

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 10, 1672 (Ibid., no. 64).

We are expecting the three East India ships that were at Plymouth to stop here, to take with them the merchantmen here bound for London.

TREASURY MINUTE, JUNE 10, 1672 (Public Record Office: Treasury Minute Book iv, pp. 281-4).

A report about the East India Company is read. The Attorney-General to be attended about it towards the end of the term.

RICHARD WATTS AT DEAL TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 11, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 83).

. . . This morning the Constant Warwick and Falcon came into the Downs, said to be bound westward to convoy our East India ships to the river. . . .

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 12, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 27).

A report on the debt owing by Robert Davis is read and approved. The Committee for Accounts to consider the present state of the Company's books and prescribe a method for carrying on their accounts and the annual balancing of the same. The Governor to fill in the blank in Captain Midford's instructions appointing the place to which the Company's homeward-bound ships are to go on leaving St. Helena. The Humphrey and Elizabeth to touch at the Madeiras for refreshment of her men on her way to St. Helena, a clause to this effect to be inserted in Midford's instructions, and 50*l.* or 100*l.* to be supplied to buy wine for the ship's company and for the officers and soldiers at St. Helena. Mr. Hayes demanding some baftas he bought, it is found that only some of greater value are left, therefore order is given for these to be delivered to him on the understanding that he shall give 'somewhat considerably to the poore's box'. (1½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 14, 1672 (Ibid., p. 29).

A report from the Committee for Accounts is read; it is to the following effect: they advise that the transfer of accounts to new books should be postponed until next year, and that Altham in the meantime should transfer the titles of accounts into the ledger and keep it posted in the course of the Company's trade, while some other person should be appointed to do the balancing; that Harbert should confine his attention to writing the Journal, directing the other clerks and assistants in their work and inspecting the same; he is also to sign the ships' accounts; while Butler is to make up all accounts of shipping and discounts; that the keeper of the Pepper Warehouse should have two books to use alternately each month, and thus allow the Auditor and Accountant to examine one whilst he enters accounts into the other. With regard to the matter of discounts upon interest, which is very troublesome and takes up much of the accountant's time, the Committee advise the Company to allow direct interest, and if this is thought to be a loss, then to allow the Court to 'take off as much in point of time as will counter-vail the same'. The Court approve of all but the last clause, which is referred for further consideration. The request of Mr. Briscoe for allowance on some of the pepper he bought, it not being as good as the rest, is agreed to. Order is given for 44s., demanded by Mr. Warren as 'Trophy money' for the Company's House, to be paid, a promise being given to forbear assessing the Company in 'like kind' in future. The Committees for Writing Letters to consider and prepare letters for Surat to be sent overland. (2 pp.)

THE COMPANY TO CAPTAIN ROBERT MEDFORD, JUNE 14, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 549).

Have taken into their service the Humphrey and Elizabeth (of which ship he is commander), victualled, manned and furnished her with artillery and ammunition, caused to be laden on board, provisions, guns and ammunition for their island of St. Helena and chosen Captain Anthony Beale to be Governor there. They have also sent several soldiers who are to take passage in the said ship for that island. Having delivered Medford a commission from his Royal Highness for command of the Humphrey and Elizabeth and for observing such orders as the Company shall give, they now require him to use all diligence to get into the Downs and from thence, wind and weather permitting, to St. Helena, where on arrival he is to land such soldiers and passengers as are aboard and deliver the artillery and ammunition to the Governor and Council. During his stay at the island he and his company are to assist in bettering and furthering the fortifications there as the Governor and Council shall desire, and to keep his ship in a good posture of defence in case of an attack by the enemy. About November some of the Company's ships should arrive at the island from the Coast of Coromandel and from Bantam. Medford is to wait for these, but not after May 1, 1673, when he is to leave with any that are there; they are to keep company together and assist each other if attacked. He is to keep the Company advised as to his movements as opportunity shall present, and is especially directed to maintain the worship of God and the observation of the Lord's Day in his ship, to take good care of his men, especially of any who are sick, treat Captain Beale, who is to have the great cabin for himself and his family, with all civility and respect, and on arriving at the island assist him in settling good order, both as to its government and defence. The former Governor, Captain Cony, is to return in the Humphrey and Elizabeth, have the great cabin, and be treated with all civility. Medford is directed to assist any ships he shall meet belonging to His Majesty's subjects that shall be engaged with the enemy or in danger, and direct commanders to keep all clear between decks for their better defence and safety. On returning from his voyage he is to render up all arms, guns, powder and shot he shall have remaining. With the money supplied to him he is to buy five pipes of wine at the Madeiras, three for the use of his ship and two for St. Helena, also some 'Beverage wine' and some fresh provisions, and give in an account of these on his return. (1¼ pp.)

THE COMPANY TO CAPTAIN RICHARD CONY, JUNE 14, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 553).

When they entertained him into their service as Governor of St. Helena they gave him instructions to manage affairs there with the advice and consent of the Council, to observe the Company's orders and directions for the good government of that place, and to administer justice impartially for encouragement of the inhabitants, and doubted not of his compliance. But having received 'many large complaints' of his acting contrary to these orders, by which the peace of the island has been disturbed and its safety greatly endangered, they have discharged him from that employment and sent Captain Anthony Beale (who takes his passage in the Humphrey and Elizabeth) to succeed as Governor, unto whom on his arrival Coney is to deliver up the government with all things belonging to the Company, and take passage for England in the Humphrey and Elizabeth. In case Captain Beale should die before arriving at St. Helena, Captain Robert Mitford is appointed to succeed as Governor there, and should he die then Lieutenant Nicholas Lewis is to take the post, to either of whom Coney is to deliver up the government as fully as he is enjoined to do should Captain Beale live and arrive in safety. (½ p.)

PHILIP LANYON AT PLYMOUTH TO JAMES HICKES, JUNE 16, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 165).

... Here is a great and rich fleet, five East India ships, one from Smyrna, and many big Virginia ships and others, in all above 60, bound eastwards, waiting for a fair wind, under convoy of the Newcastle and Welcome with two East India advisers.

THE EARL OF ARLINGTON TO PRINCE RUPERT, JUNE 17, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom. Entry Book 39, p. 55).

. . . Lord Clifford mentions a verbal order received from the King this afternoon that Your Highness should send to Portsmouth to take off the restraint now lying on the East India and plantation ships from the westward so that they may be able to proceed up the Channel.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 18, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 31).

THE GOVERNOR TO THE COMMANDERS OF THE SHIPS IN THE SERVICE OF THE EAST INDIA COMPANY EXPECTED AT ST. HELENA ABOUT APRIL, 1673, JUNE 18, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 553).

In these times of trouble it is not convenient to have it known publicly at what port in Europe they may be expected, and that this may be kept secret he has been deputed to advise them, but as affairs now stand 'it cannot well be certainly fixed'. Directs them to use their best endeavours to speak with any vessel they may see outward-bound in order to ascertain how affairs stand in Europe, but if they see none then to sail unto        and there await orders from the Company. Signed John Banks, Governor. To be opened by the Governor of St. Helena upon the arrival of the first ship. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

THE GOVERNOR TO CAPTAIN ANTHONY BEALE, JUNE 18, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. iv, p. 554).

Having duly considered the present state of affairs, they direct him at the first opportunity to start on his designed voyage. He is to call at Plymouth, send to Isaac Tillard and if he has received no order from them, Mitford is to set sail immediately. ( $\frac{1}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 19, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 31).

William Mainston to be paid 100*l.* on account. Letters are read from the Agent and Council at Bantam, sent in the Ann, commanded by Captain Zachary Brown. The Committee for the Calico Warehouse to report which of the persons recommended as assistant to Sambrooke is fittest to be entertained. The Committee for Accounts to consider what increase should be made in the salaries of the two under-clerks in the Accountant's Office, and ascertain the abilities of Mr. Hooper and Mr. Ashby and report. It is decided to elect an assistant to the Auditor in the room of the late Mr. Papillon and certain Committees are directed to ascertain and report on the qualifications of Messrs. Dickenson, Hayes, and Tirlington, who are recommended as fit for that post. The Court approve of what has been written to Tilliard about the Prize brought in by the commander of the Olive Branch. Upon application by James Hayes and other linendrapers concerned in the last sale, their desires regarding the payment of allowance of one, two and three per cent are to be considered. (1 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 20, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 211).

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 21, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 33).

The petition of Charles Aston is referred to the Shipping Committee. The Committee for Lawsuits to consider and report what is the best course to be taken for the speedy recovery of debts, and for clearing the warehouses. A humble address to be made to the King praying that the Ambassadors now going to Holland may be instructed to see provided that what injuries or damage either Company have sustained by the other in the East Indies or in their passage to or from thence since the last Articles of peace, or the late breach, or at least from June 20, 1672, may be repaid and made good to those who have suffered, by those who have done the wrong. And in case a treaty shall be proceeded in, that the Company may be notified that they may humbly present to His Majesty what is needful for the better settlement and carrying on of their trade. And if time will not permit of this, that then there may be a particular article referring to a treaty to be made afterwards for settling and management of the East India trade in future, to prevent misunderstandings and wrongs. (1 p.)

THE COMPANY'S MEMORIAL TO THE KING, JUNE 20, 1672 (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 54).

Humbly praying that the Ambassadors now going to Holland may have instructions to see it provided that what injuries or damages either Company have sustained by the other in the Indies since the last articles of peace, or the late breach, or that shall be done from this present June 20, 1672, may be repaired and made good to them that shall be found so to have suffered, by them that have done the wrong. And in case the treaty shall be proceeded in, that the Company may have notice whereby they may represent what shall be needful for the better settlement and carrying on of their trade. And if time will not permit it to be done at this present treaty, they humbly pray there may be a general article referring to a treaty to be afterwards had for the settling and management of the East India trade in future, to prevent misunderstandings and wrongs. Signed John Banks, Governor.

THE KING'S INSTRUCTIONS TO THE DUKE OF BUCKINGHAM AND LORD ARLINGTON, AMBASSADORS EXTRAORDINARY AND PLENIPOTENTIARIES, TO TREAT AND CONCLUDE A PEACE WITH THE STATES-GENERAL OR ANY OTHER PRINCES AND STATES CONCERNED IN THE PRESENT WAR, WHITEHALL, JUNE 21, 1672 (*Public Record Office: S.P. TREASURY WARRANT TO THE CASHIER OF THE CUSTOMS, JUNE 21, 1672 (Public Record Office: Money Book, Customs, p. 59).

By the Treasury warrant of the 17th instant you are to pay 14,000*l.* to Sir Thomas Osborne, viz. 4,000*l.* thereof upon bonds given for payment of customs at two six months, and 10,000*l.* out of the customs of the East India ships lately arrived.

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 22, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 245).

The East India ships continue at Spithead. They are loth to venture, having only the Newcastle for their convoy, being of opinion that a Hamburger that came with them from Plymouth, and that they lost in thick weather, has given notice to the Dutch of their coming for the Downs.

CAPTAIN ANTHONY LANGSTON AT PORTSMOUTH TO THE NAVY COMMISSIONERS, JUNE 22, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 331, no. 237).

... Our convoy is disabled already by the pressing of all the men out of several ships by the Portsmouth sloop, which, I doubt, will be deeply resented by the East India Company and other merchants, when a fleet of 2,000,000*l.* concern shall be laid up for the pressing of 40 men.

PHILIP LANYON AT PLYMOUTH TO JAMES HICKES, JUNE 23, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 311, no. 253).

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 25, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 312, no. 23).

The wind being S.S.W. the ships in harbour cannot get out, else the Newcastle and the East India ships had sailed for the Downs. A very great fleet of merchantmen from several parts very richly laden is here now. It is a great pity there is not more than the Newcastle to convoy them.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 26, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 34).

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 28, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 36).

Sir Samuel Barnardiston and Mr. Sheldon to represent to Prince Rupert the long time the Company's ships have been detained at Spithead, and beg His Highness to give directions that they may sail immediately from thence with the fleet for the Thames. A letter to be sent overland to Surat is read and approved, and others are ordered to be written for dispatch to the Coast and Bay. A transfer of 400*l.* from Thomas Winter to Charles Chambrélane, which was not bought by Winter but passed to him by way of mortgage for money lent since his giving security to the Company for his brother Sir Edward Winter's faithful service, is approved. Certain Committees to examine the account of Captain Cony and ascertain how Captain Stringer's salary was paid. As a mark of respect Sir George Downing is admitted to the freedom gratis. The last quarter's salary of the late Abraham Papillon to be paid to his widow. Buyers to be notified to fetch away their goods from the warehouses. The Committees for the Calico and Pepper Warehouses to consider what room is wanting, view the warehouses at Blackwell Hall belonging to the Governors of Christ Church Hospital, ascertain whether they are commodious enough for the Company's service and on what terms they may be had. A satisfactory account being received of the abilities and good demeanour of Caleb Tirlington, he is elected assistant to the Auditor at a salary of 40*l.* per annum in the room of the late Abraham Papillon. HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, JUNE 28, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom. Car. II. 312, no. 53).

The Guinea Frigate sailed out to-day, in addition to the Newcastle and Dragon, that were at Spithead before, so there will be a good convoy for the East India ships, and the many other rich ships now waiting for one to go to the Thames.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JULY 1, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 39).

The Governor reports that last night at 10 o'clock he was summoned to attend the King at Whitehall, who told him of 'the great care he had for preserving the East India Fleet in this present juncture of affairs'. That as His Royal Highness had gone with the fleet to the northward and it was uncertain what course the Dutch fleet would take, His Majesty had sent three expresses, one to Dover, another to Rye, and the third to Portsmouth to order the fleet, if at Dover or Rye and unable to get through to the Downs and river, to return immediately to Spithead, but if still at Portsmouth then to secure themselves as they see fit. The Governor also states that he himself wrote three letters to this effect to the commanders of the Company's ships, copies of which are now read and approved. Order is given for advice to be sent to the said commanders at Spithead to remain there, it being judged safest; to keep a good watch, and be ready in case of danger to go to Portsmouth. Captains Heaton and Hiway to cruise to the eastward at a convenient distance and give notice by signs of any approaching danger, but if the King or Prince order the convoy and merchant ships there to come away before they have any further directions from hence, then the Court think they should come away with them. The Governor to be desired to present to the King the Memorial and Articles now read which were delivered to Lord Arlington on July 2, 1669. Order is also given for an additional Memorial to be prepared, to be presented to the King, of what is fit in this present juncture with Holland, for the restitution of Damm Island, or any other particulars, this to be ready by next Wednesday for the Court to see. (1½ pp.)

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON,
JULY 1, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 312, no. 107).

... Wind E.S.E. and blows so that the East India ships cannot sail.

HUGH SALESBURY AT PORTSMOUTH TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON,
JULY 2, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 312, no. 123).

Last night came a messenger on purpose with orders to the captain of the Newcastle to give notice to all the East India and other merchant ships at Spithead to come into harbour for their security, and the Governor of the East India Company sent express orders to all their commanders to get their ships into safety, so our harbour is now full of ships of great value. . . .

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JULY 3, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 40).

Certain Committees to examine and report on the bills now produced for repairing the Company's Almhouse at Poplar. Mr. Lucas requesting payment of the 100*l.*, part of the freight of the Zant Frigate, detained because a bale of goods was found to be missing in her last voyage to the Coast and which Lucas has been told is in India, certain Committees are to read the last advices from the Coast concerning this matter and ascertain whether Lucas has paid the relations of the seamen in the Zant and Advance the one month's pay in six, due to them by charterparty. George Foxcroft, late Agent at Fort St. George, and Jeremy Sambrooke having returned from India present themselves to the Court. Robert Dodd to be paid 10*l.* for provisions delivered to the Humphrey and Elizabeth. The petition of Sybil Bentam to be examined. The Husband is also ordered to present a list of the private trade of each ship. THE COMPANY TO THE REV. WILLIAM NOKES, JULY 19, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. v, p. 8).

Have received several complaints of him, that he has endeavoured to make parties on the Island of St. Helena, encouraged disobedience, and condemned the orders of the Governor and Council published to promote good government and safety. Also that he is addicted to several vices not becoming a minister of the Gospel, 'whose endeavour both in his life and doctrine should principally ayme at the glory of God and the salvation of soules'. Require him to reform, and although they have continued him second in Council, yet wish him to attend seriously to the work of his ministry, try as much as possible to reconcile any differences, and both by example and admonition encourage peace not partisanship, which tends to disturbances and mutiny, will make his ministry ineffectual, and render the Island liable to surprisal. He is to report anything he sees which is contrary to the Company's orders and to conform to these himself or he will be dismissed from their employment and recalled at the first opportunity. And, as Prince Rupert, in answer to an address made to him this morning asking that one or two of His Majesty's ships might convoy the Satisfaction and Bombay into the river, had declared that none could be spared, and that he did not think it safe to have them brought about at present, it is resolved to write to Captains Erwyn and Southwell, that for the security both of their ships and goods they should put into Portsmouth Harbour till a convoy can be had to bring them into the river, the letters to be signed by the Secretary. Mr. Morden, for himself and the other owners of the Unicorn, offers her for further service, whereupon Captain Prowd is desired to have a survey taken of her as soon as possible and report the same, the captain is also told to inform the commanders of the vessels lately returned from India that, if they expect the Company to employ their ships next year the owners must tender them to the Court next Wednesday. A bill of exchange for 2,500*l.* drawn by the Chief and Council in the Bay, and payable to Francis Weynants, merchant, is accepted. On consideration of the advice lately received from Lynn of the seizure on June 27 last of the Falcon off the Lizard by a Flushing man-of-war and of her being carried to Bergen in Norway, it is resolved to present an address to the King praying for his royal letters to the King of Denmark for the Falcon to be detained with her lading in the said port and her passengers released, and that His Majesty will be graciously pleased to instruct the Duke of Richmond, his Ambassador at Copenhagen, to mediate for this, and for the arrest of the Falcon and her lading in the Company's name, and of the man-of-war and her commander for piracy; and in order to recover damages for the Company, that a person fitly qualified may be sent to Denmark to negotiate in the matter in their behalf with some of the Ministers of State, and be commissioned to agree upon the best terms he can for restitution of the said ship and her lading, to be repaid out of what shall be recovered. As the season of the year is too far advanced for the Company to get ready any ships to attend to this affair, it is also resolved to present an address to His Majesty praying that two frigates may be ordered to sail to Bergen to recover the Falcon and her lading, or to act as His Majesty shall deem fit. THE KING TO THE DUKE OF RICHMOND, AUGUST 9, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 313, no. 255).

Instructing him on receipt thereof to apply in the most pressing terms to the King of Denmark and his ministers for preserving the Falcon of London, the remaining ship of this year's East India fleet, which was taken by Dutch privateers off the Land's End, and has been lately brought to Bergen in Norway, and her lading, and that an arrest may be put on her accordingly, and at the same time to endeavour to obtain the liberty of the crew and passengers, concerning all which the King of Denmark has been written to, the King being much interested that Danish ports should not be open to Dutch privateers to dispose of their prizes during this war.

SIR JOHN BANKS TO THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, AUGUST 10, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 314, no. 1).

Requesting that directions be sent to His Royal Highness that two or three frigates be sent to Bergen to lie by the East India ship and follow such order as His Majesty shall please, as, though the letters have been sent to Copenhagen, no arrest is like a man-of-war to lie by the ship, and to come out with her, if she does so, and stating that a boat with a fit person is provided to go immediately with the express to the Duke if His Majesty please to send him, while, if the ship has left Bergen, yet the frigates are as likely to find prize that way as any other. Letters of August 16 (N.S.) from Amsterdam say that several small vessels are safely arrived with fine goods from the East India ships in the Ems, and that their fleet is sailed thither to convoy the said ships home with their remaining goods.

PHILIP LANYON AT PLYMOUTH TO JAMES HICKES, AUGUST 11, 1672 (Ibid., no. 19).

. . . There is news that one of our East Indiamen is taken by a privateer thirty leagues to the westward, and that Captain Clarke of the Nightingale has taken two Dutch privateers and brought them into Falmouth, but this is not certain.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 14, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 67).

A letter from Charles and James Banckes at Hamburg is read; they enclose their account and ask whether Mr. Sowton is to have the rest of the credit that was given to him. In reply they are to be told that the money Sowton received was on account of the last year's copper he bought for the Company, that no further order has been given to him, therefore the credit is to cease, and that the Governor and Deputy will draw bills of exchange on them for the balance. The Governor and Deputy are desired to inform Sir Thomas Chicheley, Master of His Majesty's Ordnance, that the Company were to have been paid for the saltpetre sold to the King in September, 1669, out of the receipt of the Firehearths, and that 10,000*l.* should have been paid out of the first money assigned for the Office of Ordnance, but as yet nothing has been received. That when last spring it was intimated to Sir Thomas that the Company had reserved 300 or 400 tons of saltpetre for the King's service, they expected that a contract would have been made for it, but it has remained on their hands ever since. That now they have a considerable amount of petre arrived by this year's shipping and desire to know whether His Majesty has occasion for any of it, and if so that a contract may be made for it before the sale and directions given for payment for the same, or that they may have liberty to dispose of it at the sale. If Sir Thomas has no orders, then the Governor is to wait on His Majesty and inform him of all this and that a great part of the Company's stock is laid out in saltpetre, besides the money due for what is already sold. The Governor is also to move the King to appoint a convoy to bring the two ships up from Portsmouth. Captain Prowd is directed to take an account of the commanders arrived this year from the Indies, what men and provisions they left in India and the number of men and quantity of stores and provisions they brought home. The owners of the East India Merchant to be paid 2,000*l.* on account of freight. A quantity of topmasts, 'fishes' [for fishing masts], and other stores to be provided and sent to St. Helena for supplying such of the Company's ships as shall be in want of the same. A report to be made by Mr. Moyer of the behaviour of the several commanders returned this year from the Indies. Captains Andrews, Johnson, and Hide state that their ship now being built [President in the margin] will be ready to sail from Gravesend by November 1 next. Resolved that two-thirds of the Company's goods (except those returned in the Bombay) shall be offered for sale about the end of September next, and the Committees for the warehouses are desired to give directions accordingly. It is also resolved that six writers and about thirty soldiers shall be chosen and sent to each of the chief factories. (11 $\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

FRANCIS BELLOTT AT PENDENNIS TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, AUGUST 14, 1672 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 314, no. 53).

. . . The Anne that waited for the East Indiamen is now here. . . .

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 16, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 69).

Mr. Canham to be desired to write to his correspondent at Bergen by to-night's post and ask him to do his best to get possession of the Company's books of accounts, and other papers that were in the Falcon, and report to the Court his proceedings in the matter. Sir Henry Oxinden requesting that the account of the late Sir George Oxinden, his brother, may be 'put into a way of dispatch', the matter is referred to the Surat Committee, who are to read the advices lately returned from that place, make up the said account and report. The Governor stating what has been done with regard to the freight of the ships Leopard, Mary Rose, etc., and the report made on the subject by the Attorney-General, he is desired, with the help of the Deputy and Sir Andrew Riccard, to settle the matter as they shall think best for the Company's advantage. The petition of the fourteen soldiers lately returned from Fort St. George that their bonds may be delivered to them is referred to certain of the Committees. A pot of musk belonging to Henry Powell to be given to him on payment of the permission. Several additional clauses to the charterparties of ships now to be entertained are read and approved. The Sheriffs of London to be requested to see that the Officers of the City forbear serving attachments at the East India House on any of the commanders serving the Company. A person of quality who has lately done good service for the Company to be gratified with a present not exceeding 100 guineas. On September 11 next the issue of a dividend at the next sale is to be considered. (1½ p.)

THE COMPANY TO MESSRS. BANKS [AT HAMBURG], AUGUST 16, 1672 (Letter Book, vol. v, p. 13).

Acknowledge their letter of the 2nd instant with account enclosed, by the latter there appears due to the Company 631*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* Flemish. Desire them to remit this sum to Sir John Banks, and not to furnish Sowton with any more money till further advice. (½ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 21, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 70).

Payments on account of freight to be made to the owners of the following ships: the European, 2,000*l.*, the Sampson, 2,500*l.*, and the Unity, 2,000*l.* The Committees of the warehouses to meet this afternoon to consider what sorts and quantities of the Company's goods shall be offered at the next sale. Examination to be made of the accounts of John Totty, Robert Stone, and Thomas Haniford. The petitions of George Ramsden and Allen Catchpoole to be employed as writers are read, also a survey of work to be done in the East India Merchant. A COMMITTEE FOR SHIPPING, AUGUST 21, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxvA, p. 103).

Mr. Johnson engages to bring the London into dock and get her ready to go to India in fourteen days. President Andrews promises that the Anne shall be removed from dock for speedy survey and such fitting as the Company shall direct. Captain Cowley states his readiness to seal the charterparty next Wednesday. Hereupon the Deputy informs President Andrews that the Company have altered their charter-parties and added four men to every hundred tons, 30s. per ton freight, the one-tenth part for demurrage, the owners to pay the whole demurrage if the ship is not ready by the day appointed. Andrews says that if the Company will venture their goods aboard the Bombay Merchant he and the rest of the owners will adventure the ship, and give order for sixty fresh men to be put aboard her at once; he also promises that by Wednesday next he will pay the proportion of the month's wages due on several ships he is concerned in, that the same may be paid to the wives and relatives of the seamen. Captain Goldsborough promises to have his ship ready, and to seal his charterparty by the time appointed. Captain Samuel Chamblett says his ship is not ready to be surveyed, but he will consider the Company's terms and give his answer as soon as he knows them. Charles Masters states that he was entertained chief mate of the Unity, and when he was at Jambi the captain, without any reason, displaced him and put his brother, who was second mate, in his place. Captain Cruft avers that his ship will be ready to be surveyed when the Company please, that Masters went out as chief mate and pilot for Bantam, and put himself out of the place of chief mate because he would not obey an order given for stowing a cable; he also absented himself from the quarter deck, and on going to Jambi he was very ill and left the ship to the charge of his brother. Afterwards he had command of the starboard watch and was found at the time of his said watch to be playing cards with Messrs. Walthew and Tivell until 12, or 4 o'clock in the morning. Masters denies that he played cards during the time of his watch. The Captain states that no public prayers were held aboard his ship, but he allowed no swearing, drunkenness, or any other vice in any of his company. The Committee are of opinion that no commander of any ship in the Company's employ should be permitted to take aboard any relations in any office or employment, as mate, gunner, boatswain, or carpenter. (2 $\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 23, 1672 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 71).

Captain Thomas Harman offering the Unicorn for further service is told that, as she cannot be ready in time to serve the Company's occasions there will be no employment for her. The account of the late Thomas Stiles to be made up. John Paige to be paid 5*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* disbursed by Captain Gaich for the St. Anne. Great inconvenience having been caused by captains of ships employing near relations on board their vessels, the Court now forbid this to be done and order that henceforth only men chosen by Captain Prowd and approved by the Shipping Committee shall be employed. Several complaints having been made of the misdemeanours of Captain Cruft, commander of the Unity, in his last voyage, the Court decide to dismiss him from their service, this to be notified to the owners of the said vessel. The account of Percival Stanny to be examined. A report of goods from Sambrook's warehouse fit to be offered for sale is read and approved. Captain Privet, commander of the London, having by many misdemeanours in his last voyage to the Indies proved himself unworthy of further employment, he is dismissed the Company's service, and Captain William Basse is chosen to take his command at the same pay; the London to be delivered up to him with all its stores. Directions to be given for the two ships at Portsmouth to come into the Thames with the Jersey Frigate, or such other convoy as the King shall appoint. (1 p.)

William Wood and other owners of the Anne, Antelope, Sampson, East India Merchant, and the new ship to be commanded by Captain Hide present a paper of proposals; these are read and referred to the Shipping Committee, who are to meet the said owners, or those they shall appoint, and consider what is to be allowed them, having regard to the extraordinary charge of setting forth and keeping out the said vessels. Peter Harrold's bill to be examined. The sum of 8*l.* 1*s.* to be paid the assigns of Bartholomew Hutchins. The Company's seal to be affixed to the discharge drawn up for Christopher Thomlinson. After some consideration the Court decided not to omit the word 'warfare'; that all ships must sail from Gravesend by November 10 or else pay demurrage, and arrive in India by the end of June; that besides the indulgence already allowed, the masters and mariners shall be permitted, this year only, to take out cloths, serges, and Norwich stuffs, all mixed colours, and to bring home nutmegs and mace. Their Lordships agree that, if the Company will advance 20,000*l.*, an assignment shall be granted of 2,000*l.* a week for twenty-six weeks, to begin on December 1 next, for repayment of the said 20,000*l.* with interest at six per cent, and for satisfaction for the 550 tons at the price the rest shall be sold for, to be paid by tallies at the Customhouse. Captain Cumberland, having last September offered a ship then being built at Ipswich, was told that when ready she should be employed if the Company had occasion for her. (1 p.)

THE COMPANY'S MEMORIAL TO THE KING, OCTOBER 1, 1672<sup>1</sup> (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 97).

Humbly representing that of late there was a treaty for several years together between His Majesty and the States-General of the United Netherlands, managed according to the King's directions by the principal Secretary of State, Sir William Temple, to settle the trade and commerce of the two East India Companies. And although no full conclusion was arrived at, yet the result of what it was nearest brought to is comprised in the seven articles enclosed. These they humbly present and pray, that when it shall please His Majesty to have a further treaty with the Dutch, he will be graciously pleased to give instructions for the said articles to be agreed upon, they being such as are equal between both companies and may tend to the prevention of future differences. Unto these said articles the Company have added three clauses: 1. For reparation of any wrongs that have been done by either Company to the other within the limits of their respective charters since June 20, 1672. 2. For having Damm Island restored to them by the Dutch. 3. That the 36th article of the treaty of Breda may be put in execution. Signed John Banks, Governor.

Here follow the seven articles (for copy of which see vol. viii, pp. 153-4 and 213-15). And the proposed additional clauses, viz.: 1. It is also concluded and agreed that what injuries or damages either Company have sustained by the other in any place within the limits of their respective charters since June 20, 1672, shall be repaid and made good to them that shall be found to have suffered, by them that have done the wrong. 2. Whereas the English Company were possest of the island of Damm, alias Damma, by the voluntary and formal surrender of the said island by the native inhabitants, which island the Dutch Company did unduly dispossess them of in July, 1664, destroyed the spice trees and then deserted it, so that they were not in possession at the end of the late war, which possession by the 3rd article of the treaty of Breda only gives each nation the right to what they then possessed. It is therefore agreed, that the said island shall for ever hereafter be and remain to the English Company as their own proper right. And, if the Dutch Company shall be in possession of the same, they shall upon demand and appearance of the English acquit and surrender it to the English Company, or to their agents or assigns, and the States of the United Provinces and the said Dutch Company shall give order to their General and Council at Batavia accordingly. 3. And for the better performance of these articles and for keeping the peace between both nations, it is proposed that the 36th article of the treaty at Breda shall be put in execution, which enjoins that all Governors, Chiefs, Presidents, Generals and Admirals of the Dutch Fleet or Forces shall be obliged by oath religiously to perform the articles of peace. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, DECEMBER 2, 1672 (AFTERNOON) (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 153).

The commanders of the ten ships bound for India appearing according to order are told by the Deputy Governor, that besides the Company's commissions the Court have procured for them commissions from His Royal Highness because of the present war. That for the better security of the Company's ships and estates they are to keep together, and have been ranked into three squadrons, with Captain Basse in the London, as Admiral, Captain Jonathan Hide in the President as Vice-Admiral, and Captain Anthony Earning in the Sampson as Rear-Admiral. This disposition of the ships is only for the sake of order and not to be looked upon as casting reflection upon any. The Company's design is to carry on their trade, and it is hoped there will be no occasion for engaging the enemy, yet if there should be the commanders are to remember their obligation, not only by charterparty and in point of honour, but that they have the commission of His Royal Highness, all which engages them to act 'as becomes persons in such commands and trusts'. The Court also declare that they will consider 'the merit and sufferings of such of them as should carry it worthily in their service'. The commanders are again enjoined to keep together, to preserve amity and friendship among themselves, to observe the orders of their superior officers, and be careful to keep up the worship of God in their ships. They are to consult before leaving Gravesend how to keep together in the Downs, and whether it will be advisable to go over the Flats or through the King's Channel, and write their opinions to Captain Prowd. Captains Basse, Hide, and Earning return their humble acknowledgements and promise their utmost care and endeavours in discharge of the trust committed to them. Some of the commanders declare they would rather be excused and have others supply their places, but the rest express their satisfaction with the present settlement and promise to use their best endeavours to further the voyage. The ten commissions prepared for the commanders of the Company's ships to be sealed with the Company's large seal. Mr. Reynardson is allowed to send a barrel of cheese to his brother, and John Mead and Mr. Adman are given leave to export some cordage on paying the freight. (1 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, DECEMBER 4, 1672 (Ibid., p. 155).

The Court, judging it necessary to dispeed the ten ships into the Downs, desire certain Committees to go to Gravesend, see what readiness the said ships are in as regards men and provisions, call the commanders together and give them the following directions: that if they cannot with safety go over the Flats, then they are to sail in company through the King's Channel, not leaving any of the smaller ships to go over the Flats, and that two ketches are appointed to sail ahead of them for their better dispatch and security till they arrive in the Downs. These ketches the Committees are to direct Captain Prowd to engage, with skilful masters, who know the Channel well and who are to let the commanders know what time they will attend them at Gravesend in order to see them dispatched from thence. The owners of the Unity and of the Massingberd to be paid for freight and demurrage. Mr. Plummer is given liberty to ship out some silver lace and six belts, permission free; and Mr. Bellamy a pipe of Canary, free of freight. Permission to be paid in ready money for all bullion, jewels, and fine goods exported or imported for any of the Company's factors, and not to be put to their account. (1½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, DECEMBER 5, 1672 (AFTERNOON) (Ibid., p. 156).

Bennet declares that Cony asked to go on board the Advance in order to have some private talk with him, and on arriving and spending some time in conference told Captain Bennet that he would not return to the island but would go with him to England. Hereupon Captain Cony is called in, and says he has come to give himself up as a prisoner, according to his parole to Bennet, to answer his debt to the Company, and the charge brought against him of intending to betray the Island to an enemy. Cony is told to withdraw, and Bennet, on further examination, affirms that Cony was not on board as a prisoner, but that upon the Advance leaving the Island he offered to set him ashore, but he refused to go. Cony is again called in and told that the Court do not look upon him as a prisoner, but that his accounts will be referred to the Committee for Plantations, who will also examine the actions of the inhabitants of the Island concerning him, and report. Mr. Henshaw is also to be told to accept 50*l.* for himself, and pay the remainder of the 200*l.* in his hands to the order of Charles and James Banks of Hamburg. Mr. Sheldon reports that he has received from Sir Joseph Williamson sealed copies of the depositions from Fort St. George, for which he gave a receipt and now delivers them up; order is given for these copies to be kept by the Auditor and opened by the Coast and Bay Committee in the presence of Sir Edward Winter. Mr. Aboab having paid the sum agreed upon by the Committees, he is to be given a discharge in full of his debt. The petition and remonstrance of Lieutenant Francis Chuseman are read, and the Governor is desired to inform him that, with respect to the criminal part of the said petition and remonstrance, by the return of the commission it lies before the King and Council, and those concerned will act; that his account with the Company is referred to a Committee, and the Court do not justify Mr. Crandon or any of their servants if they have behaved unjustly, therefore Chuseman may proceed against Crandon if he sees fit. The Committee for the Coast and Bay to consider and report on Lieutenant Chuseman's account. At the request of Captain Richard Cony, a chest belonging to him brought home in the Advance and consigned to the Company is to be opened by the Husband in Cony's presence, and a report of its contents made to the Company. The petition of Thomas Palmer is referred to Captain Prowd. Order is given that in future all transfers made of adventures in the General Joint Stock of the Company are to be signed by the Accountant in the presence of one or more of his clerks, who are to witness and subscribe the same, that the Court may be satisfied that those assigning have the adventures, and that their accounts stand clear in the Company's books; the acceptance is also to be witnessed. The owners of the Antelope refusing to pay the sum agreed upon for the bale of goods lost from that ship belonging to George Mussel, the matter is referred to certain Committees to settle. The Court taking into consideration the loss and damage the Company have sustained by Sir Edward Winter seizing and detaining their estate at Fort St. George, and the long interruption thus caused to their trade on the Coromandel Coast, and judging it necessary to use all lawful means to obtain satisfaction from him, the Governor and Deputy are desired to wait on His Majesty, or on Lord Arlington, and represent the difference between the Company and Sir Edward, and the hopes of the Company that the Commission sent over would have accorded them some satisfaction, but that being disappointed in this, they are resolved to seek some remedy at law. THE COMPANY'S PETITION TO THE KING TOUCHING THE DEATH OF WILLIAM DAWES [FEBRUARY, 1673] (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 215).

Considering how much His Majesty is concerned in the loss of any of his subjects, and well knowing that nothing is more pleasing unto him than that peace and quietness should be maintained amongst them, as well abroad as at home, which cannot be if they destroy one another abroad, and are not questioned for it when they come home, the Company think it their bounden duty to represent unto His Majesty the manner of the death of William Dawes,<sup>1</sup> which was as followeth: In the year 1665, Francis Chuseman, now in England but then a lieutenant in the Company's service at Fort St. George under their Agent George Foxcroft, stirred up the soldiers of that garrison to a mutinous insurrection against the said Agent and government. In this mutiny the said Agent and others, who aided him to maintain the government against the mutineers, were hurt and wounded, and the said William Dawes was shot. Lieutenant Chuseman, who should have kept the soldiers in order, was the chief actor, and led on the mutineers with his sword drawn, and brandishing it over his head commanded them to fire, and they fired accordingly, discharging several muskets and pistols, at which time Dawes received a shot in the belly, of which he died within a few hours afterwards. Chuseman discharged his pistols at the Agent, closed with him and threw him down. All which will be proved, with much more, by persons now in England. The Company submit to the great wisdom of His Majesty how far and in what manner the murder of the said Dawes shall be examined into and the chief author thereof proceeded against. PROPOSALS MADE BY SIR RICHARD INNES CONCERNING THE SPICE TRADE, APRIL 5, 1673 (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 226).

It is humbly conceived that His Majesty in his intended treaty with the Netherlands may with honour and justice insist upon having in future at least half the trade in nutmegs, mace, cloves, and cinnamon, of which the Netherlands East India Company are now the sole masters. For, they not only at first put the English by fraud and force out of the trade of nutmegs and mace at Pulo Run, and of cloves at Amboyna, but have since repeated the most unjust and forcible possession of it, contrary to the articles made with King James in 1619, by which the English were to have had one-third of those spices; but have also detained the Island of Pulo Run, contrary to the articles made with His present Majesty. And since that, they have, by force, obliged the King of Macassar to exclude the English by name from the trade of cloves,<sup>1</sup> and having expelled the Portuguese from Ceylon have kept us likewise from the cinnamon trade; and being thus sole masters of those commodities they have made the English and the whole world pay three or four times the price paid for them formerly. For, when the Portuguese had cinnamon, we could buy it in Portugal, bring it from thence and afford to sell it at 2*s.* 6*d.* per lb., which now costs us 7*s.* or 8*s.* the lb. Nutmegs and mace, when our Company had Pulo Run, they sold here, nutmegs at 1s. 6d. per lb. and mace at 3s. per lb., which the Hollanders have brought to 12s., and at those prices, by the experience of many years, they may still be kept as long as they are under the joint regulation of those concerned in them. If His Majesty can obtain half the spices, he may gain a clear three hundred thousand pounds per annum, as will appear by a demonstrative account hereunto annexed.<sup>1</sup> If the King can bring the Dutch to such an agreement it will be necessary that the military command of all places where nutmegs, mace, cloves, and cinnamon grow be put into His Majesty's hands, and that good caution be taken at home for performance of this. Secondly, when those spices shall be shipped from the places of their growth for Europe, Persia, or any other region of the world, it shall be for the joint account in halves of both nations, the said spices to be laden in English ships, and sold at such rates as His Majesty shall agree to. It is likewise humbly conceived that the Dutch East India Company will make no great difficulty in parting with one-half of the benefit of the fine spices to His Majesty, on condition that he will join with them in the government of the price of pepper, for that commodity being dispersed into several hands hath not, either to them or to us, yielded 12d. per lb. one year with another, and, if all the exporters of it from the Indies into Europe did agree, it has been found by experience that as much would be consumed at 3s. per lb. as at 1s. The quantity of pepper imported into Europe communibus annis, by the English and Netherlands Companies, is at least five thousand tons per annum, which if it be sold at 3s. per lb. will produce annually eleven hundred and twenty thousand pounds sterling more than formerly, and less than one-third of that profit will make the Hollanders full compensation for what they part withal of the fine spices to His Majesty. But because the French king has made some small beginnings in that trade, and the Crown of Portugal is not quite excluded from it, it may be considered how they may be provided for and included in the agreement by allotting them some share in the pepper, in proportion to the present condition of their concern in the trade, without admitting them into any concern of the finer spices, to which the French king had never any pretence, nor the Portuguese to any other than that of cinnamon, the latter having lost that to the Hollander by right of conquest, and being no party in the present treaty they cannot accuse our king of unkindness if they be not restored to any interest therein. Nor shall His Majesty, by such a contract for the advantage of the Portuguese Crown, do any prejudice to his own East India Company. For, first they are at present utterly excluded from any part of the trade of the fine spices, and His Majesty may, if he thinks fit, oblige them very much by letting them have what he shall obtain for a reasonable annual rent. Secondly, if His Majesty engages to take all the pepper they shall bring by his directions at 12*d.* per lb. certain, he doth thereby assure them of far better prices than they have made, communibus annis, for the time past, or can reasonably hope for in the time to come if the proposed regulation for a trade shall not take effect. (2½ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, APRIL 9, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 210).

Payment of 1,000*l.* to be made to Thomas Lucas, owner of the Advance, in part of that ship's freight. Messrs. Mr. Nanfan, owner of the Lancaster, presents Captain Robert Martin as commander of that ship, instead of Captain Haddock, formerly named, and the Court approve. The owners of the Phoenix to be paid for broken guns carried out and brought back in that ship for kentledge. The Shipping Committee stating that they have contracted for the Canary Bird, a ship of 120 tons, for 700*l.*, order is given for Captain Prowd to receive her with all the fittings according to inventory, and see that she is prepared for a voyage to India; the Committee are also desired to make choice of a suitable person to command her. Resolved that she shall be called the Advice. At the request of Captain Bonneel and the other owners of the new ship being built at Blackwall, Captain Prowd is told to survey her from time to time. The Governor reports that he with the Deputy and Mr. Houblon waited on the Lords Committees for Foreign Affairs on Saturday with the Company's answer to Their Lordships' proposition about the Spice trade; he also acquaints the Court with what passed concerning the proposals of the Company relating to the Dutch, and, it being highly important for the good of the Company that the article for reciprocal restitution should be obtained, the Governor and Deputy are desired to use their best endeavours to effect this, and all the Committees present are enjoined to secrecy in the matter. The Committee for Writing Letters to prepare reasons in justification of each of the Company's proposals for use by the Ambassadors as occasion shall arise. Payment to be made to the assignee of Captain Robert Lord. A letter from Mr. Page is referred to the Committee for Lawsuits. The account of Joseph Sawyer to be examined. The request of the executors of Lawrence Chambers, that the latter should be allowed the salary of Agent for the time he officiated as such, is referred; also the petition of Rebecca Stevens. Captain Prowd to be given a gratuity of 20*l.* for good service, the same to be spent on two pieces of plate on which the arms of the Company are to be engraved. Humphrey Edwyn, the Auditor, is given a gratuity of 100*l.* for his industry and faithfulness. (2½ pp.)

ORDER OF COUNCIL APRIL 9, 1673 (Public Record Office: Privy Council Register, vol. lxiii, p. 410).

Upon the humble address of Sir Edward Winter presented this day, setting forth that, in accordance with an order of the Board of November 24, 1669, there was to be mutual restitution of goods seized upon on either side during the late differences at Fort St. George between the petitioner and Mr. George Foxcroft by Commissioners empowered under the Great Seal to that effect, and an account thereof returned to the Board, yet the said Commissioners would not in the least concern themselves in the matter, and Sir Edward coming to England in obedience to the said order (though much to the damage of his affairs in India) the East India Company seized upon all his estate they could light on either at home or abroad to a very considerable value, and instead of giving satisfaction for his fruitless attendance on them ever since his arrival in England, they have charged him with an action of 20,000*l.* on purpose to oppress him with the difficulty of procuring bail against so potent an adversary. Therefore Sir Edward prays that Mr. Foxcroft and his abettors may be summoned to answer what shall be laid against them. Hereupon it is ordered by His Majesty in Council that this business be taken into consideration on Wednesday, April 23, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, of which the petitioner is to give timely notice to the Governor, or some members of the Company, and to the said George Foxcroft, that they may give their attendance at the time and place aforesaid.

PETITION OF THE COMPANY TO THE KING, APRIL 25, 1673 (Home Miscellaneous, vol. xlii, p. 239).

Understanding that His Majesty is entering into a treaty with the Dutch, they humbly crave leave to represent the particulars enclosed, which they conceive necessary to be proposed on their behalf for reparation of damages and for the free and peaceable carrying on of their future trade in the Indies. They humbly pray His Majesty to take the same into consideration, and give such directions to his ambassadors therein as in his great wisdom he shall see fit. Annexed: Articles proposed to be insisted on at the treaty: Whereas the English and Dutch nations by their discoveries and forces have opened up the trade of the East Indies, and thereby the subjects and inhabitants of each nation and particularly the Companies of the one and other nation in an especial manner, have right to trade in all parts of India not actually in the occupancy and under the immediate government of the other. To the end therefore that right may be done and satisfaction made for damages sustained by either Company since the peace concluded at Breda in 1667, and for preventing all difficulties in time to come, and for the begetting and continuing a good understanding between the subjects of the one and the other country in their commerce and trade in the East Indies, the following articles are humbly proposed:

1. That whereas some disputes have formerly arisen between the two Companies touching certain places pretended to have been besieged, blocked up, or invested, and lest any difficulty should hereafter arise touching the same, it is now mutually declared and agreed, that no city, town, castle or place whatsoever, beyond the Cape of Good Hope, or within the limits of their respective charters, granted to each Company, shall from henceforth be understood by either side to be besieged, blocked up, or invested, unless the same be actually so beleaguered, both by land and sea that all ingress and regress into and from the same is thereby hindered.

2. That the subjects and inhabitants of the one side and the other, and also particularly the privileged Companies of the one and the other nation, may freely and without any hindrance, traffic with all the people and all the nations of which the country is not effectually occupied and under the immediate power and government of His Majesty or the States-General, or of their privileged Company in their names, and that neither the one nor the other Company shall hinder with its fleets, ships of war, or any force the said traffic, their ships, agents or factors, that shall be employed in their voyages or passages. And that as to places where either of the said Companies have already established or shall establish their commerce by means of a Factory, Burio or Lodge, which either Company hath made there or shall make hereafter, or by factors that it hath put or shall send thither, neither of the said companies shall attempt to hinder, stop, or impede the access of the other to it or to hinder the same by forts or castles which they have heretofore, or may erect hereafter upon any river or passages leading thereunto.

3. That in case one or the other Company shall make any agreement or contract with any of the princes or people of those countries for the sole buying of any commodities, yet such contract shall not be understood or made use of to impede or hinder the other Company in their trading to from or in such place or country. 4. That if either Company have war with any nation in India, the other Company shall not furnish or assist such nation during the time of such war, either with ships or soldiers. 5. That the passports of either Company, their Presidents, Governors, Agents or Chiefs of factories given to any Indian or other vessels belonging to such people or places as are not in enmity with the other Company (not carrying contraband goods to places in hostility with the other Company), signifying to what place such vessel belongs and what her voyage is, shall be courteously and civilly received and credited. And that in case one or the other Company shall on occasion freight and make use of any of the vessels of any of those countries (not in hostility with the other Company) for carrying of any of their goods from place to place, and the same certify in their passport, such passport shall be received and credited, and such ship or vessel with their goods permitted freely to pass without any stop or interruption. 6. Whereas the Dutch East India Company by a treaty with the King of Macassar have obliged him to exclude the English nation from all trade and commerce in those parts: it is agreed, that the said treaty made by the agents of the Dutch East India Company with the said king and government of Macassar, and every article thereof so far as any way relates to the English East India Company, be and is hereby made void. And that the States-General shall by the next shipping bound for India, send effectual orders to their General and Council at Batavia publicly to renounce, release, and make void the same, by some public act to be proclaimed and signified to the king and government of Macassar, and that the subjects of His Majesty of Great Britain shall peaceably have and enjoy their free liberty, residence and trade in those parts as if that treaty had never been made. And that the Lords States-General shall likewise straightly charge and oblige their East India Company forthwith to abrogate and make void all and every the like treaties and compacts by them made with any other kings, princes, or governments in India so far forth as they relate to the English nation, and to cause such revocation to be published at the respective place where such treaties or compacts have been made and to signify the same to the kings, princes, and governments with whom they were made. And that upon producing a copy of these articles, it shall be lawful for the English East India Company their agents and factors to trade in, to, and from Macassar aforesaid, and all other places from which they have been or may be hindered in their trade and commerce upon such pretences. And that the said States-General shall also require and oblige their East India Company, that they nor any of their agents shall for the future make any such treaties or articles with any of the kings, princes, or governments in India to the prejudice of the English in their trade. 7. It is concluded and agreed that all losses and damages which either Company have sustained by or from the other, in any parts or places within the limits of their respective charters since the peace concluded at Breda, anno 1667, shall be satisfied and made good unto the Company that have suffered the same by the other Company who have done them the damage. And for the adjusting thereof it is mutually agreed that on demand made by either Company for reparation of such damages on or before the first day of March, 1674-5 (which demand shall be made in writing by the English East India Company of and from the States-General, and by the Dutch East India Company of and from His said Majesty of Great Britain), four commissioners or arbitrators shall be chosen, that is to say, two by His Majesty of Great Britain, on behalf of the English East India Company, and two by the said States-General on behalf of the Dutch East India Company, who shall meet in London on or before the first day of June, 1675, and shall there hear, examine, and determine the same, and shall give up their award in writing on or before the first day of September 1675. And in case of the non-agreement of the said four arbitrators then the said damages shall be considered of and determined in London by an umpire to be chosen by His said Majesty of Great Britain on behalf of both Companies on or before the first day of November 1675, which said umpire so to be chosen shall make and give up his award concerning the same on or before the first day of February 1675-6. 8. Whereas the English East India Company were possessed of the island Dam, alias Damma, by the voluntary and formal surrender of the said island by the natives, inhabitants thereof, which island the Dutch East India Company did unduly dispossess them of in the month of July, 1664, and after having destroyed the spice trees, deserted the same, so that they were not in possession thereof at the end of the last war, which possession by the 3rd article of the treaty of Breda only gives each nation a right to what they then possessed. It is therefore agreed that the said island shall for ever hereafter be and remain to the English East India Company as their own proper right, and if the Dutch East India Company shall be in possession of the same, they shall upon demand and appearance of the English forthwith acquit and surrender the same to the said English East India Company, or to their agents or assigns, without doing or suffering any waste or spoil to be done thereupon, and the States-General of the United Provinces, and the Dutch East India Company shall forthwith give order to their General and Council at Batavia accordingly and send duplicates of the same to the English East India Company. 9. That no person whatsoever residing in or upon any of the islands or places where either Company have any forts, castles, or plantations of either of the said Company, or being within the limits thereof, shall be molested, disturbed, or removed by the force or power of the other Company upon any pretence whatsoever. 10. That either Company shall have liberty to water, wood, victual and refresh in any of the ports or places possessed by the other Company within the limits of their respective charters, and shall also have freedom to put into any such ports or places with any of their ships or vessels in stress of weather or other imminent danger for relief and safety. And in case the ships of either Company do meet together at sea and happen to be in distress, they shall upon request relieve each other as need requires and treat each other with all due civility and respect. Delivered to Sir Joseph Williamson and Sir Lionnell Jenkins per the Governor with a book of all the transactions in this Reg. the 25th April 1673.

Annexed: Reasons inserted at the end of each of the foregoing articles, and, A Short Memorial delivered to the Plenipotentiaries, viz.: The articles of most moment to the Company: 1. Chiefly, the 7th, for mutual reparation of losses. 2. Nextly, 1. For explication of places besieged, etc. 2. For freedom of trade. 3. Private contracts not to hinder each other's trade. 4. Not to assist each the natives in war. 5. Passports of either Company to be credited. 6. That of Macassar. 3. Nextly, the 8th, for restitution of Dam Island. 9. To prevent disturbance on the islands, etc. 10. Liberty to wood and water, etc. (4 pp.)

THE COMPANY TO GEORGE WAYLES AND COMPANY [AT VENICE],

THE COMPANY TO ROBERT LANG AND COMPANY [AT MARSEILLES], APRIL 28, 1673 (Ibid., p. 40).

Enclose a letter to Consul Nightingale at Aleppo and another to Mr. Aungier at Surat, the former to be dispatched as soon as a safe conveyance offers. Have heard from Monsieur Charles from Cairo (who is employed by the French East India Company), of a quick way to send letters to India via Alexandria, Cairo, and so to Mocha. Desire that their letter directed to Messrs. Lang and Company's correspondent at Alexandria may be forwarded with instructions for its dispatch to Surat by way of Cairo, and if the correspondent does not know how to do this, let him inquire of Monsieur Charles or of Mr. Brusson, and send it with speed and care, for which all costs will be paid. ( $\frac{1}{4}$  p.)

THE COMPANY TO CONSUL NIGHTINGALE [AT ALEPPO], APRIL 28, 1673 (Ibid., p. 41).

Formerly sent their letters to Consul Lanoy, his predecessor, and were always contented with his care and diligence, and doubt not but that Nightingale will show the same. They now send three small packets directed to their President and Council at Surat, one by way of Leghorn, the other via Marseilles, and the third via Venice. Desire him to forward the two first immediately by express by two conveyances, but to keep the other until further advice. ( $\frac{1}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, APRIL 30, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 230).

Payment of 63*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* to be made to Mrs. Sarah Gifford. Thomas Pearle being willing to enter into bond to pay the Company 300*l.* at six months, engage his stock as security, and have releases passed between himself and the Company, his offer is accepted, and order given for the said bond and releases to be prepared. The arbitrators in the matter of William Mainstone and the Company to be allowed an extension of time, until June 24 next, for their determination. The owners of the European to be paid in full for her freight and demurrage. Certain Committees to ascertain whether the bonds and covenants entered into by Joseph Sayer and his securities should be delivered up. The owners of the Mary to be paid in part for freight and demurrage.

James Paul to be paid 16*l.* for a clock bought from him for the Company. The demand of Mr. Masters for allowance for wrappers wanting on several bales of dungarees is referred for consideration. The Committee for the Treasury finding it very inconvenient to have any money but the Company's kept in the Treasury, the Cashier-General and all the other officers there are strictly charged not to receive or pay out any money but the Company's. The Court now re-elect the following officers at their annual salaries, viz.: Michael Dunkin, Supervisor of Cash, at 150*l.*; Richard Harris, his assistant, 90*l.*, and as Housekeeper and Beadle, 30*l.*; Edward Byrch, assistant, 50*l.*; John Harbert, Accountant-General, 130*l.*; Leventhorp Altham, his assistant, 80*l.*; Thomas Butler, clerk assistant, 50*l.*; Samuel South, clerk assistant, 40*l.* John Hooper, clerk assistant, 40*l.*; Thomas Ashby, clerk assistant, 40*l.*; Thomas Sprigg, Husband, 200*l.*; Francis Thomson, his assistant, 80*l.*; Charles Aston, as Keeper of the Pepper Warehouse, 80*l.*, as Paymaster to the Mariners, 30*l.*; George Papillon, as Keeper of the Blue Warehouse, 160*l.*, for managing the candle, 10*l.*; Captain John Prowd, Surveyor of Ships, 80*l.* (1*½* pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 2, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 232).

The claim of Mr. Ward, surgeon, for three months' pay due for his outward-bound voyage to India is referred. Some damaged pepper returned in the Mary to be delivered to the owners and charged to their account. Robert Styles is admitted to the freedom by redemption. A report is read from the Committees to whom the complaints of Robert Smith, the City Garbler, were referred, in which they state that several kings by patent under the Broad Seal have conferred the garbling of pepper, spices, and other goods upon the City of London and that, by two acts of Parliament, it is decreed that all goods that are to be garbled must be garbled before they are put up for sale, or they will be forfeited. That the City of London has granted to Robert Smith, under their common seal for a certain term of years, the office of Garbler at a certain rent. Smith complains that pepper has been delivered ungarbled to several grocers, and that the porters of the Pepper Cellars have used the Company's tools for sifting, garbling, and cleansing merchants' goods abroad, contrary to the law and greatly to his damage; therefore the Committees advise that Aston, Keeper of the Pepper Warehouse, shall not deliver any pepper sold to any grocer before it has been garbled and the seal of the garbler's office fixed on the bags, and that none of the Company's tools shall be used by the porters of the Pepper Warehouse, or lent for sifting, garbling, or cleansing any goods abroad: the Court approve of the report. The Governor and certain Committees are desired to confer with the Committees of the Royal Company and do their best to recover moneys due from them to the Stock of this Company. The following elections are now made: Samuel Sambrook, Senior, Writer of Letters and Keeper of the Calico Warehouse at 200*l.* a year; Samuel Sambrook, Junior, his assistant at 100*l.* a year; and Henry Rowse, messenger, at 30*l.* a year. A report, touching warehouse accommodation to be given to buyers, is read and approved. Dispatches to be sent overland to Surat and Persia to be perfected. A letter is read from Sir Thomas Wolstenholme and Sir John Shaw, late Farmers of the Customs, and the Treasury Committees are desired to compare the Farmers' books of accounts with those of the Company. John Hales to be repaid the fine and freight charged on some indigo, which is not to be found in the warehouse, Warrants are now signed for payment of gratuities for the year 1672, viz.: to Sir John Banks, Governor, 200*l.*, Nathaniel Herne, Deputy, 100*l.*, Benjamin Albyn 42*l.* 6*s.*, George, Lord Berkeley, 34*l.* 4*s.*, Christopher Boone, 51*l.* 15*s.*, Sir Samuel Barnardiston, 33*l.* 6*s.*, John Bathurst, 34*l.* 4*s.*, Sir Francis Clarke, 45*l.* 9*s.*, Thomas Canham, 51*l.* 6*s.*, Michael Davison, 51*l.* 6*s.*, Sir James Edwards, 43*l.* 4*s.*, James Houblon, 46*l.* 16*s.*, Edward Hopegood, 50*l.* 8*s.*, John Jollife, 52*l.* 4*s.*, Samuel Moyer, 52*l.* 4*s.*, John Morden, 47*l.* 14*s.*, John Paige, 49*l.* 1*s.*, Sir John Robinson, 29*l.* 14*s.*, Sir Andrew Riccard, 18*l.* 9*s.*, Daniel Sheldon, 40*l.* 10*s.*, Sir William Thomson, 32*l.* 17*s.*, Maurice Thomson, 27*l.* 9*s.* Major Robert Thomson, 44*l.* 11*s.*, Charles Thorold, 45*l.* Rowland Wynn, 47*l.* 14*s.*, and Christopher Willoughby, 24*l.* 6*s.* (2¼ p.p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 5, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Ibid., p. 234).

Drafts of two letters, one to Persia and one to Surat, are now read; the first is approved, and the latter is referred to the Committee for Writing Letters for alteration 'according to the sense of the present debate'. (¼ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 7, 1673 (Ibid., p. 235).

. On the petition of Jane Privet for the account of her husband, Captain John Privet, late commander of the London, to be reviewed, certain Committees are desired to do this. Examination and report to be made of the account of Quarles Brown, late Agent at Bantam. Sir Thomas Bludworth states, on behalf of himself and the rest of the owners of the Unicorn, that according to intimation received provision had been made for fifty passengers to be taken in the said ship to St. Helena, but only forty were sent aboard, and no opportunity given to dispose of the surplus provisions prepared, by which the owners were much 'damned'; the matter is referred for consideration. On information that Lord Berkeley has sold an adventure of 250*l.* to Elizabeth Hill, and that the latter has not paid the 5*l.* for admittance as an adventurer, order is given for that amount to be put to her account and deducted from the next dividend. The request of Sir William Warren and Mr. Wood for demurrage for several ships which came from India last summer and stayed at Portsmouth, etc., is referred to the Shipping Committee. The owners of the John and Margaret [Martha in the margin] to be paid some money due to them from the late Henry Anderson. The transfer of an adventure of 125*l.* made in September last by Mary Bathurst to the late Dame Penelope Dynham, and accepted by her solicitor, is allowed. Archibald Clinkard to be paid 700*l.* for the Canary Bird 'her apparel and furniture' sold to the Company. The sum of 10*l.* due to the late John Comber for his dividend of 20 per cent the 8th instant to be paid to Charles Aston, his assignee. A warrant is tendered to the Court for payment of 112*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* to Michael Dunkin for interest of 1,700*l.*, being what the adventurers in the United Joint Stock have credit for in the General Books; hereupon certain Committees are desired to ascertain and report whether any interest is payable for the said money before payment is made. INSTRUCTIONS TO THE EARL OF SUNDERLAND, SIR LEOLINE JENKINS, AND SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, EXTRAORDINARY AMBASSADORS FOR HIS MAJESTY FOR THE TREATY OF PEACE, WHITEHALL, MAY 7, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Foreign Entry Book, vol. lxiv, p. 94).

The principal points We shall insist upon beyond the particular ones relating to general amity, commerce, etc., are these following:

1. To have that honour in the future paid to the flag of England, which hath been practised and acknowledged by them in all former times. . . .
2. A million pounds sterling to reimburse Us in some part the expenses We have been at in making the war. . . .
3. Ten thousand pounds per annum as an honorary acknowledgement for the great benefit that Republic reaps for the fishing on Our coasts, and two thousand [pounds] more per annum for the like liberty they enjoy upon the coast of Our kingdom of Scotland. 4. To suffer Our subjects to depart without delay out of the colony of Surinam, where they have been unjustly detained by them hitherto, contrary to the peace of Breda. 5. A regulation of the trade in India, etc., wherein great violence and vexatious grievances are exercised upon Our subjects by those of the United Netherlands. . . . 11. After you have adjusted the points relating to our interests with the Ministers of the States-General, according to the 2nd article of these Our instructions, you shall apply yourselves to treat with them apart upon the body of articles relating to the commerce, pursuant to those delivered to you at Our committee of Foreign Affairs. . . . 12. . . . We could wish that at the same time the peace shall be made upon the heads expressed in the 2nd article of these instructions, there were likewise a treaty of commerce admitted of, according to the project you carry with you, but because that may be looked upon as a thing which will take up much time and so retard the peace, We leave it to your choice upon the place whether you will insist upon it there, or in an article condition the sending commissioners hither to London, within a limited time, and make use of that argument to strengthen your demands of cautionary towns, but, if on the other side you find it easy to obtain, under that head, a regulation of the trade in the East Indies, the securing those three points always wished for by the East India Company, viz.: That the Dutch shall make no treaties in the Indies to exclude Our subjects from the trade there. That no forts they shall build in any parts shall exclude them from the trade with the people of those countries. That no declaration of war on their side shall exclude Our subjects from trade with those countries otherwise than to besieged towns. If, We say, any such one article can be easily obtained, including these foregoing points and comprehended in the first treaty of peace, you shall use your utmost endeavours to obtain it. If otherwise, We are content it be also reserved to a treaty of commerce . . . By His Majesty's command, signed Arlington.

ORDER OF COUNCIL, MAY 23, 1673 (Public Record Office: Privy Council Register, vol. lxiv, p. 24).

Sir Edward Winter's petition is read, representing that His Majesty was graciously pleased on April 9 last to grant a day for hearing the differences between Sir Edward and the East India Company, which has hitherto been deferred by reason of greater and more weighty affairs intervening, which delay has caused great damage and expense to the petitioner. It is now ordered that the differences between the said parties be heard on Wednesday, May 28, at 9 o'clock in the morning, at which time Sir Edward, the East India Company or their Agent George Foxcroft, Jeremy Sambrooke, and all others concerned are to attend.

All buyers who paid in their money in time, to be given the allowance for prompt payment. The Committee for Lawsuits to make such agreement with Samuel Stephens as they deem right. JOHN PAIGE TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, MAY 26, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 335, no. 219).

To-day we have received confirmation of the sad news of the taking of our island of St. Helena by the Dutch. Last July our Company sent out a man-of-war of 36 guns and 400 tons, with 120 seamen and 75 soldiers, carrying 40 barrels of gunpowder, 30 great guns and 150 muskets with other ammunition, to fortify the island, with ironwork, timber, etc. She arrived there November 16 last, and about December 20 appeared four ships, which proved to be men-of-war belonging to the Dutch East India Company, which left Amsterdam in April, 1672, for Cape Bona Speranza, where they took in some soldiers. The Admiral had 40 and the others 36 and 32 guns, and a pinnace of 16. They immediately attacked our man-of-war and castle, who defended themselves with much resolution, and forced them to leave the Road. Two days after they went to another place, and landed some men, and were there twice repulsed. In the meantime arrived a French ship of 22 guns from India, and another of the Company's of 26 guns, but their men were so sickly and weak they added very little to our strength. The Dutch continued their daily alarms and landing for ten days, till our men were quite harassed and tired out for want of rest, so that on New Year's Day they landed 400 men, and took one of ours prisoner, who confessed to them the strength of the island. We, having not above 170 fighting men, were forced to retire to our fort which they doubted they could not keep, so they embarked, both men, women, and children, and carried away what provision and ammunition were in the fort, spiking the guns, and went to Brazil to refresh, where they hired a nimble Portuguese frigate to ply off the island, and give our India ships notice of its being taken, though I fear she will be chased away by the Dutch, and so our twelve ships expected from India, which are worth 400,000*l.* or 500,000*l.*, may be in great danger of being surprised. A more particular relation is sent to Lord Arlington. . . .

REPRESENTATION OF THE COMPANY TO THE PLENIPOTENTIARIES AT COLOGNE, MAY 27, 1673 (Home Miscellaneous, vol. xlii, p. 245).

Having received advice by their ships, the Humphrey and Elizabeth and the Surat Merchant, lately arrived at Plymouth from St. Helena, they feel constrained to inform Their Excellencies that on December 20 four of the Dutch East India ships, the Frayhead, Paulsbrook, Gottenburgh, and one small vessel which left the Netherlands about April or May, 1672, arrived in the road of St. Helena at the usual landing place and attacked their fortifications and one of their ships in the Road for some hours, but finding it too hot for them they desisted and attempted the island in other places, and were beaten off several times. But about

December 31 and January 1 they landed about 400 men 'in a private place', and the Company's men being spent with continual watching and labour, the enemy gained the hills and took possession of the island, the fort not being tenable to the landward. The Governor and people retreated on board the Humphrey and Elizabeth and the Surat Merchant, who during the fight had come into the Road in a weak condition with a French vessel from Bantam. What other loss may succeed the Company know not, but they are fearful for their ships that touch at the island on their homeward voyage. They also have doubts about the ships sent thither by His Majesty whether they will arrive too late (having been detained so long) either to recover the island or secure the expected ships. They entreat Their Excellencies to keep their concerns in remembrance as to the restitution of this island, or any other place, ships, or goods the Dutch may have taken. They are informed the Dutch have destroyed several French ships, and that the French King intends to insist on restitution; and though what concerns him may be inconsiderable, and he may decline to take any steps, the Company hope Their Excellencies will insist on his doing so, 'as the interest of the kingdom, being we desire it may be reciprocal'. Signed John Banks, Governor. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 28, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 242).

It being moved on behalf of John Fenn for the business depending between the Company and Mr. Paige to be concluded, Mr. Canham is desired to treat with those concerned for the security and advantage of the Company; and two other Committees with the assistance of Moses are to consider how a legal assignment may be obtained from Paige of his interest in the goods belonging to Mr. Cooke. Mr. Canham is also desired to make some agreement with Major Grant, who proposes to reveal some concealed estate belonging to the Company, provided he may have half of it for his pains. Thomas Winter states that a solicitor is at the door with something from Sir Edward Winter; the solicitor is called in and delivers a paper containing the following proposal; that in the treaty between Sir Edward and the Company the latter shall make no objection to the imprisoning of Mr. Foxcroft and the continuing of the government of Fort St. George by Sir Edward during the said imprisonment, for Sir Edward conceives that in this he did nothing but what his duty and loyalty obliged. If this is allowed by the Company,

Sir Edward will be ready to nominate some persons to consider what just satisfaction should be made to him. But if the Company do not agree to it then Sir Edward will apply to the King and Council. The Court reply that, if Sir Edward had made an overture to compose the difference between himself and the Company in an amicable way they would have listened, but his proposal being wholly exclusive of anything of the sort they do not think fit to answer it. The request of Mr. Moore 'touching a light which he desires leave to make out' is referred for consideration. The account of John Dowse to be examined. The gratuity of thirty guineas to Captain Langston to be paid to Sir James Edwards. William Blennerhayset is admitted to the freedom by redemption. ( $2\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, MAY 30, 1673 (Ibid., p. 244).

Payment to be made according to a report now read and approved to John Dowse, late a writer at Bantam. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 2, 1673 (Ibid., p. 245).

Letters received this morning overland from Fort St. George, Bombay, Surat, and Gombroon are read. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 4, 1673 (Ibid., p. 245).

Seamen belonging to the Humphrey and Elizabeth to be paid their wages, but no officer above the rank of quartermaster to be paid until further order. The Committee for Lawsuits to direct Moses how to prepare an answer to Mr. Blake's bill by Monday next. The Shipping Committee to examine and report concerning the mutinies raised and fomented by Mr. Noakes and others at St. Helena. A written proposal from Sir Edward Winter delivered by his brother Thomas is read; in it Sir Edward states that he is willing to choose two Committees and for the Company to choose two more, and if these four can compose the difference between himself and the Company and their decision meets with his approval he is ready to acquiesce in it, but if he cannot agree with their decision then he desires that the matter may be brought before the Lord Chancellor and left wholly to his decree. The Court reply that as this proposal is contrary to the nature of arbitration it would be but expense of time to little or no purpose to consider it. Thomas Winter asking for the proposal to be returned, order is given for him to have a copy, and the Governor is desired to communicate the original to the Lord Chancellor. Certain Committees to endeavour to get some rebate of the assessment of the Company's house from the Commissioners for Appeals. Mrs. Davidge to be given a warrant for her dividend. (1 $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 6, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 247).

The following proposal from Sir Edward Winter for ending all differences between himself and the Company is read, viz.: That the matter be referred to four Committees, two to be chosen by himself and two by the Company, these four to hear both parties, and, if they agree in their decision, then it is to be put to Sir Edward and the Company for their approbation, and in case the Company or Sir Edward shall not approve, then it shall be referred to the determination of the Lord Chancellor. Hereupon the Court desire certain Committees to confer with Sir Edward and report as to the security he is prepared to give for standing to such award as shall be made. The request of James Hayes for some abatement of interest charged him for late payment for long-cloth is referred to the Committee for Debts. On information that many of the inhabitants of St. Helena who came home in the Company's ships are in great want, the Court direct the Shipping Committee to give them such relief as they think needful. (1 p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 6, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Ibid., p. 248).

The Company's answer to Mr. Blake's bill in Chancery is read and several amendments made, and the Court resolve that when it is engrossed Moses shall present it to the Treasury Committee for the Company's seal to be affixed. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

THE COMPANY'S MEMORIAL TO THE KING TOUCHING ST. HELENA, JUNE, 1673 (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 271).<sup>1</sup>

Having lately presented their humble addresses to His Majesty that among other things it might be provided in the present treaty for all losses and damages which either Company have sustained by or from the other in any parts or places within the limits of their respective charters since the peace concluded at Breda in 1667, to be satisfied and made good to the Company that have suffered the same by the other Company who have done the damage. And for the adjusting thereof, that it may be mutually agreed that on demand made by either Company for reparation of such damages on or before March 1, 1674 (which demand shall be made in writing by the English Company of and from the States-General, and by the Dutch Company of and from us) four Commissioners or arbitrators shall be chosen, two on behalf of the English Company, and two by the States-General on behalf of the Dutch Company, who shall meet in London on or before June 1, 1675, to hear, examine and determine the same, and shall give in their award in writing on or before September 1, 1675. And in case of the non-agreement of the said arbitrators, the said damages shall be considered and determined in London by an indifferent umpire on behalf of both Companies on or before November 1, 1675, the said umpire to give in his award on or before February 1, 1675-6. And the Company having now received advice that the Dutch have lately by force of arms taken from them the island of St. Helena, they most humbly pray His Majesty to send instructions to the Plenipotentiaries that the said island and all things belonging to it may be immediately redelivered to them in as good a condition as it was when surprised by the Dutch. (1 p.)

THE KING TO [THE AMBASSADORS AT COLOGNE], JUNE 9, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Entry Book 31, f. 112).

Directing that, in the treaty with the States-General, it be provided that all losses and damages sustained by the English East India Company and the Dutch East India Company, at the hands of each other in any places within the limits of their respective charters since the peace of Breda, be satisfied to the Company that has suffered the same by the other, such losses and damages to be ascertained by arbitration in manner therein mentioned, and in case they cannot prevail for such mutual satisfaction, they shall at least endeavour to obtain the mutual restitution of all places taken by one Company from the other since the said treaty, and that if they should also fail in this, they are to insist on the restitution of the island of St. Helena, and that it be redelivered in as good condition as it was when the Dutch surprised it.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JUNE 11, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 248).

Sir Andrew Riccard having bequeathed 100*l.* to the Company for their poor at Poplar, to be paid within one year after his death and added to the Almshouse stock, and Lady Riccard, the executrix, being ready to pay the said sum if given, a receipt, the Treasury Committee are desired to affix the Company's seal to an acquittance for that money, which is to be put to the credit of the account of the said Almshouse at Poplar. Sir Edward Winter declares that he is willing to give bond in from four to ten thousand pounds penalty for performing the award that shall be made pursuant to his proposal of the 6th instant; he then names two of the Committees to act as arbitrators, and the Company name another two, and Sir Edward proposes that they shall be allowed two months to decide, and in case they cannot do so, that the Lord Chancellor shall have the following month in which to come to a decision; to this the Court consent, and resolve that the bonds shall be for ten thousand pounds penalty. The account of the late John Beck to be examined, and the relationship between the deceased and Anne and Abigail Beck ascertained, and what power the latter have to receive the money. The account of Henry Winnicus to be examined. (17 $\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

John Paige requests that the box of writings he delivered into Court on July 12 last containing the lease of the rectory of Eltham and the mortgage from himself and Mr. Comport to Mr. Barham, trustees for John Russel, to remain with the Company till the money due thereon should be paid, and then 500*l.* placed in the Company's cash as security for the said John Russel, may now be delivered to the Treasury Committee; to this the Court consent and desire the said Committee to see that the 500*l.* is duly received into the Company's cash, and five per cent interest allowed on

HUMPHREY EDWIN TO EPHRAIM SKINNER AND COMPANY AT LEGHORN, JUNE 23, 1673 (Home Miscellaneous, vol. xxxvi, p. 43).

The Company being informed that Matthew Plowman, formerly a broker in London, is now in Leghorn, they have directed Edwin to acquaint Skinner and Company with the case between them and the said Plowman, the facts of which are as follows: In April, 1672, Plowman bought of the Company 430 bags of Jambi pepper and 23 bags of Billiapatam<sup>1</sup> pepper, 255 bags of which have been cleared and taken away by Lewis Deliveir, and 30 bags by John Holeman, so that 100 bags still remain of Jambi at 17*d.* per lb., and 68 bags at 16½*d.* per lb., of which pepper Plowman declared both to the Committees and to Edwin that he bought it for the account of Mr. Deliveir's two brothers, except 10 bags, and that they would clear it accordingly. But pepper falling in price, and Plowman fearing the Company would take some course with him, he went to Cambridge, whither Joseph Deliveir followed and agreed to give him 150*l.* to take the pepper upon his account. About December last Joseph Deliveir went from London to Woodstock where Plowman met him, and there eighty guineas was paid and bills delivered for the remainder, and Plowman wrote to the Company that he had unadvisedly bought the remainder of the pepper for his own account. The Deputy will write and inform Plowman of his desires on behalf of the Company. (¾ p.)

THE COMPANY TO ROBERT LANG AND COMPANY [AT MARSEILLES], JULY 14, 1673 (Letter Book, vol. v, p. 52).

Hope they have received the packet for Consul Nightingale dispatched the 7th instant. They now send a small one, also for the Consul, and pray that it may be speedily forwarded. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

THE COMPANY TO CONSUL NIGHTINGALE [AT ALEPPO], JULY 14, 1673 (Ibid., p. 52).

On the 7th instant they sent him a packet by way of Marseilles, and now enclose a small letter to their Agent and Council at Fort St. George, which if it arrives before dispatch of the former he is to send to Persia, but if the first packet has been already dispatched, then this is to be kept until another packet comes. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JULY 25, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 262).

Edmund Dethick is admitted to the freedom by redemption and Robert Maisters by service. Mr. Nicholas stating that on asking Sambrook for some calicoes bought at the last sale by Mr. Wagstaff, he was told that there are none, and Samuel Shute making a similar complaint and asking for allowance on piece-goods badly packed, the matter is referred to the Committee for the Calico Warehouse to adjust. The owners of the Surat Merchant to be paid for freight and demurrage. Messrs. Cossen and Rowse to examine the account of Michael Dunkin. Harbert, his clerks and assistants are told not to show the Company's books to buyers or others without a special order from the Court. Thomas Winter to be allowed interest at the rate of 6 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent on some money he paid last May for longcloth. The petition of the inhabitants of Poplar and Blackwall touching Mary Harper, lately come from St. Helena, who with her three children is in their precincts and may become chargeable to them is referred to the Committee for Shipping and Plantations. An indenture of covenants is read, by which Mr. Langham and Mrs. Vincent transfer 500*l.* to the Company as security, and the Court appoint two of the Committees to act as their trustees, put their names to the said indenture, and see that the Company's seal is affixed to the counterpart. A report touching the demands of John Fenn is read and approved. Ordered that no goods or merchandise bought of the Company and lodged in their warehouses shall be sold there by any warehousekeeper or by any of their assistants. Several complaints having been made by buyers of Samuel Sambrook, Junior, for trading in calicoes, etc., the Court desire the Committee for the Calico Warehouse to ascertain and report concerning this. The account of the Surat Merchant to be stated. Captain Matthew Crover, commander of the Mary, to be given 20*l.*, and the officers and men in his ship a month's pay for their care and courage in the action with the Dutch caper, which occurred on the homeward voyage. Captain Gaich, commander of the Advice, to be allowed 5*l.* for fresh provisions, and be permitted to come to England after two years stay in the Indies, or sooner, if his health requires it, the Agent and Council at Bantam to be advised accordingly. ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PLENIPOTENTIARIES AT COLOGNE, WHITEHALL, JULY 28, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Foreign Entry Book, vol. lxiv, p. 115).

To the 5th article We have thought fit to add a mutual restitution of goods taken, and satisfaction for damages sustained respectively by the English and Dutch East India Companies from each other, as is more particularly expressed in Our letters and instructions to you bearing date the 9th of June last, which said demand of mutual restitution of goods you are to insist upon, if it may be obtained, yet not so as to break off the treaty thereupon. But We do positively require you to insist upon a mutual restitution of places taken, or which shall be taken before the conclusion of the peace from each Company respectively, and especially that the island of St. Helena, and Fort St. George be restored to Our East India Company in as good condition as they were when taken. . . . By His Majesty's command. Signed Arlington.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, JULY 30, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 265).

The stationers' bills to be examined. A bill of exchange from the Agent and Council of Bantam, payable to Captain Francis Johnson, is read and accepted. Payment to be made to Henry Papworth according to a report now read. The petition of John Codrington is referred for consideration. Certain Committees to ascertain and report concerning the powder sent in the John and Margaret to Bantam. It being observed that many of the Committees are going into the country so that it will become difficult to get a full Court, and the Company's ships being expected from India, which will cause many things to be done requiring the authority of a full Court unless the Company's business is to suffer; order is given for a Court to be summoned from time to time, as occasion shall arise by direction of the Governor or Deputy, and in their absence, by one or more of the Committees, and in case there shall not be a full Court, then seven or more are hereby appointed to be a sub-committee, who are desired and authorized to do all business that shall be required, and give such directions as they shall think fit to the Company's officers, who are hereby instructed to receive and act on these as if they were given by a full Court. NATHANIEL HERNE TO WILLIAM BRIDGEMAN,<sup>1</sup> AUGUST 1, 1673 (Home Miscellaneous, vol. xlii, p. 245).

In accordance with Lord Arlington's command the Deputy Governor writes to remind Bridgeman of the Company's concerns, and begs him to desire His Lordship to recommend to the Plenipotentiaries at Cologne the articles for mutual restitution between the English and Dutch Companies, not only of places, but of ships and goods. 1. The restitution of places, it is apprehended, will be of less moment both to the kingdom and to the English Company, but if the Dutch destroy the English Company's stock in India it would be not only a present loss to the adventurers, but the consequences could hardly be retrieved in many years, for by this means the Dutch would be masters of the pepper and saltpetre trade, the profits of which would enable them to wage war with any princes, and cause disappointment to His Majesty by the loss of saltpetre. 2. If the Dutch Company are obliged to make restitution, it will prevent their injuring the English Company in the future and so procure the security and enlargement of the latter's trade. 3. The restitution of the ships and estates of the English Company in the Indies would convince the natives that the Dutch suffered the disadvantage of the war, the which they endeavour to disprove; it will also give great reputation to His Majesty throughout India. 4. The English Company presume that now De Witt (who was a great friend to the Dutch Company) is dead, His Highness and the States-General will not obstruct the peace. 5. The restitution desired will be practicable, as the goods and ships taken in India have been appropriated to the use of the Dutch Company only, and not divided, and their value is well known. These reasons, with others which might be added, Herne doubts not, will justify the equity of the English Company's desires; he therefore entreats they may be represented to Lord Arlington. THE LORD-LIEUTENANT<sup>1</sup> AT DUBLIN CASTLE TO LORD ARLINGTON, AUGUST 5, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Ireland. Car. II. 334, no. 24).

... By the last letters I ordered Sir H. Ford to give Mr. Bridgeman a particular account of a fleet arrived at Kinsale, consisting of at least 40 East and West Indiamen. You may on this occasion offer to His Majesty's consideration how necessary it were that harbour were well fortified, for, had four or five of the Dutch privateers on this coast met and had intelligence of them, they might have burnt and taken all these ships. Their stay there was very short; had they continued there long enough to have sent to me, I would have ordered them a frigate or two more for their convoy. They went away with only the St. David, but the four East India ships being of good force I hope they will all get safe to England. . . .

If the packet sent him on July 14 still remains in his keeping they desire that it may now be forwarded with the enclosed by express. Tell him of the safe arrival at Kinsale of their four ships from Surat, the Golden Fleece, the Rainbow, Loyal Merchant, and Mediterranean. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 12, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 267).

A letter is read from Captain Peirce and the other commanders of the Surat ships, dated at Kinsale the 1st instant, and order given for directions to be sent them to come away with the St. David, if they cannot get any more convoy, and if the said ship has already gone, then they are to procure the convoy of any one or more of the other frigates that are or shall be in port, sail at the first opportunity and call at Plymouth for further orders. The Treasury Committee reporting that there is a bag of bad and counterfeit money, to the value of about 150*l.*, received at various times since the beginning of this Stock, they are told to dispose of this 'to the best advantage', and carry any loss accruing to the account of profit and loss. Mr. Dunkin owing a considerable sum of money to the Company, Sambrook is directed to go (with such others as he shall think fit) to Plaistow to speak with Dunkin and desire him either to pay his debt or give bond for it. (1 p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 15, 1673 (Ibid., p. 268).

By request, the Court consent to those acting as mediators in the business between the Company and Sir Edward Winter being allowed another month to decide and order new covenants and bonds to be entered into accordingly, and the Company's seal to be affixed to the counterparts. Mr. Rawlinson asking for the Court's approbation to the transfer of Mr. Martin's adventure to himself, the matter is referred for consideration. Orders made by the Committees at the two several meetings of the 7th and 9th instant are approved, and direction is given for these to be entered as orders of Court. Mr. Andrews offers the Falcon, lately bought in Holland, for service, and is told that when the Company want a ship his offer shall be considered; a like answer is given to Captain Bailly, who tenders the Surat Merchant. JOHN PAIGE TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, AUGUST 15, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 336, no. 255).

. . . Since my coming home little has offered worth your notice, save the good news of four of our East India ships being arrived at Kinsale. They came from Surat January 13 last, and arrived at St. Helena April 22, where, finding the island taken by the Dutch, the latter fired several guns from the fort at them, having never a Dutch ship in the Road. They were answered by our ships again, upon which they steered for Barbadoes, where they arrived June 9 and left June 17. I enclose the cargoes of three of them, both in English and French. The other is not yet come to hand. The four may be computed to be worth about 250,000*l.* We expect six more from the Coast of Coromandel, worth about 300,000*l.* God send them well. . . .

A GENERAL COURT, AUGUST 18, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 269).

The Deputy Governor informs the generality that they have been called together to be told of a letter received from the Lord Chancellor and the Lords Commissioners for Prizes, advising that His Majesty has a Dutch East India prize now sailing up the river, and wishes to have her cargo sold to the best advantage, and, having had experience of the conduct of the Company on a former occasion of this nature, the King is inclined to recommend the sale and disposition of the said ship and cargo to their management. Hereupon the generality declare their readiness to serve His Majesty in the sale and disposal of the goods in the said prize, and accordingly empower the Committees to transact the business in such a manner as may be best for the advantage of the King, and safety of the Company. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 18, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Ibid., p. 270).

On consideration of the vote passed this day by the generality, the Court resolve to make a representation to the Lord Commissioners for Prize Goods, to the following effect: That in conformity with their Lordships' commands, a General Court was summoned and the members told of the letter touching His Majesty's Dutch East India prize, and the desire that her sale should be undertaken by the Company. In this the generality declared their readiness to serve His Majesty, and empowered the Committees to transact the business. In pursuance of this resolution a Court of Committees was held, and they also declared their readiness to serve His Majesty in the matter, provided that directions are given for the same to be done to ensure the best advantage to His Majesty, and in accordance with the methods used in the Company's own sales and by their officers, and security given for charges to be disbursed and without prejudice to the Company by reason of any charter or commission given by the King or any under him, or any others for disposal of prize goods, and with such other conditions as may be convenient and secure for His Majesty and the Company. (1 p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 19, 1673 (Ibid., p. 271).

A letter to be written to Captain Munden to tell him that if he puts in to Ireland he is to take the first opportunity of a fair wind to come for the Channel with the Company's ships under his convoy, and call at Plymouth for further orders. Captain Gaich to be written to and told to stay at Plymouth with the Advice till further orders. A letter is also to be sent to Tilliard to enclose the Company's orders to Captain Gaich, a discharge from the Admiralty for his ship, and four protections for the Surat ships. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 22, 1673 (Ibid., p. 271).

Letters are read from Captain Munden and several of the commanders of the Coast ships, dated at Kinsale the 15th instant, also one from Captain Limbery, commander of the Experiment, dated in Batavia January 6, 1673. On reading a letter from Lord Arlington signifying His Majesty's pleasure that the Company should renew their orders to their respective Governors in the East Indies to assist the French East India Company, the Court issue directions for letters to be written to the President and Council at Surat, and to the Agent and Council at Fort St. George to this effect; the said letters are prepared and approved, also a letter to Lord Arlington in which they are to be enclosed. The Advice to remain at Plymouth until further order. Letters to be prepared to be sent overland to Surat to advise the President and Council of the arrival of the Coast ships under the convoy of Captain Munden, of the retaking of St. Helena, and the capture of three Dutch East India ships off that island by Captain Munden's squadron, and to direct them to tell all commanders to be very cautious (unless they are in company together) how they touch at the island, as it is not known what further attempts the Dutch may make against it. (1 p.)

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PLENIPOTENTIARIES AT COLOGNE, WHITEHALL, AUGUST 22, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Foreign Entry Book, vol. lxiv, p. 120).

. . . Whereas We did by Our respective letters bearing date the 9th of June and the 28th day of July last, direct and require you to insist, that in the treaty which shall be made with the States-General of the United Provinces it be provided for, that all losses and damages which the English and Dutch East India Companies have or should sustain by or from the other respectively, in any parts or places within the limits of their respective charters, since the peace concluded at Breda, 1667, shall be satisfied and made good unto the Company that have suffered the same by the other Company who have done them the damage. And also upon the mutual restitution of places taken or which might be taken before the conclusion of peace, from each Company respectively, and especially that the island of St. Helena, and Fort St. George should be restored to Our East India Company in as good a condition as they were when taken. And whereas We have now received certain information that Our said East India Company have received little or no damage either by the loss of ships, goods, or places, and that on the contrary it has pleased God to bless Our arms so far, that We have not only retaken the island of St. Helena, but also made considerable prizes of ships belonging to the Dutch East India Company infinitely exceeding what they can in any wise have taken from Our subjects, We have therefore thought fit to signify Our pleasure to you, and accordingly Our will and pleasure is, that you do only insist upon the mutual restitution of places in general in the East Indies, but not upon a reciprocal satisfaction of other losses, or damages sustained by either Company respectively, and absolutely refuse and reject any such proposition, if made to you by the Deputies or Plenipotentiaries of the said States-General, notwithstanding Our said letters of the 9th of June and anything contained in those of the 28th of July last. . . . By His Majesty's command. Signed Arlington.

JAMES HICKES TO SIR JOSEPH WILLIAMSON, AUGUST 22, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Dom., Car. II. 336, no. 277).

. . . To-day's letters from Dublin of the 18th and letters from Kinsale of the 15th relate that the 15th came in four men-of-war and one fire-ship . . . and East India ships of ours with them, Captain Fisher in the Berkeley Castle, Captain Bendell in the John, Captain Goodlad in the

Loyal Subject, Captain Baker in the Barnardiston, and Captain Mariner in the Rebecca, and East India prizes taken at St. Helena, the Alphen, Europe, and the Free Arms of Friezland (sic.), all laden with pepper, saltpetre, calico, and silks. . . .

THE COMPANY TO LORD ARLINGTON, AUGUST 23, 1673 (Public Record Office: C.O. 77, vol. xii, f. 272).

According to His Lordship's command they send their letters to their President at Surat and to their Agent at the Fort, in favour of the French. They have in several former letters recommended the same, and have heard from them that they have on all occasions acted according to these orders, 'although the French have not been so candid towards us'. For, at Surat the French insisted that the English ships should strike to theirs, which the President 'fairly avoided'. And by their last letters from Fort St. George they have received advice that the French General has seized two boats laden for account of the English, and the Ruby with her lading, belonging to Mr. Jearsey, one of the Company's factors, and refused to restore them, notwithstanding the request of the Agent. They therefore pray that His Lordship will obtain letters to the French officers desiring them to give no occasion for future differences, and to restore the ship and goods taken, that so the desired amity may be preserved entire on their parts, as it shall be by the Company. Signed Nathaniel Herne, Deputy. A MEETING OF THE COMMITTEES, AUGUST 25, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 272).

Captain Wildy offers the Phoenix for service; hereupon order is given for the Shipping Committee to treat with her owners and with the owners of other vessels, ascertain on what terms they will undertake a voyage to India, touching at some port by the way, also what terms were given to the last ten ships, and to others before them. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, AUGUST 27, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 273).

Mrs. Limbery and Mrs. Colliar requesting that some effectual means may be taken for the release of their husbands now prisoners in Batavia, the Governor and Deputy are desired to present an address to the King concerning them, and all other English that are or shall be taken prisoners. Certain proposals from the commanders of the Mary, Phoenix, and Expectation are read, stating the terms of the respective owners for letting the said ships to freight in the Company's service, but these being thought unreasonable they are returned. The Shipping Committee to consider and report what freight should be allowed this ensuing year, also what other conditions should be insisted upon between the Company and owners; they are likewise, with the help of the Plantations Committee, to report whether in their opinion it is advisable to transport a supply of victuals and other provisions necessary for St. Helena in ships to be engaged expressly for that purpose, or in the same ship in which a cargo and provisions are to be sent to Bombay; and what is fit to be sent to the latter place. Captain Nanfan offers the Lancaster for service, and refers himself to the Company as to terms; the Shipping Committee are desired to treat with him if occasion arise. The accounts of Thomas Clarke and Thomas Heyward to be examined. Orders made at the meeting of the Committees on the 25th instant are now confirmed. ( $1\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

They humbly pray that as His Majesty has been graciously pleased to discharge the prisoners in the Dutch East India prize, the Papenburgh, he will vouchsafe to recommend it to His Highness the Prince of Orange and to the States of Holland to give effectual orders to their East India Company for the speedy discharge of Captain William Limbery, Captain Jonas Collier, the officers and seamen in the Experiment and Hannibal, and all others in the English Company's service who are or shall be taken prisoners, and for a passport to be obtained for the Mary to go from hence to fetch them away. And, if it be desired, that His Majesty will be pleased to grant a similar passport to the Dutch. They also pray for leave to write to the Dutch Company, who have the management of the Dutch affairs in the Indies, to procure their orders for the effectual discharge of the said prisoners. A COURT OF COMMITTEES, SEPTEMBER 3, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 277).

On information that Mr. Temple has taken from Mrs. Knowles the ground adjoining the Company's warehouse at Leadenhall, with the intention of building stables there, which may prove dangerous to the Company, as well as to the City, in case of any accident by fire; two of the Committees are desired to approach the Committee for the City Lands that some effectual means may be taken to restrain any such building on that ground. Ordered that 20*l.* 'be made paid in cash', being so much disbursed for relief of the Dutch skipper and other prisoners belonging to the Papenburgh, and placed to His Majesty's account. William Rivet is admitted to the freedom by redemption, and the Honourable Charles Bertie is admitted gratis. The Advice remaining at Plymouth in expectation of orders, and it being necessary to send seasonable supplies to St. Helena and Bombay, the Court, judging it fit to take stock of the Company's affairs in order that they may resolve how to manage their trade in the Indies this next year, desire the Committees for Writing Letters and for Shipping and Plantations, or any five of them, to consider all this, and especially the number of ships, what cargo, and of what value, it is necessary to provide for export this next year to the respective factories, also the quantity of provisions, planters, and soldiers that should be dispatched to the said islands. They are likewise to consider what goods, their quantity and quality, should be set up for sale, and when; what elephants teeth should be bought, and anything else that concerns the Company's affairs in general; and send in a written report of their opinions. All members of this Court to be present at the debate of the said Committees, and secrecy to be strictly enjoined. (1 $\frac{1}{2}$  pp.)

THE COMPANY TO THE DIRECTORS OF THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIA COMPANY AT AMSTERDAM, SEPTEMBER 4, 1673 (Letter Book, vol. v, p. 65).

To acquaint them that when the Papenburgh was brought in they prayed His Majesty that all prisoners taken in her might be released. This was granted, and the Company directed their officer to visit and relieve all who were sick. They have also ordered their President and Chiefs in India to discharge all Dutch prisoners taken in the Mayboom, also any others who may fall into their hands, and will continue to apply to the King for the release of all Dutchmen taken during this war and doubt not of success. They desire and expect reciprocal kindness in the discharge of all English prisoners taken in the Hannibal and Experiment, and of all English taken prisoners during this war, for which purpose they request that an order to this effect may be sent with all speed to the General and Council at Batavia and to the other Dutch factories in the Indies. The prisoners at Batavia are so numerous that a ship must be dispatched to fetch them, therefore the Company desire a passport for a vessel to go and return in safety, and if the Dutch wish for a like passport it shall be given to them. ( $\frac{3}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, SEPTEMBER 5, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 278).

Richard Foote is admitted to the freedom by redemption. The request of Robert Maisters concerning some piece-goods he bought at the last sale with Mr. Lewes is referred to certain Committees. Consideration to be had how to dispose of the Advice Pinnacle at Plymouth; but should it be judged necessary to send her to the Bay letters and instructions are to be prepared accordingly. (½ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, OCTOBER 20, 1673 (Ibid., p. 304).

Sir Charles Littleton and His Majesty's other Sub-Commissioners for Prizes, with Mr. Nelthorp, present an order from the Lords Commissioners for Prizes touching the goods landed from the four Dutch ships, <sup>1</sup> Among the warrants is one signed for 4*l.* 6*s.* and one for 100*l.*, both 'to be made paid in cash'.

now in the Company's possession, and desire permission to execute it. The Court, after consideration of their request and of a letter received from Their Lordships to the Governor and Deputy, now read, reply that the required directions shall be given to the Company's officers, but if agreeable to their Lordships, the Court desire that all the goods may be delivered to the Sub-Commissioners by weight and tale, as they were received, and that Committees shall attend Their Lordships concerning the adjustment of allowances to be made on the said goods. The Sub-Commissioners report that the Company's officers have knocked off some padlocks put on the warehouse doors in the African House; upon this Sambrook is questioned and says that he found a padlock hung on the wicket of the outer door of the said House and caused it to be taken off when he came to set the watch for guard of the warehouses, but the other locks were still there. At the request of Mr. Nelthorp, he is given a copy of the Company's discounts at the two last sales. The respective warehousekeepers are directed to proceed with sifting and garbling the pepper and indigo belonging to the King; they are also told to allow Mr. Nelthorp, his partners, and some of the Sub-Commissioners to go into the warehouses and cellars, set apart what quantities of goods they desire, and adjust the allowances usual in the Company's sales; of all which the Sub-Commissioners are to inform Their Lordships, who will order payment of the money due on the goods before delivery, and on their delivery to Mr. Nelthorp and his partners, the Sub-Commissioners are to give the Company a receipt. The Court agree upon an answer to be returned to the letter of the 16th instant from the Lords Commissioners 'which is entered in the King's book'. Resolved to send the Advice Pinnace direct to the Bay, and that letters to the Chief and Council there be prepared accordingly. (1¼ pp.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, OCTOBER 22, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 305).

The petition of Sarah Camel is referred for consideration. The Deputy Governor announces a proposal made by the King, viz.: that the Company shall have the prize goods from the four ships if they will give 33,700*l.* more than the price mentioned in the Privy Seal to Mr. Nelthorp; that this was intimated to him by Sir Robert Southwell late last night, and that His Majesty expects an answer this day. After consideration the Court agree upon an answer to be written to Sir Robert (which is entered in the King's book, p. 51) and desire certain Committees to accompany the Deputy Governor to Whitehall to wait on His Majesty touching the said proposal. ( $\frac{1}{2}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, OCTOBER 23, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Ibid., p. 307).

A postscript, to be added to the letter written in the morning to Sir Robert Southwell, is agreed upon, and entered in the King's book, p. 51. ( $\frac{1}{4}$  p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, OCTOBER 24, 1673 (Ibid., p. 307).

The Deputy Governor announces that the answer to Sir Robert Southwell was read yesterday to the King, who was pleased to signify his pleasure for the Company to have the prize goods on paying 33,700*l.* more than mentioned in Mr. Nelthorp's contract, and in the manner following: 50,000*l.* to be paid next Thursday, 50,000*l.* more on the following Thursday, and the remainder on November 13 next. Hereupon order is given for the Treasury Committee to be desired to provide the said money accordingly. Order is also to be given for the speedy sifting of the pepper and garbling of indigo, that these may be ready, with all other goods from the warehouses, for sale and for the tares to be adjusted, and whatever else is necessary for quick dispatch of the business. The following sorts of pepper to be set up for sale: pepper returned in the Advance and Expectation, Malabar pepper returned in the Golden Fleece and Rainbow, Billiapatam pepper returned in the Mediterranean, and white pepper returned in the Satisfaction and Advance. Resolved that a general court of sales be held on November 3 next. All calicoes for sale to be priced not lower than the last were valued at, and as speedily as possible. No more writers for India to be entertained this year. Payment to be made to James Hopkins, and the account of Samuel Tutchin to be reported. Charles Aston is admitted to the freedom gratis. Several pieces of calico and other things sent to Mrs. Mohun by her husband to be delivered free of fine. (1 $\frac{1}{4}$  pp.)

A GENERAL COURT, OCTOBER 24, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 309).

The Deputy Governor acquaints the generality that in accordance with their order of August 18 last for sale and disposal of the King's prize goods taken in the Papenburgh, the Committees applied themselves to that business, but while doing so three other Dutch prizes were brought in and committed to their care to be disposed of for His Majesty. Articles of agreement were being prepared to be entered into between the Lords Commissioners for Prizes and the Company, but before these were concluded the King thought fit to dispose of the goods by private contract to Mr. Nelthorp and his partners. This 'having taken air', and it being given out that the goods were sold for less by 33,700*l.* than they would have been offered at by the Company at their sale, the King sent the following proposal to the Governor and Committees, viz.: that if the Company would give 33,700*l.* more for the said goods than Mr. Nelthorp had agreed to, they should have them 'to avoid publique clamour'. The Court replied that they never desired to buy the goods, only to sell them to the best advantage for His Majesty, yet they were willing that he shall have not less than 33,700*l.* more than was offered by Mr. Nelthorp, and, if the goods produce more than that, then His Majesty shall have the advantage, and if less, then the Company will bear the loss. This 'found His Majesty's gracious acceptance', but he insisted on an advance on account of the goods to supply his 'pressing occasions', and to have 50,000*l.* on the 30th instant, 50,000*l.* more on November 6, and the remainder on November 13 next. The Committees who waited on the King said that they would communicate His Majesty's wishes to the generality and did not doubt but that they would agree to them. The Deputy Governor states that the King's proposal came to him very late Tuesday night and an answer was required the next morning, so there was no time to call a general court until now, and the Court thought that the answer they gave would be of service to the King and no inconvenience to the Company. After some consideration the generality declare unanimously, by erection of hands, their approval of what had been done, and, the question being put by ballot whether the money should be advanced to His Majesty in the proportions and at the times mentioned, it passed in the affirmative, nemine contradicente. (1½ pp.)

You are to permit the landing of all the small plunder belonging to the seamen that brought home the three East India prizes: taking care that under this pretence nothing belonging to the hold or bread rooms of said ships be landed. The East India goods taken out of said prizes, and now in the King's warehouse, are to be delivered to the proprietors, who have entered same and paid the duty.

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, OCTOBER 28, 1673 (AFTERNOON) (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 310).

A letter from Sir Robert Southwell is read, in which he states that the Lords Commissioners have appointed to-morrow morning for sealing the Articles in the Council Chamber. Hereupon order is given for the Treasury Committee to be desired to take the Company's seal to be affixed to one part of the said Articles, and certain of the Committees are requested to accompany the Deputy Governor at the time appointed. Mr. Backhouse, a fellow of St. John's, Oxford, and one Mr. Lewis are recommended as chaplains for St. Helena, and certain of the Committees are desired to ascertain and report their respective abilities and qualifications. Prices fixed for calicoes and taffetas are approved. The Committee for Private Trade to give directions to Sprigg about the delivery of musk and other unprohibited goods mentioned in the Company's bill of lading, care to be taken that the permission, custom, and other duties are first paid. No more money to be taken up at interest by the Treasury Committee until further order, and for what has been already received on loan, bills are to be sealed at as short a time as possible. (¾ p.)

A COURT OF COMMITTEES, NOVEMBER 1, 1673 (Court Book, vol. xxviii, p. 213).

The Committee for Sambrook's Warehouse to price and allot His Majesty's goods, cause papers for their sale to be printed, and give all necessary directions so that the goods may be ready to be viewed. . . . As for the article of the regulation of trade in the East Indies, We will be content, that it be referred to a determination by commissioners appointed on both sides, as it was in the treaty of Breda, in case you shall find the obstinacy of the Dutch be such, as they will not make the peace in the manner you first proposed it. . . . THE DEPUTIES OF THE DUTCH EAST INDIA COMPANY TO THE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY, THE HAGUE, NOVEMBER 24, 1673 (Public Record Office: S.P. Holland, vol. 194, p. 142).

Acknowledge their letter of the 4th instant and thank them for their declared intention to deliver the books, writings, and papers found in the four ships. State their readiness to do the same with any belonging to the English Company that have or may hereafter come into their possession on being authorized and told to whom to deliver them. Consent willingly to give the required passport, but think that as proposed it will not give the required tranquility and security, so are inclined to strengthen it by sending with it a passport from the States and from the Prince of Orange. This will allow the going to Bantam and returning to England within and without the limits of their respective charters or grants. They expect to receive a similar passport from His Majesty, or from those to whom the grants belong, which will also allow of going to and returning from Batavia. Wish that Almighty God may direct affairs in such wise that they may have occasion, according to their inclination, to demonstrate more friendship to the English Company, and cultivate more and more their ancient correspondence. Signed Alexander Munny, Adrian Boogaert, Jeronimo De Haze, Corn. Graafland. (1 $\frac{3}{4}$  pp.)

Relation of the Re-taking of the Island of St. Helena and three Dutch East-India Ships.

(British Museum 8122, i. 38 (8).)

On the 4th of May last in the Morning, We came in sight of the Isle of St. Helena; in two hours after, We had concluded what to do, for the re-taking of the Island, and Ordered 200 Men, with Field-Colours and Officers, appointed to be put on Board a Vessel, out of which they might be Landed, whilst We attacked the Ships in the Road, in case there should be any there; About 11, in the Forenoon, the Assistance Fregat made Sayl, lay to till the Evening, and came in to Us in the Night; The next Morning about seven of the clock, all our Ships being to Windward of the Isle about five Miles, Our Boat came on Board and told us, That the Road was clear, so We immediately put 200 Men more on Board the Castle Fireship, and left her and the other Vessel to Land our 400 men, to Windward of the Island, in Prosperous Bay; The four Men of War, made sayl for the Forts, against which We Anchored about one in the Afternoon, and after four hours Dispute, went to the Westward and there let go our Anchor again, being confident our Men must be Landed, and Gained the Hills before that time, and that by the next Morning We might expect them on the back of the Forts, against which time it was resolved, to have the William and Thomas, and one ship more, close under the Fort. The Dutch no sooner saw us come up again, and that We did not intend to leave them, but they came off and yielded the Island, upon condition That they might not be stripped, which We accepted they not yet knowing of any Army that We had Landed; At Sun-set We took Possession of James Fort, and dispatched a Trumpet to Captain Keigwin, Commander of our Land Force, to acquaint him with what had passed, to prevent any Injury that might be done to the Isle by our Men, in their March to the Fort, On the eleventh, between seven and eight in the Evening, a Ship appeared in sight, with a Flag aloft, which We cut after, and by eleven at night, came up with her, and took her, which proved one of the Dutch East-India Fleet, sent before with the new Governor for St. Helena. On the 26 early in the Morning, We saw our Flags on the Mount hoisted, which gave us an account that there were six sayle in sight; About ten in the forenoon We had Advice, that four were coming one way, and two the other, who immediately appeared in sight, at both ends of the Island; They no sooner saw us, but clapped by a wind, and We after them; The Assistance, the William and Thomas, and the Castle Fireship to the Eastward, one Merchant Man, after Four, The Mary and Mariha with two Merchant Men, to the Westward, after two, but it being a very hard Gale, We could do nothing on them, At night the Assistance got up with their Vice-Admiral, and the William and Thomas Their Admiral, whom they kept company all night, and the 27 in the Morning took them, but not in company one with the other, every Ship steering his own course, believing by that, to lose us. The said four Men of War, Fireship, and three Dutch East-India Prizes together with five English East-India Ships, who came in Company with the Men of War, are since safely arrived.
